DUNLAP, RUSSEL SENT TO PRISON IN BANK CRASH

Get 18 Month Terms, $5,000 Fines.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—More than twoscore years ago two young men of about the same age started up the path of business together at Jacksonville, Ill. Today they were sentenced here to travel a different sort of road together—the one to prison.

From 1891 until 1927 Andrew Russel and Millard Fillmore Dunlap were closely associated in banking at Jacksonville. Their last big property was the Ayers National bank of that city, which crashed in November, 1932. The situation disclosed then and later has been called the worst downstate smash in the history of the state.

Prison Terms and Fines.

Prosecution was slow, but it came to an end today with pleas of nolo contendere and the imposition of penalties by Judge Charles Briggle in the United States District court here—a prison sentence of eighteen months and a fine of $5,000 for each of the defendants.

"Andy" Russel is now 78 years old. "Fill" Dunlap, whose nickname was taken from his middle name, is 77. For four decades their lives have played an important part in the history of central Illinois.

Russel chose to be a Republican and was elected to state office three times, twice as state treasurer, in 1909 and 1915, and once as auditor in 1920. He also held an appointive office, that of membership on the board of pardons and paroles, a fact that now raises ironic comment.

Dunlap Democratic Leader.

Dunlap chose the Democratic party and rose to be treasurer of that party's national committee. For years it was a question which of the two, Russel or Dunlap, was the greater political power in Morgan county, but Russel was more active in routine politics, while Dunlap concentrated on a few specific objectives. For many years he was a close associate of Speaker Henry T. Rainey, who hails from his district, and was given much of the credit for holding that veteran in his seat.

It also is said that the operation of the Demo-Republican combine was exemplified by the repeated election of Mr. Rainey, for Russel's activities in congressional matters were seldom noticeable in his home district and seldom has a particularly strong Republican candidate entered the lists there.

Both Community Leaders.

Both took part in the affairs of their community. When the Ayers National bank fell into trouble it had several varieties of public funds—state, local, college, and also those of a fraternal order of which Dunlap was state treasurer.

Both men were members of pioneer Morgan county families. The Dunlaps were of "country gentlemen" stock, and Dunlap long was regarded as Jacksonville's "first citizen" both from an industrial and social standpoint. Russel, however, was the more companionable, and the more personally popular of the two men.

Russel Father of Nine.

Russel has a family of nine children and numerous grandchildren. The daughter lives at home, has been her father's associate in business and has stood by him throughout his legal difficulties.

The families always were on intimate terms and even after the business estrangement the general public knew of no rift.

The break between the two men never has been explained publicly. The parting of the ways, however, was followed by immense bank overdrafts by Russel. So large were these that the total passed the million dollar mark, although by this time Dunlap supposedly was in complete control of the bank.

Still Far Apart.

In the final court scene today the two men were still apart. Russel was represented by Attorney C. J. Doyle of Springfield, former Republican state chairman, and Dunlap by W. St. John Wines, also of Springfield.

The only spot where the two stood together was in the arguments of their separate counsel that there had been no conspiracy to loot the bank, with which each hooked up a plea for leniency. The latter pleas were based on grounds of advanced years and ill health.

The prosecutor, Frank Lemon, United States district attorney, in discussing the agreement reached as to penalties, said the department of justice had proposed sentences of two

Lake Breeze Breaks 105° Heat Here

COOL WEATHER FORECAST FOR CHICAGO TODAY

All-Time Mark Set; Deaths Mount.

Lake Michigan came to the rescue of sweltering Chicago again last night after perversely withholding her cooling breezes during the day when a scorching southwest wind shattered all heat records here and sent the mercury to an all time high of 105 degrees.

At 9 p. m. the official temperature was 98 degrees. At 9:15 the wind suddenly shifted, blowing from the north and northeast. Within a few minutes the temperature dropped to 87.

At 11 o'clock the Havoline thermometer at the World's Fair grounds read 77 degrees, a steady drop since the cool wind began sweeping down the shore from Milwaukee and Waukegan where it was first felt. The unofficial reading at the municipal airport at midnight was 84 degrees, showing the lake breeze was not felt that far inland, although a general cooling off took place during the night in the western suburbs.

Forecasts Cooler Today.

C. A. Donnel, government forecaster, predicted that the weather would remain cool today. "Cooler weather should arrive from the northwest early in the morning," he said, "and it should become still cooler in the afternoon."

Mr. Donnel said he did not expect the mercury to rise to more than 85 degrees at the highest today.

While cattle bawled for water on the parched western prairies the toll of human deaths, attributed wholly or in part to the heat during the seven days, mounted to an estimated 700, according to a survey by the Associated Press.

The cumulative effect of a week of intense heat took a heavy toll of death among the aged and infirm. This was exemplified at the Oak Forest infirmary, which houses nearly 4,000 inmates, among whom there were 14 deaths yesterday. The victims were all elderly and decrepit wards of the county, who were unable to resist the long continued high temperatures.

15 Deaths from Prostration.

There were fifteen deaths in Chicago which were ascribed definitly to heat prostration. In addition to these there were more than thirty deaths from heart disease and other ailments in which the heat was regarded as a contributing factor. Among the heat prostration deaths were the followings:

Tillie Dirn, 80 years old, 146 Swann street; Michael Zagowski, 51 years old, 375 South Wood street; two unidentified men, one of whom collapsed on a park bench at 29th and Halsted streets and the other on a street car at Wells and Illinois streets; Cornado Giondinto, 50 years old, 6737 North Artesian avenue; Paul Baltrunan, 73 years old, 82d street and Keane avenue; John Madden, 48 years old, 1906 Central street, Evanston; Milton Dillon, 2 years old, 1848 South Clifton Park avenue; Daniel Olatyncki, 45 years old, 1247 North Oakley avenue, and August Palafere, 61, of Blue Island.

Another victim was Mrs. Rae Edelson, 69 years old, 4805 North Central Park avenue, mother of Emanuel Edelson, manager of the Illinois State Pawners' association.

Dies at Wheel of Truck.

The 12th prostration victim was Karol R. Bielawski, 43 years old, 1629 North Mobile avenue, who dropped dead over the wheel of his truck while driving in Ogden avenue near Warren boulevard.

Last night three more prostration deaths were reported, bringing the total to fifteen. They were Mrs. Rachel Klein, 79 years old, 2606 Potomac avenue; Rose Rotza, 13 months old, 3603 Wrightwood avenue, and Joseph Pernice, 40 years old, of Melrose Park.

Temperatures in some Illinois towns were almost as high as the 115 in Vinita, Okla., believed to be the highest recorded yesterday. Wauconda claimed the highest for Lake county with 114 degrees.

Although temperatures throughout the middle west and the east were extremely high Monday and yesterday pilots on the transcontinental air lines reported comfortable weather only a few thousand feet above the ground. One pilot, flying a TWA Douglas air liner to Pittsburgh from Chicago, found the temperature 32 degrees at 15,000 feet and was forced to turn on heat in the cabin for the comfort of shivering passengers.

SCIENTISTS FIND NEW LOW FIGURE IN TEMPERATURE

(Copyright, 1934: By the New York Times.)

LEYDEN, the Netherlands, July 24.—A new low temperature approaching absolute zero [459.6 degrees below zero Fahrenheit] has been reached here, according to an announcement made today by Prof. W. J. de Haas and Dr. E. C. Wiersma of the University Leyden.

The temperature reached was 0.03 of 1 degree Kelvin above absolute zero, which is believed to be the lowest temperature ever attained. It was obtained by a specially constructed apparatus.

Experiments last year at the University of California succeeded in attaining a temperature of 459.1 below zero Fahrenheit through the use of a magnetic cycle process developed by Prof. W. F. Glauque.

The President Seeks Fish on Hawaii Coast

KAILUA, Hawaii, July 24.—(AP)—Appearing tanned, fit, and well rested after his 5,000 mile voyage here from Panama, President Roosevelt arrived today on this historic coast—the first President of the United States ever to visit Hawaii—and then went fishing without coming ashore.

Permitting nothing to interfere with his intended recreation and rest, the chief executive, after receiving territorial Gov. Joseph Poindexter aboard the U. S. S. Houston, shoved off in a small boat accompanied by his son, John, and Capt. Wilson Brown, his naval aid, and headed for the Makalawena banks, where the giant swordfish run.

Seeks a "Big One."

In another boat were Henry Palakiko, champion Hawaiian fisherman, and Lieutenant Commander Guy Rothwell, aid to Gov. Poindexter, to direct the way to whatever point would give the President the best chance to land a big one.

Dawn was just breaking when the cruisers Houston and New Orleans, the latter acting as convoy, nosed into the historic bay, scene of the exploration more than a century and a half ago of Capt. James Cook. Showers offshore created two brilliant rainbows under which the ships passed. The weather was clear, bright, and cool.

Greeted by 21 Gun Salute.

A 21 gun salute by guns of the coast guard cutter Itasca, which brought Gov. Poindexter here from Honolulu, echoed through the Kona hills and all hands lined up to salute as the Houston pulled past. Crowds lined the dock nearby seeking a glimpse of the President.

Gov. Poindexter boarded the Houston at 8:45 a. m. for a 45 minute conversation with Mr. Roosevelt.

"The President is looking forward to enjoying his visit with us," the governor said on his return from the cruiser. "I told him of the plans we have been making, and he seemed very pleased."

Gov. Poindexter said he found the President in excellent spirits and anxious to begin his four day tour of the islands.

Crews Get Shore Leave.

The crews of both the Houston and the New Orleans headed for shore upon Mr. Roosevelt's departure to enjoy a native festival. The President went in the opposite direction, heading to sea around a rocky point where the surf sprayed high in the air. His course lay past the ancient village of Napoopoo and the monument to the memory of Capt. Cook. He planned to return to his ship late today to begin the around the island voyage to Hilo, second largest city of the territory.

Lieut. Commander Rothwell received a lesson in the fitness of things when he appeared in his white naval uniform, trimmed with gold braid, to go fishing with the President. The commander in chief took one look, and ordered Rothwell to go ashore and don old clothes. When Rothwell next appeared his attire approximated that of the President.

STORM SWEEPS ACROSS GULF TO COAST OF TEXAS

Houston, Tex., July 24.—(AP)—Sweeping westward across the Gulf of Mexico tonight, a storm of increasing intensity and probably of hurricane force at the center sent pleasure seekers on the Texas beaches scurrying to safety from high tides and winds.

Northeast storm warnings were ordered posted from Port O'Connor on Matagorda bay to Corpus Christi, and northwest warnings from Corpus Christi to Brownsville in a bulletin issued from the weather bureau office in Washington.

RAID NO MAN'S LAND LIQUOR RESORTS; FIVE ARRESTED IN CLEANUP

Proprietors of four barbecue stands and one liquor store in No Man's Land, a small strip of unincorporated land between Wilmette and Kenilworth, were arrested by county highway police yesterday and charged with selling liquor in dry territory and operating without a county license.

The villages of Wilmette, Kenilworth, and Winnetka, as well as the unorganized part of New Trier township which includes these towns, have voted to bar liquor sales. No Man's Land is not within any village limits, but it is part of the township. Acting on complaints, the county board last week ordered action against those places selling beer and liquor.

Lieut. James Meyering ordered the raids yesterday after liquor purchases had been made in each place. Those arrested were William J. Murphy, 1420 Sheridan road; William De Metre, 10th street and Sheridan road; Frank Lulias, owner of the La Kota beach barbecue stand, 1426 Sheridan road; Tom Anton, owner of the Cottage, 1440 Sheridan road, and Harry Pinocci, 936 Spanish court, owner of a liquor store.

Strike Ties Up Yards; 65,000 Cattle Suffer

With activities in the Union Stockyards almost completely tied up by the strike of 800 union stock handlers who walked out at 2 a. m. yesterday, scores of thousands of drouth weakened cattle battled against thirst and a blazing sun in the overcrowded pens of the yards.

Virtually nothing was accomplished during the day toward settlement of the strike. But by evening measures were well under way to extend the mercies of the slaughter house to the cattle on hand, and to prevent other animals being shipped in to suffer in their places.

Mostly Government Cattle.

Of between 65,000 and 70,000 cattle in the yards yesterday all except about 20,000, which had been shipped in on ordinary commercial accounts, were the property of the federal government. They had been purchased by the Federal Surplus Relief corporation to save them from starvation and were sent to Chicago to be processed for the government, or if strong enough, to be reshipped to better pasture.

As the drouth increased in the last few days, shipments of government cattle flooded the yards. The sudden calling of the strike yesterday found the yards, their facilities still impaired by the fire of May 19, badly crowded.

Other Yards Jammed.

Other stockyards throughout the country are also jammed by these drouth starved animals. As a result the farm administration announced last evening in Washington it is temporarily discontinuing purchases of stricken cattle.

In addition to the government cattle already in the yards, it is understood that there are about 10,000 more head en route. If these cattle cannot be rerouted to other markets, they will be gathered in the railroad feeding pens at West Chicago. There those strong enough to be sent to fresh pastures in Tennessee and the southeastern states, about 30 per cent of the average shipment, will be reshipped, and the rest brought into Chicago for slaughter.

Halt New Shipments.

The live stock exchange yesterday announced its members will receive no more stock shipments until normal conditions are restored.

There was no market for cattle at the stockyards yesterday because among other functions the striking union members man the scales on which cattle are weighed after sales to packing companies or other buyers. The commission men were in a rather delicate position, since their 400 employés are members of a union affiliated with the strikers, and had the scales been manned by strikebreakers, the commission houses would probably have faced a sympathetic strike.

Confer with Union.

As a result, a committee of commission men conferred with the executive board of the striking union. The leaders agreed to withhold a call of a sympathetic strike if, in disposing of cattle on hand, the commission employés and representatives of the buyers man the scales jointly, without assistance from strikebreakers employed by the Union Stockyards and Transit company.

This agreement was reached late yesterday, and only about 300 head were sold. Today, however, it is expected the bulk of the commercial shipments on hand will be disposed of.

Some progress was made yesterday toward disposing of the 45,000 to 50,000 government cattle on hand, and more is expected today. Yesterday federal employés and workers from the packing houses weighed about 2,000 head for the slaughter houses.

'WOMAN IN RED' IS FOUND; GIVES STORY TO POLICE

The woman in the red dress who accompanied John Dillinger when he was shot to death on Sunday night in front of the Biograph theater at 2433 Lincoln avenue was found last evening. She is Mrs. Anna Sage, alias Anna Miller, 43 years old, 2420 North Halsted street, whom the federal government has sought to deport as the convicted allen operator of disorderly houses.

The Sheffield avenue police, who took Mrs. Sage into custody for questioning, believe that it was in her apartment that Dillinger roomed during the last few weeks of his life. They were gay weeks, filled with beer parties and jaunts to night clubs and movies, according to the stories told by Mrs. Sage and her son by a former marriage, Steve Chiolak, 23 years old. Dillinger, they said, posed as Jim Lawrence, a Board of Trade clerk, and spent money easily if not lavishly.

Divorcée His Companion.

His principal companion on these happy occasions, it appeared, was Mrs. Roy Keele, 26 years old, divorced wife of a Gary policeman and Dillinger's last sweetheart. Her identity as the second woman with the desperado on the fatal visit to the theater Sunday night was established by Mrs. Sage.

It was Mrs. Keele's picture that the federal agents who killed Dillinger found in the back of his watch. The identification of the photograph was also confirmed by Mrs. Sage and by a brother of Mrs. Keele in Fargo, N. D.

Mrs. Keele was not available for questioning last night. Mrs. Sage said she had gone to Fargo, where her father is reported to be a minister. Her maiden name was Polly Rita Hamilton.

Background of Killing.

Identification of the two women companions of Dillinger on his last night and questioning of the Sage woman gave the police, they said, a theory of the intrigue that lay behind the slaying of the outlaw.

Mrs. Sage, they learned, had operated a resort in Gary until a few years ago and was an acquaintance of Sergt. Martin Zarkovich of the East Chicago, Ind., police. Sergt. Zarkovich is credited in some quarters with having gathered the information that led to the trap for Dillinger outside the Biograph theater.

It was the police theory that Mrs. Sage, facing deportation to Rumania, as shown by a letter from the immigration bureau which was found in her apartment, might have assisted in an arrangement for the capture of Dillinger to gain the good graces of the federal authorities.

Denies Dillinger Was Roomer.

This was indignantly denied by Mrs. Sage. She denied, furthermore, that Dillinger had been her roomer, although she admitted that she had entertained him and Mrs. Keele in her apartment on several occasions. She declared that she had not known he was Dillinger until he was shot, and asserted that Mrs. Keele had not known his identity either until that fatal moment.

Her denials went beyond that. They included the declaration that she had had no contact with Sergt. Zarkovich or federal agents recently. As for the Dillinger rewards, which may total $15,000 and which the government has announced would be paid with the greatest secrecy, Mrs. Sage told Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield station that she had no thought of these.

The police discounted her assertion that Dillinger had not lived in her apartment because they said they found some of his clothing there. On the other points, however, they expressed no definite opinion.

Capt. O'Neill Assails Purvis.

Denials that Mrs. Sage as the "woman in red" was involved in the setting of the Dillinger trap came from another source, however. This was Capt. Timothy O'Neill of the East Chicago police who, with Sergt. Zarkovich and three other East Chicago policemen, was in at the death of the desperado. Capt. O'Neill declared that the "woman in red" had nothing to do with the information that resulted in Dillinger's death, insisting that an underworld character in East Chicago had supplied it. The captain also assailed Melvin H. Purvis, leader of the federal agents who set the trap. He declared that it had been a "big error to let Purvis handle the publicity."

Purvis himself, departing last night for Washington to confer with his superior, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, declined to comment on the story of Mrs. Sage. He had previously declared that he did not know whether Dillinger was accompanied by women when the slaying occurred.

Purvis' chief assistant, Sam P. Cowley, however, took cognizance of the police questioning of Mrs. Sage. With other federal agents he hurried to the Sheffield station and instructed her to quit talking. Later Police Commissioner Allman directed Capt. Duffy to turn Mrs. Sage over to the government agents, and this was done.

Women Enter Investigation.

It was identified as a photograph of Mrs. Keele, a former waitress in a restaurant at 1209½ Wilson avenue. William Hertenstein, the restaurant owner, and Miss Maxine Dunn, 3422 Elaine place, a waitress, both recognized it. They said that Mrs. Keele had quit as a waitress two weeks ago at the persuasion of her sweetheart, who had called for her each evening after work. This man, they said, resembled Dillinger and Mrs. Keele laughed when they joked her about it.

The night of the shooting of Dillinger, Miss Dunn recalled, Mrs. Keele had entered the restaurant out of breath. The time was 11 o'clock, twenty minutes after the killing of the outlaw three miles away.

"Dillinger was just killed," she exclaimed.

"How do you know?" asked Miss Dunn.

"Wait till the papers come out and you'll see." Mrs. Keele was quoted as replying.

Traced to North Side Hotel.

The next day, Miss Dunn went on, Mrs. Keele had telephoned, asking that she go to a room in the Malden Plaza hotel, 4615 Malden avenue, and get some clothes for her. Miss Dunn had refused, she said.

The detectives went to the hotel. There Edward Miller, the manager, said Mrs. Keele had been there only a few nights during the last five weeks, but always kept her rent paid in advance. She appeared Sunday night, Manager Miller said, and left the next morning. Later that day, Miller went on, two men who displayed government badges called and asked to be shown to her room. They inspected it and departed.

The police found in the room a red dress and at once assumed that Mrs. Keele was the "girl in red" described by eye-witnesses to the killing of Dillinger.

Further investigation proved their mistake on this point. From the hotel the detectives traced a phone number, Lincoln 5436, which they got from Miss Dunn. This led them to 2420 North Halsted street. No one answered the door bell, but they talked to John Deveaux, manager of the building.

Deveaux said he had seen a man there frequently, a man who wore glasses and had a mustache. Shown a picture of Dillinger, he said it was probably the man.

Tells of Flight After Killing.

Finally, the detectives said, they saw Mrs. Sage entering her apartment with her son, Steve, and took them both to the station.

There the woman described the events that followed the slaying of Dillinger. Her apartment, she pointed out, is in a building that is separated only by an alley from the Biograph theater. It was at the mouth of this alley that Dillinger was killed by the federal agents who had waited for him to leave the theater.

After the shooting, Mrs. Sage said, she and Mrs. Keele ran down the alley to her apartment. There Mrs. Sage hurriedly put off her red dress and then joined the crowd in front of the theater. But Mrs. Keele would not go back to the scene. Instead she raced to the restaurant and then to her room in the Malden Plaza hotel, where she spent the rest of the night. The next day, Mrs. Sage said, Mrs. Keele departed for Fargo.

Outlaw's Last Romance Short.

How Dillinger happened to become a roomer or a visitor at the Sage flat was not explained, but he has frequented Gary at times and the police believe he might have met Mrs. Sage there. Mrs. Keele, it was learned, is an old friend of Mrs. Sage, their acquaintance having begun in Gary where Mrs. Keele was married. She was divorced from her husband two months ago.

It was five weeks ago, Mrs. Sage told Capt. Duffy, that the romance between Dillinger — posing as Lawrence, the Board of Trade man—and Mrs. Keele started. Soon afterward Mrs. Keele took the room at the Malden Plaza, but retained the one she had in Mrs. Sage's apartment.

The gay parties began about that time, too, said Chiolak, taking up his mother's story. Mrs. Keele introduced him to "Lawrence," Chiolak said, and the three, with Chiolak's girl friend, made the rounds of cafes and night clubs. But "Lawrence" liked movies best, and they went most frequently to those. "Lawrence" always paid the bills, Chiolak said. He declared that he never had a suspicion that "Lawrence" was Dillinger.

Question Woman's Brother.

Robert Hamilton, a brother of Mrs. Keele, was also questioned by Capt. Duffy last night. He declined to give his address and said he had not seen his sister since July 6. In June, he said, she told him she had a new boy friend, apparently Dillinger, who was taking her to night clubs and dances. This friend and his sister, Hamilton said, had exchanged rings, he giving her a diamond and she giving him a ruby. The ruby ring was found on Dillinger's finger when he was slain.

While the police were questioning Mrs. Sage, Chiolak and Hamilton, bathers found a machine gun, pistol and bullet proof vest in the lake just south of the Lincoln Park Gun club. These weapons were taken to the Sheffield station and Capt. Duffy asked Mrs. Sage if they belonged to Dillinger and if she had thrown them in the water. She denied it.

SEIZE MAIL BANDIT FOR LENDING AID TO DILLINGER GANGSTER

James Murray, who served five years in the federal prison at Atlanta for his part in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery in 1924, was arrested yesterday on a charge of aiding Harry Copeland, a Dillinger gangster, to purchase an automobile with stolen bonds. Lieut. John Howe of the state's attorney's police said that the arrest of Murray was the beginning of a campaign to seize all persons who are alleged to have aided Dillinger and members of his gang.

Murray was seized at his barbecue stand at the northeast corner of Harlem and North avenues by Sergt. William Smith of Capt. Stege's gangster detail and was locked up at the Marquette police station. Murray, who is 44 years old, gave his address as 1144 West Harrison street.

The warant for Murray was obtained last Nov. 25 by Sherif Albert Bryant at Greencastle, Ind., and had been in possession of police here for several months. According to Lieut. Howe, Murray met Copeland at Burlington, Wis., and arranged for the purchase of an automobile for $1,500 in bonds which Copeland had. The bonds were part of the $75,000 loot taken by Dillinger and his band in the holdup of the Central National bank of Greencastle last Oct. 20. Copeland is now in custody at the Michigan City penitentiary for his part in the robbery.

Federal agents yesterday turned their attention to the fugitive George [Baby Face] Nelson, who became public enemy No. 1 and assumed the risks that go with that title when John Dillinger was slain. A widespread search for Nelson has been ordered from Washington.

Nelson, termed a "rat" by Attorney General Cummings and called "kill crazy" by other authorities, first shared notoriety with the Dillinger gang in the gun battle at the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis. There a federal agent and a bystander were killed when Dillinger, Nelson, and others of the gang shot their way out of government traps.

Nelson was identified as the man who fired the shot that killed the federal agent, W. Carter Baum. Since that time rumor has connected him with the Dillinger depredations.

Since 1926 he has had a record as a bank robber. In 1931 he was sentenced to one year to life in Joliet prison for looting the Hillside State bank. A year later he was taken from the penitentiary to Wheaton and sentenced to 1 to 20 years for a robbery of the Itasca State bank in 1930. On the way back to Joliet prison he escaped from a guard.

DILLINGER GOOD ADVERTISING FOR 'LITTLE BOHEMIA'

Manitowish, Wis., July 24.—(AP)—Emil Wanatka, who runs the Little Bohemia resort where the late John Dillinger and some of his pals lived for three days before escaping April 22 from a trap laid by federal agents, said today he was sending flowers to the Dillinger home in Indiana because the gangster "was a regular fellow."

In the barroom of the resort, which was sprayed with lead from the agents' guns, is a sign: "Why don't you ask us some questions about Dillinger?" and for the convenience of tourists 25 questions are listed.

CROWDS OF HOME TOWN FOLKS SEE DILLINGER BODY

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mooresville, Ind., July 24.—[Special.]—John Dillinger, the late hunted desperado, is to be buried Thursday morning in the Crown Hill cemetery in Indianapolis. His bullet ridden body formed another ghastly exhibit here in his home town, after having been viewed by thousands in Chicago, where he was slain Sunday night by federal agents.

Virtually the entire population of Mooresville, which totals 2,300, has passed through the Harvey undertaking establishment here tonight to view the body. Except for the silent hostility with which the townspeople regard visiting photographers, it might been an ice cream social on the lawn of the combination residence and funeral establishment of the Harveys.

One of the women who viewed the body was identified as Mary Kinder, one of Dillinger's former companions, who was arrested with him in Tucson, Ariz. She is now living in Indianapolis.

Drive Body from Chicago.

Mr. Harvey, with John Dillinger Sr., farmer father of the slain criminal, and his son Hubert, John's half brother, drove John's body from Chicago today in an old black hearse.

"John's face isn't just right, but we're goin' to straighten it up," said Harvey.

Late this evening the body was taken to Maywood, a suburb of Indianapolis, ten miles from here, where it was placed in the home of Dillinger's sister, Mrs. Audrey Hancock, 44 years old, the wife of a mill worker.

Although it was announced that the funeral would be held at 10 a. m. Thursday, there appeared to be some uncertainty about that late tonight. There were reports from persons in the confidence of the family that the service would be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow instead of Thursday. The secret change in the date, it was said, was for the purpose of avoiding crowds of curiosity seekers.

Pastor to Conduct Service.

It appeared definite, however, that the Rev. Charles M. Fillmore, former pastor of the Hillside Christian church, who baptized Dillinger, would conduct the services and that burial would be in Crown Hill cemetery at Indianapolis.

Many notables are buried in this old cemetery, including James Whitcomb Riley and the former President Benjamin Harrison. Protests have been made by various lot owners against the burial of Dillinger in Crown Hill, but no legal method was found to prevent the burial.

Dillinger Sr., who had not eaten since breakfast and was in an enfeebled condition, left Mooresville to make final arrangements with the cemetery officials late tonight.

The trip from Chicago to Mooresville, a 225 mile journey, was made in six hours, the old black herse arriving here with brake bands smoking.

DEPARTURE FROM CHICAGO

Crowds of spectators fought for a last glimpse of the body of John Dillinger as it left Chicago shortly after noon yesterday. The departure was made from the McCready undertaking rooms at 4900 Sheridan road. It was no triumphal procession, this last ride of the slain outlaw in a dust covered herse.

The father of the desperado, John Dillinger Sr., apparently bewildered and ill from the blazing heat, mounted stiffly to the seat beside the driver. Hubert, half brother of the outlaw, joined the party and the herse, which had required the attention of a repair man before the journey could be made, rolled southward through the city.

Crowds continued to fight for a last glimpse of the desperado until the body was moved. Morgue attendants estimated that 15,000 had passed before the body in the time it lay at the morgue.

The possessions of Dillinger were turned over to his father in the office of Coroner Frank J. Walsh. The clothing that Dillinger wore at time he was killed and the $7.70 and the watch found in his pockets made up the bundle.

Six husky men picked up the basket in which the body of Dillinger lay. Forming a flying wedge, they pushed spectators aside and fought their way to the herse. The body, covered with black oilcloth, was not visible to those who had waited several hours for the departure.

BANDITS INVADE TOWN IN KANSAS; ROB BANK; 3 SHOT

Oxford, Kas., July 24.—[Special.]—Three men were shot here today when four machine gun bandits shot up the town, robbed the Oxford bank of $5,000 cash and kidnaped five hostages.

The shotgun fire of town vigilantes wounded one of the bandits and Marion Carson, manager of a lumber company and a patron of the bank. Harold Littrell, 18, was shot in the abdomen by the bandits when they raked the street with machine gun fire in their flight.

The hostages were released unharmed a short time after the robbery. They were put out of the bandits' car one at a time until the fifth one was set down 12 miles west of Arkansas City.

J. E. Campbell, a patron of the bank, armed himself with a shotgun and tried to approach the place from the rear but he was pounced upon and overpowered by two of the robbers.

TWO SHOT DEAD, ONE POLICEMAN, IN CAFE MYSTERY

Owner of Halsted Street Tavern Sought.

Patrolman William Penney, 38 years old, who had been assigned to the detective bureau for ten years, and Arthur Butcher, 45, also known as Thomas White, were shot and killed last night in the Modern tavern at 732 South Halsted street.

The Maxwell police were searching for Steve Vrionis, one of the owners of the tavern, after the shotgun from which the fatal shots appeared to have been fired was found in a room adjacent to one occupied by Vrionis above the tavern.

Tells of Quarrel.

When the police arrived after the shooting the body of Penney was lying on the sidewalk and the body of Butcher was lying in the doorway. There was no one in the tavern.

Later Stanley Nosek, 3126 North Harding avenue, bartender at the tavern, was apprehended. He said that during the afternoon Penney and another man had been in the tavern and quarreled with four other men over a woman.

The four men then beat up Penney, the bartender said, and the policeman and his companion left.

Leonard De Bendo, owner of a tavern at 1346 West Van Buren street, said that Penney came to his tavern where he met Butcher, who lived above the tavern, and O'Neill. The four men then drove to the tavern on Halsted street in Penney's automobile. Penney, Butcher, and O'Neill found the tavern door locked, De Bendo said, and started to walk back to him in the car. Then the tavern door opened and a shotgun, held by a man whom De Bendo could not see, fired two blasts, killing Penney and Butcher and wounding O'Neill. Nosek said he had left the tavern before the shooting.

Star Found in Pocket.

The body of Penney was identified by his policeman's star in a pocket. In another pocket was found $80. He lived at 1345 West 97th street with his wife and three children. Lieut. Charles Cohan at the detective bureau said he last saw Penney at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at roll call and that Penney was in civilian clothes as he was to be the prosecuting witness in a conspiracy case in the Criminal court.

PURVIS IS ACCUSED OF TAKING CREDIT IN DILLINGER TRAP

Asserting that Melvin Purvis, chief of the department of justice agents in the Chicago area, was taking undue credit for his office in the shadowing and slaying of John Dillinger, Capt. Timothy O'Neill of the East Chicago police said last night that he had made a "big mistake" in allowing Purvis to handle the publicity in the case.

Capt. O'Neill said Purvis had failed to give adequate credit to Sergt. Martin Zarkovich of the East Chicago police for ferreting out the information which led to the killing of Dillinger.

"This story that Purvis has put out about his office being tipped off Sunday afternoon about Dillinger planning to attend the show at the Biograph theater is all bunk," Capt. O'Neill said. "We merely played a strong hunch that Dillinger would show up at the theater Sunday night, and turned that information over to Purvis to act on."

O'Neill explained that Sergt. Zarkovich had been watching Dillinger's attendance at the theater for two weeks, and was certain that he would show up again last Sunday night because of the change in bill.

He said that an East Chicago underworld character, who saw Dillinger in the vicinity several times a few weeks ago, had given the information to Zarkovich. The two women who accompanied Dillinger to the theater had no part in the gangster's apprehension, O'Neill said.

O'Neill stated that he and Purvis had entered into an agreement following the Dillinger shooting that Purvis should give out the publicity on the case and keep the credit for the apprehension if the East Chicago police received their share of the reward.

DUNLAP, RUSSEL SENT TO PRISON IN BANK CRASH

Income Tax Cases Involved.

This brought forth a further explanation that, prior to the Ayers National crash, the government had challenged the adequacy of income tax schedules filed by the defendants.

Judge Briggle said his decision would not take into account any matters outside of the criminal prosecution; that he must ignore any controversy over income tax payments. Therefore no extraneous matter was incorporated in his pronouncing of sentence. In response to objections the judge said the sentence was fair.

By entering pleas of nolo contendere the defendants accepted sentence without any admission of guilt, but to do so it was necessary for them to withdraw their earlier pleas of not guilty. Defense counsel argued for the minimum sentence of one year and a day.

Following the pronouncing of sentence, a two weeks' stay of execution —until Aug. 7—was granted to permit the defendants to arrange their personal and business affairs. Neither defendant showed emotion when the sentence was pronounced.

Dunlap's sentence is to run concurrently with another sentence of two years which was imposed last October after he was found guilty on charges of making false entries in his books. His trip to Leavenworth on the earlier conviction was delayed pending action on the case now closed. He had made an unsuccessful appeal to the United States Supreme court in connection with the previous sentence which also included a fine of $5,000.

PEACE SCORNED BY BOTH SIDES IN MINNEAPOLIS

Report Governor Ready for Martial Rule.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., July 24.—[Special.]—The truck strike has reached an impasse, the federal mediators informed the national labor board in Washington tonight. Apparently the rioting truckers and their employers have informed Father Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunnigan that they cannot come to terms.

Tomorrow the mediators will take action. What they will do they refused to say as they left a conference with Gov. Floyd B. Olson and Mayor A. G. Bainbridge. It was known, however, that the governor wishes the police convoys withdrawn from the few trucks which move daily. Mayor Bainbridge is understood to have flatly opposed Olson, and there is some talk that the governor will place the city under martial law in the morning.

4,000 Now in County.

There are about 4,000 state troops quartered under arms in Hennepin county, of which Minneapolis is the seat. Three hundred of them were brought into the city late today to stand by while the truckers buried Henry Ness, one of their number fatally wounded in last Friday's riot. It was thought the huge crowd at the services might take the opportunity to stage a demonstration in front of the city hall, but all was peaceful.

Late today the strikers handed the mediators their answer to a proposal said to suggest that differences be settled by a referendum among the inside workers in commission firms to learn if they wish to be represented by the union.

Late tonight the union released its answer to the mediator's proposal. They insisted upon wage increases for the truck drivers before an election is held to determine if the inside workers wish to join the union. The employers' letter was not made public.

May Order Referendum.

When he arrived here a week ago, Father Haas said that it was within the national labor board's power to order a referendum, even though both groups opposed it. None was prepared to say if this will be done.

In Washington it was admitted by the secretary of the board that it had discussed authorizing Father Haas to order an election in Minneapolis, but had come to no definite decision.

The mediators were understood tonight to be planning a new suggestion for settlement, based on the various contentions of each side. If this, in turn, be refused, then the possibility of a mandatory election would become much stronger.

Some observers found a basis for their contention that the governor would declare martial law in a statement he issued earlier, before the rioters presented their answer to the mediators.

"Depends on Answers."

"The question of police and military intervention," the governor said, "depends upon the answers of the respective parties to the proposals submitted to them Monday."

Only about a dozen trucks had been convoyed through the streets by late afternoon, and each traveled slowly, guarded by twenty squad cars containing police armed with shotguns. Normally thousands of trucks rumble through the city daily, but, save for those guarded, at present only milk, coal, newspapers, and beer, and farm produce can move without molestation.

During the day the talk of communists among the ranks of the rioters ran high. The latest charge was made by the Civic and Commerce association, which corresponds to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The association wrote Mayor Bainbridge as follows:

"We desire to take this opportunity of heartily commending your wisdom and courage in endeavoring to maintain law and order and to keep the streets of our city open for proper uses by convoys. Our citizens cannot help but admire the bravery of our police force and we earnestly recommend to all citizens and public officials continued support of our law enforcement agencies.

"We are reliably informed that communistic agitators are today dominating the ranks of employés. Our present laws are clear in their effectiveness in the suppression of riots, sabotage, and the destruction of property. Such laws must be enforced by duly constituted authorities. Law and order must prevail."

The letter was signed by H. J. Miller, president of the association.

Clubs Condemn Communists.

The civic clubs followed suit, condemning with equal emphasis the action of the communists. Lions', Kiwanians', and Rotarians addressed letters to Joseph R. Cochran, chairman of the employers' advisory committee, approving the business men's stand and urging them not to forsake it.

A sympathy strike was staged today by the 2,000 employés of 75 laundries and dry cleaning plants in the face of an ultimatum from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Green wired the leaders of the union last night that the A. F. of L. would not sanction sympathy strikes, but the walkout became effective this morning.

The plants continued to operate as best they could and there were many predictions that the strike would not be of long duration.

ORDER ARREST OF ALL PERSONS OPENING CITY FIRE HYDRANTS

An order to arrest any person caught opening a fire hydrant was sent out on the teletype last night by Police Commissioner Allman on the request of Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt. Hewitt said in some areas of the city people are not being supplied with water because of low pressure caused by the opening of the hydrants.

Chicago is at the present time pumping more water than any other city in the world, according to figures submitted to Hewitt by Acting Engineer Loran D. Clayton. The pumpage is averaging approximately 1,250,000,000 gallons a day.

On Monday, Hewitt said, 487 hydrants were opened illegally, enough to completely stop the flow of water if they were open simultaneously. Since the heat wave started 152 hydrants and one water main have been broken.

Complaints of lack of water are piling up in the commissioner's office. Officials of Henry Bannister & Brothers, canners at 37th and Morgan streets, and firms in the stock yards and central manufacturing district were among the complainants.

DEMANDS JUNK DEALERS PAY UP LICENSES OR QUIT

A demand that the junk dealers pay up their license fees that have been in arrears in some cases since 1920 or be put out of business was made yesterday by the 25th Ward Improvement association. Edward L. S. Arkema, president of the group, appealed to Mayor Kelly to veto an ordinance staggering the back payments.

The ordinance, which was passed by the city council on July 11 on motion of Ald. J. M. Arvey [24], authorized the city to accept $25 for the years in which the dealers were delinquent. Until 1933 the annual license fee had been $200. It is now $50.

Arkema said that the dealers were notorious violators of the building code. A falling fence, he declared, with 20 tons of scrap iron leaning up against it, supported by a telephone pole obstructs an alley at 2633 West Roosevelt road.

He described a building at 2643 Roosevelt road that is being operated by a junk dealer although it has been condemned. The building has caught fire three times.

7,000 Postal Co. Workers Put on 5 Day Week

Seven thousand clerical employés of the Postal Telegraph company throughout the country were ordered placed on a five day working week for a period of five weeks beginning last Monday, it was learned yesterday, with a corresponding reduction in pay from the usual six day working week. The change was necessitated by a seasonal decline in revenues, it was stated by J. G. Wolf, vice president of the company for the central area comprising Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio. In this territory 3,100 employés are affected, while in Chicago alone the number is 800.

TRIBUNE TOWER COOL DESPITE SWELTERING WEATHER IN STREETS

While heat waves danced on Michigan avenue and the street surface became soft and sticky under a blazing sun which sent the thermometer at the entrance to the Tribune Tower to 108 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday, tenants in the building and the local staf worked in comfort in temperatures which averaged 80 degrees for the day.

Holmes Onderdonk, manager of buildings for THE TRIBUNE, asserted last evening that the air conditioning plant had used vast quantities of water in the process. A total of 26 tons of coal was burned to produce the refrigeration during the day.

"We burned just about as much coal as it takes to heat the tower during zero weather," he said. "It cost us just $287.59 to keep the Tribune Tower cool during the last 24 hours."

LAKES TUGMEN VOTE TO KEEP ON WITH WALKOUT

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Union spokesmen for 1,500 tugmen employed at all the ports on the great lakes voted unanimously late today to carry on the seven weeks' strike for an eight hour day which has tied up dredging and vessel towing operations at nearly a score of ports since June 1.

The announcement of the strike vote came from J. J. Noonan, grand president of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association which includes in its membership tug employés at Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Duluth, Milwaukee, Sault Ste. Marie, Erie, Lorain, and Sandusky.

"The delegates from 31 local unions," said Noonan, "voted unanimously to go on with the strike at all ports. The men are standing pat on their demand for an eight hour day and a living wage—$2,400 a year."

JUDGE SCORES MRS. M'ADOO'S QUICK DIVORCE

Bar Investigating Actions of Her Lawyer.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Strong criticism of the conduct of Henry Grivi, attorney for Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, was voiced today by Presiding Judge Frank Collier of Los Angeles County court. He announced that the state bar is investigating the secret 42 minute divorce and that he has turned the records in the case over to that body.

He declared he was filing a copy of his remarks in the docket of the case which, because of the California law requiring one year's time before an interlocutory decree can be made final, is not regarded as a closed case at this time. Judge Collier, however, affirmed the validity of the decree.

New Rule in Effect.

Judge Collier also announced he has instructed County Clerk R. W. Lampton that his deputies in future must inform the judges whenever regular procedure in setting cases for trial has not been followed.

Judge Collier also instructed the county clerk that in future attorneys are not to be allowed to take files away from the county clerk's office. Judge Collier's statement, in part:

"On the day the McAdoo case was filed, some woman telephoned my secretary and asked if there were any 'out of county' judges sitting here. She asked where Judge Campbell was sitting and the location of his courtroom.

"Some one telephoned Judge Campbell, asking him if he would try a divorce case. He told the inquirer to bring in the case at either 1:30 or 4:30 p. m. The name of the case was not disclosed.

"Judge Campbell was not familiar with the practice of our courts which require that all default divorce cases be set through the calendar department, and assigned in rotation. He is therefore in no manner to blame for the irregular handling of this case.

Procedure Known Locally.

"In this court, however, the procedure for handling default divorces is well known to all attorneys and judges. Only those attorneys who desire to 'slip something over' attempt to do otherwise.

"That Mr. Grivi, Mrs. McAdoo's attorney, was aware of our regular procedure, is considered beyond question. That his conduct in this case was irregular and subject to severe censure, is likewise beyond question.

"His actions in this case in violating the well known methods of procedure and in taking advantage of the lack of knowledge of a visiting judge, are contemptible, if not contumacious.

"By his actions he has brought this court into disrepute; he has caused an innumerable group of people to believe there is one procedure, slow and tedious, for the poor, and another, quick and active, for the rich or prominent. He has placed the ethical and conscientious members of the bar, who will not stoop to such practices, in a very embarrassing position with their clients."

LAST VOTE CAST IN DOCK STRIKERS' PEACE ELECTION

Expect Decision by This Afternoon.

San Francisco, Cal., July 24.—(AP)—Striking Pacific coast longshoremen completed balloting today on whether to submit their troubles to arbitration, while the National Longshoremen's board prepared for the holding of elections among organized maritime workers to choose representatives for collective bargaining and arbitration efforts.

The vote of the longshoremen probably will not be announced until tomorrow afternoon. Several locals in Washington delayed the start of balloting until William J. Lewis, district president of the International Longshoremen's association had addressed them.

Meets Ship Owners.

The board met this afternoon with representatives of the steamship companies to devise a plan for taking the vote of the seamen and allied trades on representation. One member of the board, explaining the complicated situation involved, said the board must decide who could vote and how the vote was to be taken.

"It must be decided whether all of the men on strike are allowed to vote or only those who can show they have been employed within a certain specified time," he said, "also whether the seamen who did not go on strike should be allowed to vote.

"The spokesman for one of the seamen's groups claims that one line hires a vast number of Chinese on their ships and says these men, because they are aliens and cannot become citizens, are also prohibited from becoming members of the union.

"The board also must decide whether the vote is to be taken by ports, along the coast as a whole, or by companies operating ships. In fairness to the men as well as the ship operators we must proceed slowly in deciding the rules of the balloting."

Agree to Bargaining.

The ship operators have agreed to negotiate in collective bargaining with the maritime groups after they have decided representation by an election conducted by the arbitration board. Should the negotiations fail then all questions would be submitted to arbitration.

The delay in inaugurating the seamen's ballot apparently prompted the statement of Ralph Mallen, publicity representative of the I. L. A., that there was "some resentment among the I. L. A. members who understood the board would not consider the sailors."

SNOWDRIFT COVERS TRACTOR; HALTS TRIP OF BYRD RESCUE PARTY

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, July 24.—(AP)—A party of five men which undertook to relieve Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in his advance observation station was fighting its way back to Little America today, after failing to reach the explorer.

The party, headed by Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, was unable to make the 123-mile journey in a tractor because the marker flags below the 50 mile depot were snowed under and the ice was perilous.

After turning around last night, the tractor reached a point 23 miles from Little America, where a halt for rest was taken. The tractor was partly covered by drifting snow at the last report made by Dr. Poulter's radio, and the party began the task of digging out.

Meanwhile, no further word came from Admiral Byrd, whose main radio set was out of order and who used a hand-cranked set in his most recent communications. The tractor was to have picked up the admiral, brought him back here and left two observers in his place.

DILLINGER WATCH PHOTO NOT THAT OF OHIO WOMAN

Dayton, O., July 24.—(AP)—The girl who was taken into custody here with John Dillinger ten months ago has since married another man, it became known today. It was asserted too, that it was not her picture which Dillinger carried to his death in Chicago Sunday night.

The girl was Mary Jenkins Longnecker, 22 year old divorcée. She is now Mrs. Charles Constable, a bride of two weeks.

The picture found in Dillinger's watch after he was slain had been identified as hers in Chicago. Today, however, her husband said it was not her picture and comparisons supported him.

Constable also was arrested at the time Dillinger was taken here. No charges were filed against him or the young woman, however, and they were liberated after questioning. Thereafter, Constable said, the woman now his wife had nothing to do with Dillinger or any of his associates.

The arrest of Dillinger in Dayton was for bank robbery and occurred on Sept. 22, 1933. He was turned over to Sheriff Jess Sarber at Lima, O. Two weeks later three of his gang killed Sheriff Sarber and took Dillinger out of jail.

CHARGE FEDERAL RELIEF PURCHASE OF SPOILED EGGS

The Federal Relief Foods corporation was accused yesterday of buying rotten eggs and then using the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to distribute them through its grocery outlets. A surprise witness made the charges before the legislative committee investigating relief in the city council chamber. The commission and the investigating committee also were assailed during the day.

The committee apparently had reached an impasse in midafternoon for lack of witnesses after it was announced that a subpena server had been unable to reach a newspaperman who was to be asked to explain the basis of articles charging "graft and corruption" in the relief system.

Suddenly a large man in shirtsleeves, waving a bunch of papers in his hand, advanced to the witness chair with an air of determination.

The witness said he was John Schoonover, financial secretary of the Egg Inspectors' union.

"Eggs Unfit for Food."

"A big percentage of groceries selling eggs to relief clients are selling eggs not fit for food," he testified. "At the relief shelter at 116 South Green street we inspected four cases of eggs. Every case had live maggots. We found 72 'black rots' and 48 'blood ringers'."

"We sent inspectors into 125 stores in January. In between 50 and 60 per cent of the places handling relief food there were large numbers of rotten eggs. The number ran from one to three eggs in each dozen."

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the relief commission, rose in defense of the Illinois organization.

"This man is referring to federal surplus food that we must distribute for the government through our 8,000 accredited grocers," Mr. Dunham said. "We have to get the grocers to handle the food, but it is not sold—it is given away in addition to the regular local relief food orders.

"I believe the government buys many of the eggs in Wisconsin and donates them to the various states. No deduction is made from our budget by the government because of this gift."

Send Wi[illegible]s Away.

The union's representative was informed that he had come to the wrong place with his information, because the complaint should be lodged with the federal relief foods group. Before leaving the cool city hall, Mr. Schoonover revealed that Judge John J. Kelly in the Superior court had ordered the Illinois department of agriculture to enforce the egg inspection law. The department has taken the matter up to the Appellate court.

An official of the food and dairies division of the state department admitted that there had not been strict enforcement of the provision in the law requiring candling of eggs in Chicago, regardless of previous inspection. But there are "no bad eggs sold in Chicago," he said.

O. F. Beyer, local representative of the Federal Relief Foods' corporation, said that one million dozens of eggs were alloted to Illinois by the government, approximately half of these going to Chicago.

"I'm sure there were not more than ten dozen spoiled eggs out of the million," Mr. Beyer said. "We had a close watch kept on them by the state department of agriculture. They were bought on bids, and I'm quite certain none of them were from outside of Illinois."

Lawyer Assails Reynolds.

Attorney James A. Peterson, former fraud prosecutor for the commission, recommended repeatedly from the witness stand that Executive Secretary Wilfred S. Reynolds be replaced with a man whose background was that of a business executive rather than that of a professional social worker.

Attorney Peterson resigned his position several months ago because of officials' alleged failure to cooperate, said Mr. Reynolds once remarked to him: "How long do we have to go on with this fraud prosecution stuff?" The lawyer also recalled several other instances which he declared showed a lack of vigor in pressing a cleanup of frauds.

Calls Many Unworthy.

He asserted also that there are many persons on the rolls who should not be receiving relief. Many of these persons work at night, and are at home when case workers call to investigate, he said. Attorney Peterson praised Mr. Dunham, and especially his eagerness to "clean house" of any frauds within the organization.

It was reported yesterday that a grocer, Joseph Kocabinski, 42 years old, 2849 West 25th place, and his son, Theodore, 21 years old, had been named in true bills charging them with obtaining $3,500 worth of foodstuffs through fraud on the relief commission. The food, consisting of 16,140 pounds of butter, 1,309 pounds of lard, and 428 dozen eggs, was withdrawn from warehouses by means of fraudulent orders, it was alleged.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Peppy Pup Wins Battle.

BUSTER, the little fox terrier belonging to Louis Thurow, picked out one of the hottest days of the summer for the hottest and most thrilling battle of his life. This peppy, alert terrier, a bitter enemy of Binks, another terrier on the farm owned by Clarence Thurow, sailed into a woodchuck and in a no-quarter fight got the decision after a little help from his master. This is the same woodchuck that made Binks look foolish last week when the terrier tried to dig out the groundhog, eventually got stymied in the woodchuck's burrow, and had to be dug out.

Therefore, if ever a dog has reason to strut around and gloat over a fight, Buster has the chance right now. Paul Sleezer and Louis Thurow saw Buster engage the woodchuck in combat. Although Buster is a lightweight compared to a stocky groundhog, the dog didn't hesitate at all about mixing it. For a few seconds the two animals sparred, and then they rushed each other, both trying for a hold. Buster got a pretty good grip on the groundhog, but lost it, and then the latter rushed in and seized poor Buster by the nose. Buster dug in his hind legs and tried to keep from being hauled around by the woodchuck, although the latter's hold was a painful one.

After the battle was over and Buster had rung up his victory [the first he has ever scored over a woodchuck] it was found that the terrier had quite a severe wound on his face. He is going to carry this injury for quite a while, too. Probably the proudest person on the farm over Buster's great scrap is young Louis Thurow, the son of Louis Thurow, Sr. He had a ringside seat for the scrap and made several snapshots of the dog and the groundhog when the two were doing their stuff.

The heat wave has had a noticeable effect on the corn here on the farm. The hot sun has started to "fire the corn," as Clarence Thurow describes the situation. You can see where the sun has turned the leaves brown just as if fire had been applied to the plants. The situation isn't serious as yet, but it gives one a pretty good idea of how a blistering sun works on a cornfield with temperatures running at 102, 105 and 106 degrees for a few days. The official thermometer here at the farm has recorded these temperatures during the past few days. Therefore, it's no wonder that the late corn curls up to protect itself and has been "fired." It was lucky for the corn that just before the heat wave started a shower brought .36 of an inch of rain. The funny thing about this shower last week was that it didn't leave a drop of rain on the north bank of the river, where there is no corn this season. But the .36 of an inch did fall on the south bank of the river, where all of the corn on the experimental farm is planted.

The first Golden Bantam sweet corn of the season has just been gathered from the home gardens here on the farm. The corn came through the drouth all right, although naturally it is late in ripening. Clarence Thurow also has sampled the new potatoes from his garden. From now on the gardens will yield plenty of sweet corn for everybody living here on the farm.

Courtney Asks Peace Meeting Today.

Stock other than cattle presented a less pressing problem. Railroads placed an embargo on consigned hogs as soon as the strike was called, and 6,000 head received yesterday were billed direct to packing companies as were truck shipments.

Many of the government cattle were on the verge of death yesterday from starvation when they reached the yards. Few if any of them have had food since they arrived. Government officials were dubious about hiring men to feed them, pointing out that that would put the government in the position of helping to break a strike.

300 Strikebreakers on Job.

The stockyards company had more than 300 strikebreakers on duty, but their efforts were largely confined to getting water to the cattle. Low pressure in the mains hampered this. Fire hoses were used wherever possible.

The first day of the strike passed peaceably enough. Policemen on duty had nothing more arduous to do than seek shelter from the sun. Nevertheless, there was an air of tension. The principal fear was of the spread of sympathetic strikes among other unions in the yard. These include building tradesmen engaged in rebuilding the fire swept areas and some packing house employes.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday asked union officials to come to a conference at his office this morning, at which representatives of the stockyards company may also be present, for a discussion of the strike causes.

Union Charges Violations.

A similar strike last November, on the eve of the International Live Stock show, was settled by arbitration before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Thomas Devero, business agent of the stock handlers' union, and John Gorman, its president, charge the stock yards company has violated provisions of the arbitration award.

They assert the company has failed to establish a 40 hour week, that it has made no answer to complaints of grievances by employes, and that it discharged all of the union leaders when its officers learned that a strike was planned.

All this was denied by O. T. Henkle, general manager of the company. His only move toward settlement of the strike has been the suggestion that both parties go before Judge Sullivan. To this suggestion, he says, he has received no reply from the union.

The union held a meeting last evening, at which plans for picketing the stockyards were made.

Asks U. S. Intervention.

Today may see action by some of the New Deal labor boards looking toward settlement. A request that the government take such action was made yesterday by the National Live Stock Marketing association, farmers' cooperative selling organization. Carl Steffenson, secretary of the regional labor board of the NRA was on his way to Chicago from Wisconsin.

LITCHFIELD WOMAN, 93, DIES.

Litchfield, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Wiegers, 93, resident of Litchfield for 70 years, died at her home here today after several months illness. She is survived by 7 children, 24 grandchildren and 1 great grandchild.

600 STRIKE TODAY AT SHELL PLANT IN EAST CHICAGO

Six hundred members of the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers employed in the Shell Oil company plant in East Chicago are scheduled to go on strike at 10 o'clock today.

Although some reports yesterday indicated that the walkout was to affect all Shell refineries throughout the country, a dispatch from the union headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex., indicated that only the East Chicago refinery was affected.

THIRSTY CATTLE SHOT AS MEN DIG NEW WELLS

Rush for Water Recalls Oklahoma Oil Days.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Guthrie, Okla., July 24.—[Special.]—An increasing number of animals are being tortured by the intense heat and lack of water and are dying from thirst in the pastures and on the range in Oklahoma and Kansas. Victims are being humanely shot where it is impossible to save their lives.

Farmers and ranchmen in both states are battling day and night against many handicaps to provide water for both man and beast. Never in the history of these two states have cattlemen generally been forced to transport and pump water over such great distances as they are doing today.

Recall Oil Rush Days.

Night travelers in south central Kansas find an atmosphere of oil boom days with lighted derricks illuminating the countryside for miles around. Under these derricks engines are churning incessantly night and day, sinking wells down to a depth of 200 feet or more to reach water.

Some of these wells will furnish a central water supply for rural communities. Water will be hauled in tanks and barrels five or six miles to live stock on farms in every direction.

Both state and federal governments are taking a hand in helping farmers to get water. Carl Giles, federal relief administrator in Oklahoma, made a request yesterday for an immediate appropriation of $500,000 to provide for shipping tank cars of water into southwestern counties and other drouth stricken areas.

Will Haul Water by Train.

To avoid slaughtering thousands of animals that are doomed to die from thirst, if relief from rain and lower temperatures is not forthcoming, arrangements already have been made to get more than fifty tank cars which can be shipped to any point in the state within thirty-six hours.

It is estimated that even in many sections outside the seventeen emergency drouth relief counties the existing water supply will last only two more weeks.

Cattle and other live stock are drinking and eating any green material they can get to moisten their parched tongues. Animals in many cases are gnawing the dirt.

Mud Is Hogs' Refuge.

Hogs are resorting to their ancient method of adding to their comfort in this hot weather by wallowing in mud. But on many farms water has dried up in the natural hog wallows.

In many sections of Kansas and Missouri farmers are driving their live stock into wood lots and timbered areas along the streams and chopping down trees so the animals may feed on the foliage. Leaves of the American elm seem to be the favorite. On many farms trees furnish about the only touch of green left.

RECKLESS DRIVER JAILED FOR YEAR AND FINED $1,000

2 Other Drunk Motorists Are Sentenced.

Matthew G. Becker, 707 Taft road, Hinsdale, was sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction and fined $1,000 and costs yesterday on a charge of reckless driving before Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Traffic court. He was also given a fine of $200 and costs for passing a street car discharging passengers.

The judge gave Becker, who is 42 years old and a salesman, the maximum for each offense because, he said, a man of Becker's education and intelligence was without excuse. Becker asked that he be permitted to have a lawyer argue against imposition of the extreme penalties. The argument was set for Aug. 3. Meanwhile, Becker was allowed liberty on bond of $5,000.

Strikes Trolley Passenger.

Becker was arrested July 2 on complaint of Joseph Bolewski, 4753 South Ada street, who testified he was struck by Becker's car while alighting from the front end of a west bound street car on the 47th street line at Throop street. Bolewski was flung into the air and suffered several fractures.

"I tried to avoid a truck and swung around the side of the street car," Becker said. "I did miss three persons getting off the rear end of the car, but could not avoiding hitting Bolewski."

No Truck, Says Conductor.

James Sheehan, conductor on the street car, testified there was no truck behind the street car, and that Becker deliberately passed the standing car. Assistant State's Attorney Abraham Drucker asked that the defendant be given a heavy penalty.

Before Edward S. Scheffler in the new Safety court two drunken drivers and a man charged with reckless driving were given jail sentences. All three started serving their sentences during the afternoon.

The first intoxicated driver sentenced was James Roper, 30 years old, 532 Sheridan road, Evanston, who won a continuance on his first arraignment before the judge July 12. The continuance was granted when Roper's mother, a school teacher, pleaded that her son be given a chance through probation.

Refuses Mercy Pleas.

The judge yesterday refused to heed pleas for mercy by the arresting officer and the attorney for the complaining witness. Roper was arrested July 11, when he crashed into the parked automobile of Morris Ratner at 734 North Hamlin avenue.

"The court has made an investigation of the defendant and has found he has been in other accidents and has civil suits pending against him," Judge Scheffler ruled. "The defendant is not deserving of mercy. I sentence him to ten days in the House of Correction and fine him $100 and costs."

2d Gets Jail and Fine.

The same sentence was imposed upon William Kostanski, 24 years old, 3722 Baltimore avenue, who was arrested at 79th street and South Chicago avenue, Monday evening by Policeman Edward J. Mulhern of the Grand Crossing station. Mulhern testified Kostanski was so under the influence of liquor that he was unable to recognize Mulhern as the arresting officer at the opening of court.

Julius Topolski, 4816 South Seeley avenue, a butcher, was sentenced to serve five days in the Bridewell and fined $25 and costs for passing a standing street car at Archer and Springfield avenues. He injured Miss Alice Novak, 3140 West Pershing road, who was alighting from the car. Topolski pleaded that he had paid the injured woman's doctor's bill.

"This is a new order of things," said Judge Scheffler. "Under the old order you paid the injured party and were discharged; under the new order you must pay for endangering the public."

Raymond Russer, 26 years old, 11527 Eggleston avenue, was held by police yesterday after a coroner's jury returned a manslaughter verdict in the death of Miss Loretta Kingsbury, 21 years old, of 415 West Garfield, Monday from injuries received in an automobile accident. Russer was arrested following the accident and arraigned in Safety court on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The crash occurred Saturday night when the machine driven by the girl's father, Daniel K. Kingsbury, was struck by Russer's machine at Normal avenue and Garfield boulevard.

3 MILK WAGON DRIVERS GUILTY OF FIRING STORE

Three milk wagon drivers, formerly employed by the Bowman Dairy company, were found guilty of arson yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge James Fardy. The defendants are Edward Oenning, 36 years old; Thomas Fitzpatrick, 39 years old, and Joseph Kennedy, 24 years old.

They were convicted of firing a building housing the cut rate milk store of Henry Hauert, 3300½ Southport avenue on Feb. 20. Authorities asserted the Bowman company had no connection with the plot.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Righeimer Jr. presented evidence that the men plotted the fire after the cut rate store had reduced customers on their routes. The men threw two gallons of gasoline into a basement window and set fire to it. The blaze did damage of $1,500 and endangered three families living in apartments bove the milk store. Mrs. Augusta Sesoske, owner of the building, was overcome by smoke and had to be carried from the building. The men were apprehended when witnesses traced the license number on the automobile they used.

TWO CHICAGOANS INDICTED.

Toledo, Ohio, July 25.—[Special.]—Sam Kaufman and Carl Lewis, both of Chicago, were indicted this afternoon as robbers of the Paigs Dairy company, that lost $19,000, and of an employé of the Toledo Beer Distributors company, who lost $844.09 July 13.

HARVEY STARTS WAR ON DIXMOOR AUTO ARRESTS

Mayor Frank Bruggeman of Harvey was ordered yesterday by his city council to ask State's Attorney Courtney to start legal action against the officials of Dixmoor, formerly Specialville, who have exceeded their jurisdiction in arresting motorists, most of them out of town Fair visitors, at a stop sign at 147th street and Western avenue. It has been discovered the sign is in Harvey instead of Dixmoor.

The Harvey officials requested the money, if recovered, be returned to those arrested inasmuch as the stop sign is not only where it cannot be easily seen, but is at a cross road where no sign is necessary. A second letter ordered by the council was to the state highway department asking that the stop sign be removed and be replaced with a caution sign.

Mayor Charles Special of Dixmoor and his chief of police, Frank Delnargo, who have been trying for a week to explain the numerous arrests to Prosecutor Courtney and his staf, are to be questioned again.

BLAMES CHICAGO AUTO DEATH RATE ON LAW LAXITY

Safety Experts Hear Blast from Trade Chief.

BY HAL FOUST.

"Chicago's motor death rate," said M. J. Lanahan, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, "is a penalty the city is paying for years of lax tax enforcement. My neighbors on the south side buy their license plates in Indiana to evade the Chicago wheel tax. We ignore stop signs because we know precinct captains. The no parking signs are a public joke.

"The safety campaign now being organized is a lot of baloney unless the politicians declare an armistice on fixing. Let's put it up to the mayor cold turkey."

Safety Experts Hear Blast.

Mr. Lanahan, whose first name is Mike and whose hair is reddish, released this blast in an air cooled private dining room of the Palmer house yesterday while a group of safety experts, a subcommittee working on Mayor Kelly's campaign, were talking about reducing accidents with drivers' schools, automobile inspections and legislation.

"You're right, and Mayor Kelly appreciates that you are right," replied George W. Fleming, who is secretary of the mayor's committee. "In the last safety drive in Chicago, 100,000 tickets were issued, 14,000 paid fines, 26,000 were discharged and 60,000 never responded to the summonses. We don't want any repetition of that."

Needs Constant Enforcement.

"We don't want this safety campaign to degenerate into wholesale arrests with or without fixing," added Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. "The duty of this subcommittee is to educate the public to an appreciation of consistent enforcement. We can't choke it down the public throat any more than prohibition could be forced upon an unwilling public."

Sidney J. Williams, a director of the National Safety council, made some comparisons to illustrate the severity of this penalty that Chicago is paying. Chicago has the highest automobile death rate of any large municipality in the United States with the single exception of Los Angeles. Chicago is six times as large as Milwaukee but has seventeen times as many traffic fatalities. Chicago is five times as large as Pittsburgh but has nine times as many traffic fatalities.

Educational activities suggested by this subcommittee on education included a drivers' school for minor violators. St. Louis now has such a system. A motorist convicted of some infraction of the vehicle code is given his choice of paying a fine or of attending a drivers' school for four nights.

Another suggestion was for the police to operate an inspection service for automobiles. The inspection would concentrate upon the devices affecting the safety of operation, such as the brakes, lights, steering apparatus, wheel alignment, horn, and windshield wiper.

A third suggestion was for the police to operate a loud speaker truck or trucks to tour the streets calling attention to violations of laws or rules of safety. The Evanston police now has such a truck and this reporter of things automotive was given a demonstration yesterday.

Loud Speaker Truck Used.

Turning north in Michigan avenue from East South Water street, Robert Forster, the driver, with a microphone near his lips, noted pedestrians straggling across the broad pavement in mid block.

"Please use the cross walks at intersections," said a polite but firm voice from the horn on top the truck. "Most fatal collisions between automobiles and pedestrians are due to crossing the street in the middle of the block."

We continued north, overtaking a bicycle rider.

"Keep the bicycle close to the curb, please."

In Lake Shore drive.

"The driver of the blue bus, kindly keep to the right so faster moving cars may pass."

It was a sight-seeing bus bearing the name Norwood hotel and carrying license 65-113B. A few blocks farther and there was another slow driver in the center of the pavement.

There was no resentment to these broadcasts. They were spoken in a way to instruct and not to offend.

SECRETARY DERN ASKS MORE WAR PLANES FOR PANAMA CANAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, July 24.—More anti-aircraft guns and more airplanes are needed. That was the response today of Secretary of War George H. Dern to a question concerning the defenses of the Panama Canal. Dern praised the generally good training of the United States army men here, however.

"More money will have to be asked from congress for anti-aircraft guns," he said. "The present amount available is inadequate, although the general military equipment is good. I find the soldiers training under the worst possible conditions. They are not fair weather soldiers."

Secretary Dern and his party will fly tomorrow to Puerto Armuelles, site of recent earthquake shocks. There the party will board the S. S. Talamanca for California to inspect west coast defenses. From there he will go to Portland, where he will meet President Roosevelt upon the latter's return from Hawaii.

Star Chamber Court Sends Two Newspapermen to Jail

Danville, Ky., July 24.—[Special.]—In a star chamber session, held here late today, a city judge overruled the immunity pleas of two local newspaper men and sent them to jail to serve three hours upon their refusal to divulge a newspaper confidence.

The extraordinary procedure was the climax to a police investigation to learn the names of the persons who hanged Representative J. Sterling Towles in effigy on the courthouse lawn here last Thursday.

Start of the Trouble.

The newspaper men are Wesley Carty, city editor of the Danville Advocate and local correspondent for the Louisville Courier-Journal, and Jack Durham, reporter for the Advocate and local correspondent for the Associated Press.

They were accused of having obtained advance information that the hanging in effigy was to occur. When they withstood the secret inquisition, at which the public was excluded, and declined to betray the confidence that had been placed in their nepsapers, the city authorities determined to force them to tell by imposing fines first and then jail sentences.

When the somewhat amused populace awoke Thursday morning they found the dummy figure of the representative hanging by a rope from a tree on the courthouse lawn. Fastened to the stuffed figure was a placard denoucing the legislator for having voted for the recently enacted sales tax after promising in campaign pledges to oppose it.

Charged with Knowing Secret.

Carty was charged with having learned the essence of the placard at least nine hours before the hanging ceremony occurred, and of having dispatched the information to his newspaper in Louisville, Durham was held, it was said, because he was believed to know more about the affair than he would tell.

Haled before City Judge J. W. Harlan the two reporters, each 24 years old, were called upon to tell who informed them of the plans for the hanging. Police Chief Dick Sales stood at the door of the courtroom and brought only one witness at a time into the presence of himself, the judge, and City Attorney Chenault Huguely.

"I refuse to tell," each newspaper man promptly responded. Yesterday this response drew a $10 fine. They were released on their own recognizance, told to think it over, and return today. This afternoon, when they would still not betray their informants, the court ordered them to jail.

Employer Stands by Them.

"They were told to return tomorrow," said their employer, Vernon Richardson, managing editor of the Advocate, "and I understand that the court intends to sentence them to 12 hours in jail and keep it up until they are forced to tell.

"Even I don't know what is the technical charge against the men. Mayor George McRoberts said he was determined to get to the bottom of the affair and apparently the plans are to 'ride' every one until they force out the information they want. I was summoned to the inquiry but was released when I informed the judge I didn't know anything about the hanging in advance.

"It is my understanding that the investigating officials suspect that a number of well to do business men were back of the episode, because they resented Towles right about face on the sales tax question and that if they can find out who were the perpetrators of the plot the representative plans to file libel suits against them."

COWBOY JUDGE LEADS OKLAHOMA CONGRESS RACE

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 24.—(AP)—Two names long on the pages of the congressional directory, Representatives Tom McKeown and Jim V. McClintic, tonight appeared on their way to erasure via the Oklahoma run-off primary.

P. L. Gassaway, the district judge who steps to the bench in cowboy boots and hangs a ten gallon hat on a peg, has 7,207 votes to 4,310 for McKeown in returns from 85 of 438 precincts in the Fourth district Democratic race for congress

Sam Massingale, attorney, piled up 15,858 votes to 10,437 for McClintic from 165 of 359 precincts in the Seventh district Democratic contest.

Will Rogers, incumbent congressman at large, led an impeached governor, Henry S. Johnston, in 796 of 3,354 precincts, giving him 52,661 votes to Johnston's 42,341.

Two other congressional incumbents, Representative Wilburn Cartwright and Representative Jed Johnson, led their opponents, C. C. Williams and Jess Larson, respectively, to apparent renomination.

A Stillwater banker, James E. Berry, seemingly won the race for lieutenant governor as running mate to Representative E. W. Marland, who received the Democratic nomination for governor three weeks ago over the opposition of Gov. William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray.

WORLD PREMIERE OF MOVIE NEW FAIR SPECTACLE

International Audience to Attend Showing.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Fair visitors Monday will be given an opportunity to view a real film premiere such as heretofore has been staged only in Hollywood. Superlatives are worn out by the press agents from the film capital, but here are two facts about the first major premiere to be staged in Chicago.

The show, it is said, will be presented to the largest audience ever assembled for a motion picture production—some 15,000 seats being available in the lagoon theater. The picture will be run off on the world's largest screen, some 50 per cent larger than the ordinary show house equipment.

Klieg lights, grinding cameras, the arrival of distinguished guests and the appearance of the director, King Vidor, will create the appearance of a real Hollywood premiere. The last preview was held yesterday, and all censors have approved the production.

International Audience.

The audience will be international, including delegations from the 15 foreign villages at the Fair, dressed in native costumes. Many of them will be official observers, for it is the intention of the producers to release the picture for world presentation.

Those in the audience will be given typical Hollywood premiere cards on which they will write comments and suggestions. The film, "Our Daily Bread," is a serious drama built around the New Deal back to the earth movement. Very few featured players have been used in the filming. As much as possible in the drouth scenes, in the depiction of the farm areas and similar scenes real workers were used.

"'Our Daily Bread' is to me one of the most important undertakings of my career," Vidor said. "It is so vital and close to the average man that I felt Hollywood would be too insular for a premiere.

Convinced by Lagoon Theater.

"I wanted a reaction from an international audience and was on my way to New York to arrange for it, when I dropped off at the Fair. After seeing the Lagoon theater I decided Chicago would be the ideal place. Nowhere else on earth could I find such an international audience."

The show will be free to all within the Fair grounds. First showing will be at 9:30 p. m. Vidor is the director who produced "The Big Parade" and "Street Scene." The film is released through United Artists and it will be the first time a first run picture has ever been presented free of charge.

Today at the Fair governors of ten states will be honored with traditional ceremony and the firing of a nineteen gun salute. Entering the grounds at 11 a. m., the state executives will be greeted by a review of the soldiers, sailors, and marines at Camp Roosevelt.

Missourian Here First.

One governor, Guy B. Parks, stole a march on the officials and slipped in yesterday, unheralded and unsung. It was not until he entered the Missouri exhibit in the Hall of States that the Fair learned of his presence. Accompanied by Mrs. Parks the governor made a complete tour of the grounds. He told reporters he might be back for the official functions today, but was in a hurry to get to the governor's conference at Mackinac Island in the hope that someone would have a solution for the drouth problem. Drouth and heat continued at the Fair yesterday but in spite of this attendance at midnight had reached 59,792.

"I am delighted with the attendance of the past few days and not at all discouraged," said Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager. "When you think of the heat and how all the middlewest is complaining it is astounding that more than 60,000 persons would visit anything. Many people are realizing that the Fair is 10 degrees cooler than the rest of the city and that it abounds with air cooled exhibits and buildings."

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Fair thought for today: There are more than 60 air conditioned buildings, theaters, shows and exhibits in the Exposition grounds where the temperature ranges in the low seventies. In addition, that cooling old drink of southern hospitality, the mint julep, can be obtained with little trouble.

The Yugoslavs will present their National day program on Sunday. The ceremonies will be at the Lagoon theater.

The Fair yesterday honored smiles and beautiful teeth. Those of the winners of the contest for the outstanding possessors of these charms are Mary Elizabeth Bort, Long Beach, California, Georgie Berry, Richmond, Virginia, and Mildred Smith, Wilbur, Washington. The winners were selected from a field of 50,000.

The El Reno High school band, from Oklahoma, will be an addition to the Children's day parade tomorrow. Admission to the Fair will be five cents for children under 12 years of age and 25 cents for those between 12 and 18.

Headed by Police Chief William Freeman, a delegation from Evanston will be welcomed formally at the Court of Honor at 2:30 p. m. today to open the Evanston day program.

Contemporary culture has an inning at the Fair today when the Crystal house entertains Miss Tess Slesinger, author of "The Unpossessed," and Mrs. Elizabeth Van Dusen of San Juan, Porto Rico, co-author of "A Soldier of Science." Weather will mean nothing to the guests, as the Crystal house is air-cooled and cocktails will be one of the highlights of the afternoon.

The sun may sizzle and the mercury may soar but the children, not worried by conventions, will find comfort. Some score of the juvenile visitors to the Fair yesterday discovered that the water in the fountain at the 12th street entrance was cooler than the air and in they plunged. A regretful policeman chased them out.

A week ago the first girl visitor to enter the Fair clad in shorts self-consciously trod the Avenue of Flags. Yesterday a newspaperman counted ten such costumes on the grounds.

The Culver Summer School Naval band of Culver, Ind., will give a concert tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock at the Hall of States. Maj. W. T. O'Callaghan will direct. The band, which has been in Chicago two days, will accompany the corps of midshipmen on a Lake Michigan cruise aboard the Wilmette, leaving here midnight tomorrow.

Rufus C. Dawes, the dignified president of A Century of Progress, was reached by the heat yesterday. For the first time the chief executive of Chicago's third World's Fair appeared outside his office without his coat. Despite the heat his shirt was unwrinkled and immaculate and his glasses perched jauntily on his nose.

DRAKE BROTHERS OUSTING UPHELD BY U. S. COURT

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday upheld the action of Charles K. Williamson, receiver for the Drake hotel, in ousting John B. and Tracy C. Drake and their families from the hotel last year. The Drakes, who had been living rent free in the hotel on the basis of a contract with the Whitestone management company, operators of the hotel, at first opposed the ouster and then voluntarily moved out on July 19, 1933.

The agreement with the management company had been signed on July 15, 1933 and under its terms the Drake brothers were given $15,000 a year and free quarters, service and food. Judge Wilkerson held that the Drakes would not have to pay the rent from the time of the agreement until they vacated their suites.

FINDS 'SNOOTIEST PEOPLE' RUNNING U. S. JOB BUREAUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—George E. Allen, former Chicago hotel manager who is now a member of the District of Columbia's governing commission, today returned to his desk after spending his two weeks of vacation "bumming" in the country's bread lines.

"The snootiest people on earth are running the federal relief agencies," Allen said today. He added that he was convinced that 98 per cent of the people on relief want a job and are not wilfully imposing on charity.

During the course of his two weeks' bumming Allen tried to get a job as a bellhop in Chicago. With a beard which he had cultivated before starting, unkempt clothes, and general down-and-out appearance, Allen haunted as a bum some of the hotels in Chicago that he has helped to run.

"I found our employment system is wrong from beginning to end," Allen said today. "Around the employment agencies run by the federal government you will find the snootiest people on God's green earth."

DEDICATE GREAT "EPIC OF NATION" STAGE TONIGHT

The great stage in the center of soldiers' field on which the pageant drama, "Epic of a Nation," will be held as climax of Jewish People's day, next Sunday, will be dedicated tonight. Two hundred representatives of various Jewish organizations will take part in the ceremonies which will begin at 10 o'clock. I. B. Ury, general chairman of the Jewish community day observances, has announced that Grisha Goluboff, 11 year old violin prodigy who will be star guest soloist at the pageant Sunday night, will also be present at the dedication program tonight.

As foretaste of colorful effects of the pageant, the dedication ceremonies will be marked by the presence of many Jewish girls in ancient Hebrew costumes carrying banners of the 12 tribes of Israel. The new stage is said to be the largest of its kind ever built. The first complete dress rehearsal will be held tomorrow night.

LAWYER REZNIK FOUND GUILTY ON PERJURY CHARGE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Tim Mathews, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Maurice Haisch, automobile larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Ralph Reznik, Monroe Williams, Leo Garberville, and Leonard Davis, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Julius Reznik, subornation of perjury, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Grover Niemeyer.

Attorney Julius Reznik, 33 years old, who was characterized by the prosecutors as "a lawyer criminal," was found guilty last evening of subornation of perjury by a jury in Judge Grover C. Niemeyer's Criminal court. The judge immediately overruled a new trial motion and ordered Reznik to jail when he could not produce a $15,000 appeal bond.

The criminal charge was the outcome of Attorney Reznik's defense of Philip Mansfield, an ex-convict, in a robbery case before Judge Michael Feinberg. An alibi was produced for Mansfield to show that he was working at the time of the alleged robbery for Graham Cogan, owner of a stationery store. During the investigation, conducted by Judge Feinberg after the trial at which Mansfield was convicted, Cogan admitted committing perjury at the request of Reznik.

Mansfield also later confessed that he had paid Reznik $50 on a promised $200 fee from the proceeds of the robbery. Reznik had previously obtained Cogan as Mansfield's parole sponsor and for this he was to have collected the fee. It was to obtain the fee money that Mansfield committed the last robbery, he told Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan and Thomas Dillon, who prosecuted the case. Reznik is also under a six months contempt sentence from Judge Feinberg growing out of the faked alibi.

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER.

John Habura, 19 years old, 690 North Sangamon street, who was arrested on suspicion early yesterday, was identified later at the Racine avenue police station by two robbery victims, Vincent Carbon, 859 North Damen avenue, and Patrick Narchi, 1452 Spruce street.

AUSTRIA HANGS YOUTH IN DRIVE ON TERRORISTS

1,500 Socialists, Nazis Thrown Into Jail.

VIENNA, July 24.—(AP)—A 22 year old Czechoslovakian Socialist, who said that "my" ideals are more important than my life," was hanged in the Vienna district prison court yard tonight as the Dollfuss government carried out for the first time in months its threat of death for terrorists.

Just before the youth, Josef Gerl, a goldsmith, went to the gallows, a companion, Rudolf Anzboeck, a hatter, who was sentenced along with him in connection with a bombing and the shooting of a policeman, received clemency from President Miklas. The president reduced his punishment to life imprisonment on the grounds that it was Gerl who shot the policeman.

1,500 Dollfuss Foes Seized.

While preparations for the hanging were under way, police arrested 300 Nazis and Socialists, bringing the total under arrest in a general roundup to 1,500.

The other 1,200 had been taken into custody earlier by political police, who claimed to have evidence that Socialists, communists, and Nazis had merged into a common front against the government. Practically all of this group were Socialists.

It was just three days ago that Gerl and Anzboeck bombed a railway on the bank of the Danube river. They tried to escape into Czechoslovakia, and a policeman who intercepted them was shot and seriously wounded.

The hanging brought to ten the number of Socialists executed in Austria since the civil war last February. To date no Nazi has been given the death penalty, although many have been arrested in connection with terrorism.

Tells Hatred of Régime.

During the trial Gerl epitomized the Socialist hatred of the Dollfuss régime since the civil war by saying: "I would rather see the Nazis in power than this government."

Both men testified that they are Catholics. Numerous recent bombings have been directed against Catholic churches and the homes of priests.

The prisoner said that the bombing for which he was on trial was "my own idea" and that he and his companion wanted to strike a blow against a government "which is enslaving the people."

A woman was added to the list of those facing death today with the arrest at Schwastenstadt, in upper Austria, of Marie Kinner, after the discovery of explosives in her hotel. Her case was referred to a court martial as was that of a neighboring grocer in whose home a bomb was found.

Czechs Are Indignant.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 24.—(AP)—Public resentment ran high here tonight over the execution in Vienna of Joseph Gerl, Czechoslovak citizen, whom the Austrian president refused to pardon despite a plea in his behalf of the Czechoslovakian chargé d'affaires. Newspapers here bitterly complained that Austrian courts treat Nazis more leniently than Socialists.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 24.—Harold Jonssen, who gave up a position as patrolman on the Chicago police force at Sheffield avenue station to assume charge of the new Reykjavik police force in 1930, was tonight slated for prime minister in the new cabinet of Iceland, which Socialists and left wing farmers are attempting to form.

Needed Legislator Shows Up at Last Minute.

Bismarck, N. D., July 24.—[Special.]—A bare quorum of the North Dakota house of representatives was obtained today after an anxious wait for the last minute appearance of the one needed legislator and the group declared itself in legal session on its own call to consider impeachment charges against state officers.

Many of the legislators were fearful that the special session would collapse for lack of a quorum. The appearance of Representative Jack Patterson of Minot saved the day.

Act to Unseat Olson.

With that cloud removed the members, most of whom are controled by William Langer, deposed governor, and his supporters, moved speedily forward with their impeachment plans, directed principally against Langer's foe, Acting Governor Ole Olson. He took the executive seat after Langer was convicted of a federal fraud.

The house voted 53 to 4 to sit as a court of impeachment to consider charges against persons named only as "state officers." The group did not indicate the officials against whom they would hear charges, but it was assumed they all probably would be Olsonites.

Then a committee was appointed to formulate impeachment procedure. After the house recessed to convene at the call of the chair, members to be given five days' notice.

It was said the other members would start for their homes while the impeachment committee will organize at once to take up its work.

Senate Falls of Quorum.

In the meantime the senate had also met but for the fifth successive day was unable to muster a quorum. Only 18 senators responded.

However, a motion was presented to ask Attorney General P. O. Sathre if Olson had the power to remove departmental heads and to revoke the special election call sent out by Langer. One of Olson's first acts when he took over the reins of the government was to rescind the Langer call; supporters of the deposed governor met regardless.

It became known today that federal investigators are keeping a close watch on the activities of the special sessions. Their presence was inspired, it is believed, by the Langerites' plan to conduct an investigation of the grand jury and federal court jury that indicted and convicted Langer of conspiring to solicit political contributions from federal workers.

In Washington, United States Senator Gerald P. Nye, whom Langer asked the North Dakota house to subpena and force to submit proof of his charges of alleged graft in the state board of pardons, said he would be "tickled to death to give any information concerning the Langer administration to the legislature."

CITIES OF SOUTH FIND FINANCE AFFAIRS BETTER

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—(AP)—A change in the financial wardrobe of many depressed southern municipalities from red to black appears certain.

Increases in delinquent tax collections, more revenue from business licenses, additional money from new enterprises, and keener methods in budgeting have combined to show finance committees the way out of conditions openly described not so long ago as "deplorable."

Not all southern cities have been in the red. Nashville, Tenn., for instance, City Auditor R. H. Thompson Jr., says, hasn't been "in the red in the last 10 years."

Savannah, Ga., where Mayor Thomas Gamble says "we spend just what we have and nothing more," has escaped the depression hangover without issuing a penny in scrip.

Many other cities in the deep south haven't been so fortunate, but some officials now see a ray of financial sunlight.

In Atlanta Mayor James L. Key finds better conditions. As a barometer of industrial expansion, Mayor Key noted, there has been a considerable increase in waterworks receipts, business license sales and a return to life of other sources of revenue which apparently had succumbed with the depression.

In that tropical city of Miami, Fla., there has been considerable improvement. City Manager L. L. Lee says the percentage of collections of levy in 1933 was 77.3, as compared with 65.3 in 1932. During the last fiscal year Miami has collected 83 per cent of real property tax, an increase of approximately 16 per cent over 1932.

City Finance Commissioner Charles Gates says Memphis has operated under its budget since 1928, when there was a deficit of $904,000. This deficit, the commissioner says, has been decreased by nearly $700,000.

At Jacksonville, Fla., where municipal bonds never have sold for less than par, City Treasurer C. W. Hendley says tax collections as of July 1 were better than at any time in the city's history. He considers the city's financial condition "excellent."

NATION 'HYPNOTIZED' BY ROOSEVELT, SAYS SENATOR HASTINGS

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was described tonight by Senator Hastings [Rep., Del.] as "the great spender" who has been "hypnotizing" the American people.

The speech by Hastings, co-chairman of the Republican senatorial-congressional committee, made in a radio broadcast, was one of the first in the party's campaign to capture more senate and house seats in the November elections.

Hastings asserted the country is in its "greatest turmoil and confusion," with "strikes visiting hardships, wounds, and even death upon a great number of our people."

"Yet," he said, "the New Deal would have the American people believe that everything is rosy."

Meanwhile, Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota, Independent Republican, predicted the Republican organization would be more reactionary in 1936 than before. He said the Democrats had not been sufficiently liberal to prevent growth of sentiment for a third party.

CLOUDS DEFEAT BRITISH AIR FORCE RAID ON LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 24.—London sleeps soundly tonight. Beaten by unfavorable weather conditions, "enemy" bombers participating in the Royal Air force maneuvers were forced to postpone their raid on the capital and concentrate on targets outside.

Safety regulations provide that no plane shall fly below 5,000 feet in London. Dense, low hanging clouds tonight made targets invisible from this height.

Storms interfered with the mimic aerial war in other parts of the country. Several squadrons of planes were reported to have returned to their bases without reaching their objectives.

10 U. S. BOMBERS END 4,000 MILE FLIGHT TO ALASKA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 24.—Ten bombing planes of the United States army air corps today winged their way to a successful completion of a 4,000 mile training and survey flight over the United States and Canada. The flight started July 19 at Washington, D. C. The big ships swooped down at 3:15 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time, on Weeks field here, under command of Lieut. Col. Henry H. Arnold, commandant at March field, Riverside, Cal.

The last hop of 500 miles started at 10 a. m. today, Chicago daylight saving time, from White Horse, Yukon territory, where the 31 officers and men rested last night.

The flyers came down the Yukon river before heading into interior Alaska. Stations of the United States army signal corps, which form a chain across Alaska, were in constant communication with the ships on the last part of the flight.

It is possible that flights westward as far as Nome will be made after the airmen are rested. They will return to the United States by way of the west coast.

GRANT NEW STAY OF 'SKYSCRAPER BURGLAR'S' TERM

Melville Reeves, 47 years old, known as the "skyscraper burglar," who has evaded prison for more than 30 years despite numerous charges against him, yesterday added at least two more months to his long record of immunity.

Reeves was scheduled to go to Joliet penitentiary tomorrow to start serving a sentence of one year to life for burglary. Yesterday he obtained a stay of sentence until the Supreme court has acted on his appeal in the case, which will delay sentence at least until September.

Reeves was convicted June 16 by a jury in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's court of robbing offices of the H. W. Kaster company, advertising agency, at 360 North Michigan avenue. Convicted before on the same charge Reeves was granted a new trial. He forfeited a $10,000 bond but later was surrendered by his attorney.

HITLER SEIZES GERMAN LABOR FRONT'S FUNDS

Move Seen as Victory for Industrialists.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 24.—The German Labor Front, which, thanks to the heavy dues collected from its 20,000,000 members, has become almost the richest organization in Germany, has placed its accounts under the control of the financial administration of the Nazi party. This measure was decreed by Rudolf Hess, deputy chief of the party.

Der Deutsche, organ of the Labor Front, says the decree "reaffirms the incorporation of the Labor Front into the directorate of the party." The measure deprives Dr. Robert Ley, chief of the Labor Front, of some of his independence and enables Chancellor Hitler and Hess to control directly most of the actions of the Labor Front and its vast funds.

Ley a Foe of Employers.

Ley, who frequently has denounced employers as "moneybags who fail to understand the new times," has been the target of serious attacks by business men and industrialists.

The clipping of Ley's financial independence is taken as an indication that the Nazi authorities are seeking to conciliate industry, which is anxious for a conservative economic course away from the experiments smacking of communism which some of Ley's friends have been recommending.

The return to more normal conditions also is shown in an announcement by Victor Lutze, the new chief of the Storm Troopers, who asked Gen. Kurt Daluege, commissar for Storm Troopers of North Germany, to turn over his appointment to Herr von Jagow, the regular Storm Troop chief for Berlin-Brandenburg. Herr von Jagow is a relative of Berlin's famous pre-war police chief, Dr. Traugott A. von Jagow.

Aliens to Be Sterilized.

Sterilization laws will be applied to foreigners residing in Germany, according to a decision reached by the hereditary health court. Foreigners, however, are permitted to leave the country if they do not desire to comply with a sterilization order.

The Prussian ministry of justice comments:

"As long as a foreigner is residing in Germany he must submit to the German laws. The main purpose of the sterilization law is to keep the German nation free from hereditary diseases. This purpose will be achieved if the foreigner leaves the country.

See Move to Block France.

BERLIN, July 24.—(AP)—The current visit of Foreign Minister Joseph Beck of Poland to Estonia has created a stir extending far beyond the two countries affected and has led to predictions that a move is under way to checkmate the French-Soviet plan for an eastern European security pact.

The visit is being watched closely in Germany, Russia, France, Sweden, Latvia and Lithuania. Advices in these countries indicate that Beck in trying to organize a sort of league of Baltic states, with Poland, is throwing obstacles in the way of the proposed "Eastern Locarno."

The Nazi press sees the end of the French proposal in a statement by the Estonian foreign minister, Seljama, that he regards the cementing of friendships by the Baltic states with Poland as a political necessity.

The evident effort of Poland and Lithuania, between whom diplomatic relations remain severed, to find a way to bury the hatchet, also was taken as an indication that the states in the east are none too enthusiastic over the Franco-Russian proposal.

The Hitler government's determination to stamp out illicit dealing in foreign exchange resulted today in prison sentences totalling 51 years plus heavy fines against 13 members of a band charged with manipulation of registered marks. An entire family of six persons was included in the band of which Eugen Herodes, 27, was the alleged leader. Herodes was sentenced to 13 years in jail and was fined 100,000 marks [about $40,000].

Saar Leader Escapes Bullets.

SAARBRUCKEN, Germany, July 24. (AP)—Police Commissioner Machts narrowly escaped assassination today when two men, jumping from a street car, fired at him as he strolled down the street in uniform.

Machts ducked behind a bus and fired six shots in reply, wounding one assailant.

Machts, who serves under the league of nations mandate over the Saar region, is a German who fled from his country when Chancellor Hitler seized power. He has been identified with the previous republican regimes.

DOUMERGUE ENDS TARDIEU-HERRIOT SCRAP IN CABINET

Averts Termination of Political Truce.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 24.—France breathed more easily tonight. The aged premier, Gaston Doumergue, who arrived in Paris this morning from his home, announced after twelve hours of secret conferences that he had saved the cabinet from all danger of collapse, which had been facing it for six days.

The political truce, on which the national government was founded after the February riots, continues until October, at least. Ex-Premier André Tardieu, left Republican minister of state, who provoked a storm by accusing ex-Premier Camille Chautemps, president of the Radical Socialist party—largest party in parliament—of guilt in the $60,000,000 Stavisky scandal, doesn't have to resign for his indiscretion.

Radical Socialists Stay.

Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists in the Doumergue cabinet, and other radical ministers in the government of truce, despite their threats, will not quit either, and finally Doumergue's new threat to resign will not have to be put into effect.

Premier Doumergue arrived from Tournefeuille after the urgency of the situation was put before him by the vice premier and minister of justice, Henri Cheron, who was dispatched southward by the cabinet for the purpose.

After the cabinet meeting tonight the premier capped the job with a masterful communique, declaring, after explanations bordering on political gymnastics, that there would be no fireworks. Doumergue steered carefully down the middle, giving little to both sides, and produced the type of statement known in French politics as a "white Negro."

Mildly Rebukes Tardieu.

Tardieu was rather mildly rebuked for provoking a breach in the cabinet. Doumergue revealed that he refused the resignations of Tardieu and Herriot on the ground that their leaving would break up the cabinet and have grave consequences.

It was an appeal to patriotism plus a threat to resign which brought the political parties in line, Doumergue reveals, and they answered his plea not to seize on an issue raised by Tardieu to ruin the work achieved by the national government since February.

There was only one fly in the ointment—a fly which, however, threatens no trouble until October at the earliest. The Radical Socialist party in a caucus tonight declared that while it would respond to Doumergue's appeal, it would no longer consider itself morally bound to keep the truce, since it was already broken by Tardieu. The whole matter will be threshed out and a definite position taken at the party congress at Nantes.

Struck by Truck, Killed; Cook County Toll Is 680

Martin McHale, 66 years old, 5115 South Menard avenue, a salesman for the General Furniture company store at 62d and Halsted streets, was killed last night when he was struck as he was leaving the store by a newspaper truck driven by Sam De Blasi, 33 years old, 731 West Ohio street. De Blasi was released to appear at the inquest. This death brought the 1934 Cook county motor toll to 680.

PRINCIPAL BRITISH CITIES TO BE LINKED BY AIR MAIL SERVICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 24.—Following the example of the United States, Great Britain is to have its own inland air mail service.

Postmaster General Sir Kingsley Wood announced tonight that a network of regular postal air services will be inaugurated in mid-August, linking up the chief centers of population in the British isles.

This important extension of mail facilities was made possible by cooperation between the postoffices and railroad companies, which will operate the new services. The centers to be connected include London, Birmingham, Manchester, Belfast, in northern Ireland, Southampton, Glasgow, in Scotland, Liverpool, Cardiff, in Wales, Plymouth, and the Isle of Man. For letters weighing not more than two ounces no extra charge will be made above the present rates.

Blue Island Board Votes to Drop Aged Schools Head

The Blue Island elementary school board voted last night not to retain J. E. Lemon as superintendent, although he was chosen last spring by the high school board to be its superintendent. The two boards traditionally have had the same superintendent, but the elementary board members said last night that Mr. Lemon should be retired because of his advanced age. Mr. Lemon is 72 years old and is one of the oldest school superintendents in the country in years of service.

Freak Storm Hits Hungary; Fish Fall from the Sky

BUDAPEST, July 24.—(AP)—A freak storm traveled across Hungary today, rooting up trees, unroofing houses and wrecking telephone and telegraph communications. Lightning caused many fires, hail storms damaged crops in various sections, and near Tarpa it rained fish—apparently sucked up from the Danube by a whirlwind.

Stench Bomb Is Hurled in Delicatessen Window

The Austin police early today were investigating the throwing of a stench bomb through the window of the delicatessen store of James Feroh at 434 North Menard avenue. Feroh said that he had been having business difficulties because of his failure to purchase from certain bakeries, which he would not name.

BOLIVIA STUDIES ARGENTINE PLAN TO END CHACO WAR

Would Stop Hostilities for Joint Mediation.

BUENOS AIRES, July 24.—(AP)—A concrete proposal for the settlement of the Chaco border war between Bolivia and Paraguay, it was stated on good authority, was brought here from Buenos Aires today by Juan Valenzuela, Argentine minister.

While no official statement was made at the ministry of foreign affairs, there was intensive activity which was assumed to have resulted from the proposals.

One high official said the Bolivian attitude toward ending the two-year conflict which has taken thousands of lives involved suspension of hostilities with a study of the controversy following immediately.

Neutral countries in South America have been greatly interested in recent weeks in bringing the war to an end and the world powers have been engaged in putting an arms embargo into effect.

[The arms embargo, sponsored by the league of nations, became practically unanimous today with the adhesion of Italy, France, and Spain. Nations which already have shut off arms from the belligerents are Great Britain, the United States, Russia, Denmark, Argentina, Brazil and Switzerland.]

The war in the Chaco Boreal has claimed thousands of lives in the last two years of intensive fighting. Both Paraguay and Bolivia have employed every modern device of warfare.

At the present time Paraguayan forces are hammering at the defenses of Fort Ballavian, the last remaining Bolivian stronghold in the Chaco Boreal.

IL DUCE PURGES FASCIST RANKS OF AN EX-BUDDY

Disliked Attitude Shown by Arpinati.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 24.—How Premier Mussolini also "purges" the Fascist organization of unruly members was revealed in a small item buried in the back pages of all Italian newspapers today.

The item says: "The secretary of the Fascist party has decided to expel Leandro Arpinati from the party for the following reason: On various occasions he assumed an attitude which was at variance with the conduct which all of those who have the honor to militate within the files of the Fascist party ought to follow."

From Socialist Hotbed.

That was all. But thereby hangs a tale. Arpinati is from Socialist Bologna, and was one of the earliest and most ardent Mussolini supporters. He was Il Duce's right hand man in policing the country after the murder of Giacomo Matteotti, millionaire Socialist deputy, in 1924. He was Mussolini's undersecretary of the ministry of interior for seven or eight years.

About a year ago Arpinati began to develop ideas of his own, and at the same time the quarrels with Il Duce started. Some say that these quarrels were coincident with the beating which Fascists administered to Arturo Toscanini, famous musician, for refusing to play the Italian Fascist anthem, Giovanezza, at Bologna preceding an opera performance.

Jinx Follows Non-Conformists.

Anyway, about a year ago it was announced that, for personal reasons, Arpinati had resigned as undersecretary of the ministry of interior. He disappeared from Fascist politics, where he had been all powerful for years. Today's brief announcement indicates that the nemesis of all those who disagree with Il Duce is still following them.

The Italians, however, point out that Arpinati's fate was also that of Augusto Turati, former secretary of the Fascist party, another fallen archangel, but, nevertheless, it is not so grievous as the fate of Capt. Ernst Roehm, late head of the Nazi Storm Troopers in Germany, and Gregor Strasser, one of the founders of the Nazi party, who were both executed.

YOUTH, 19, WITHOUT COUNTRY, FACES NAZI PRISON CELL AS RED

BERLIN, July 24.—(AP)—A 19 year old "boy without a country," who might have been an American but for a quirk of fate, today faced two and a half years' imprisonment for distributing communist literature.

He is Franz Krahl, who was born here and who would be an American if he could touch American soil during the next two years. His mother, Frau Anton Krahl, did not accompany her husband when he went to the United States and became a naturalized citizen because of the illness of an elder son, and thereby she remained a German.

Franz's story was told tonight by the mother. The boy was arrested last Feb. 2 in a police raid on the Krahls' apartment. The officers said they found communist pamphlets in Franz's room. This Frau Krahl denied. The Krahls are Jews. The father has returned to Berlin and is seriously ill.

PREDICT WORLD WAR WITHIN YEAR FROM GERMANY

Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, former minister of justice in the Prussian cabinet, now an exile from Nazi Germany, arrived in Chicago yesterday with the prediction of another world war within a year provoked "by the generals of Germany." Dr. Rosenfeld last night addressed a meeting on the German situation at 32 West Randolph street, as did Will Muensenberg, former communist member of the reichstag, and Eneurin Bevan, labor member of the British house of commons.

Dr. Karl said Hitler has dug his own grave in digging the graves of his closest followers in the recent bloody purge, and that his power has already passed to the generals who are always ready for war. The economic situation, he said, is becoming acute, many people going hungry.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

PINK POLITICS AND THE FAIR.

It is of record that the legislature complied with requests from the World's Fair management and passed some acts needed for the reopening of the Exposition this year. The Fair having been of great value to Chicago and Illinois in 1933, almost enough to counteract here the bungling of the New Dealers, the reasonableness of the legislature's compliance would seem beyond question. The legislators permitted the continuance of an enterprise, a private enterprise, which had been of more help to the city and the state than anything concocted by government. If they had refused assent to the necessary bills the refusal would have been good ground for action in a lunacy court.

Although the bills were enacted there was a considerable display of reluctance and the assemblymen also gave authority to a joint committee to investigate the Fair's management, chiefly, it was said, to ascertain whether the civil rights of colored citizens were being recognized and not impaired. This committee has opened its proceedings. The president of the Expcsition and members of the staf are being questioned. One item of legislative concern, it develops, is why the legislators have not been able to land more jobs for deserving constituents. The inquisitors are assured that politics has been granted its dole of patronage.

The dilemma of the Fair's officials was apparent. It was also a reproach to the politicians who created it. The legislators had this splendid private enterprise by the seat of the pants. By even delaying the renewal of authority they could hold up the letting of contracts, cause a dangerous delay and money loss, and they might threaten the renewal with failure when success meant again so much to the prestige and welfare of the city and state. About the only thing asked of either state and federal government was consent. A petty politician in congress forced a reduction of $200,000 in the federal appropriation and held it up until the last moment. He was a sorehead and sectional jealousies supported him. If the attitude was reprehensible it was understandable, although it resulted in a situation discreditable to the federal government, a lunatic Santa Claus in unworthy causes and a pinchpenny in one which had proved its value.

With the Illinois legislature the case was different. It became hostile to the state's outstanding private enterprise of public importance. Nothing else the assembly could do would have so much public importance as authorizing the renewal of the Fair and then keeping hands off. The character of the employed personnel was a large contribution to the success of the first year. If politics broke it down a repetition of the first success might become impossible. The management had to make certain concessions to politics and still preserve its organization, so that the public would not become offended and disgusted and so that the work could be done this year as well as it was done last year.

Now this petty committee from the all powerful legislature is on a fishing expedition searching for whatever it can get and annoying private citizens who have been doing more public good than the government has been able to do at any time in the depression. The committee comes from the same legislature which tried to revive the NRA by giving it a little illegitimate brother in Illinois.

A sudden attack of self-respect would cause the investigators to reach for their hats and get them gone, pronto.

ATHLETES ABROAD.

Uncle Sam's wandering athletic boys are not conquering the field and track abroad. Bonthron, the great Princeton miler, had one of his off days at the Oxford-Cambridge meet and trailed twice when one win would have evened the score and two would have won the games for Princeton-Cornell. A Bowdoin Rhodes scholar at Oxford took both the hurdle races and the disappointed Yankees can extract what consolation they need from that.

The trackers who invade central Europe do well when they hold their own and are failing at that. The golfers who were good in the Scottish tournament were not good enough for Mr. Cotton in England. The American crews failed at Henley. They were not the American best, but they were what was offered in competition. The tennis players were sent to the wash in their first appearances. The polo players, again not America's best, had better luck and the horses got the credit.

Touring and athletic competition are not good teammates. Seasoned internationalists ought not to be thrown off their stride, but the college boys seeing Europe for the first time may find distractions which clip seconds and feet off their performances. The boys who will try out the Japanese in field and track, baseball, and the swimming tank have yet to turn in their performances. Anyway, a summer trip abroad can't be ruined by a few sport failures.

HIGHWAYMEN IN UNIFORM.

Numerous complaints indicate that the police and the justices in some of the villages surrounding Chicago are back at their old game of shaking down the passing motorist. The game is usually played for the money in it, but not infrequently the victims are subjected to beatings and imprisonments as well. The favorite victims are tourists. They are generally without local influence and cannot afford the time or money to fight the trumped-up charges by appealing their cases.

There is one way and only one way to break up this business. When a few of the tough boys are sent to the penitentiary for the substantial sentences they have earned the village constabulary generally will mend its manners. Time spent appealing to the sense of right and justice of these uniformed highwaymen is time wasted. There is reason to think that the state's attorney is well aware of the remedy and will apply it. The sooner he does so the better, but he must be supported by the victims of these rackets. In far too many cases they shirk their duty to resist this extortion, either by paying to save time and inconvenience or by failing to appear as witnesses to support the prosecution on trial of the charge. The motorist who does this is not fulfilling his duty as a citizen and as a motorist. He may be saving himself time and trouble at the moment, but he is contributing to the continuation of the evil he has suffered and may suffer again—if not from the same racketeer from another who has been encouraged by the immunity of offenders from certain and sharp punishment. The offense is peculiarly obnoxious at this season when the roads around Chicago are carrying thousands of out of town visitors to and from the Fair.

BANKER JONES TAKES CARE OF A FRIEND.

On July 10 New York City bankers told Mayor La Guardia what the terms would be on a loan of 72 million dollars. The rate they specified, 4.05 per cent, did not appear high, since outstanding bonds of the city were selling to yield a return as much as 4.21 per cent. But little Fiorello yelled, tore his hair and paced the floor. The banks would loan the money for 3.90 or he would get the money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. They stood pat, and he went to Washington.

Chairman Jones of RFC declined to advance government funds for the purpose. But he had something better in mind. The RFC is the largest stockholder in a number of the leading New York banks, and he would see that they did a favor for La Guardia, the administration's good friend. Jones went to New York, told the bankers who their boss was, and handed them their orders. The bankers did what they were told. New York City was loaned the money on the mayor's terms.

Borrowers at banks in which the government has a stake who are not satisfied with the rate of interest they are charged should take the matter up with their congressman. Bankers who would escape the humiliating experience some of our leading financiers have just had will lose no time in buying back their freedom.

THROUGH WATERWAY SERVICE.

A few of our citizens interested in naval design may have noted that the construction of the towboat Florine that arrived at Chicago from New Orleans recently more closely resembled that of the familiar harbor tug than a river towboat. If they were sufficiently interested to follow her course they may have observed that she did not deliver her tow to a lake type tug at the mouth of the Chicago river but proceeded on to Indiana Harbor without hesitation. It so happened that the lake was calm, so progress was continued with the use of the bow towing knees that push the barges. Had it been rough she would have run around her convoy to make use of the towing machines on her stern to pull the freighters.

A few inquiries would have elicited the further information that the towboat is documented for outside service on the Gulf of Mexico between New Orleans and Mobile and also for a substantial radius in the lake beyond the mouth of the Chicago river. She is a pioneer and represents the first step in what probably will become a growing industry on Lake Michigan.

One of the principal reasons advanced by Wisconsin state organizations for supporting the St. Lawrence river development and opposing lake diversions for the benefit of the Illinois waterway is the oft repeated statement that Milwaukee would become a world port under the St. Lawrence scheme, whereas the Illinois waterway would involve transfers at Chicago from lake to river type vessels. How now, Wisconsin? Here is a harbinger of through service from Escanaba, Green Bay, Sheboygan, or Milwaukee to the vast markets of the Mississippi valley and points beyond without transfer of lading at Chicago.

Editorial of the Day

HERE COME THE STARLINGS.

[St. Paul Dispatch.]

According to Dr. Thomas Roberts, ornithologist and head of the University of Minnesota Museum of Natural History, Minnesota is experiencing the first invasion of starlings, which have proved a scourge in cities farther east. Small flocks not exceeding 25 in number have been noted, but as these birds propagate numerously a large sized nuisance is in prospect.

Starlings are an English importation, but in comparison with their raucous chattering, predatory habits, and offensive uncleanliness, the English sparrows are as sweet, peaceable and generally agreeable as regular love birds. It is the custom of the starling to do its feeding by day in agricultural areas surrounding a city, returning to town later in the afternoon to talk things over, quarrel, and raid the nests of other birds. They are an unspeakable nuisance to nervous persons, housekeepers, and the custodians of large buildings and resist all efforts to drive them away.

The starling has an iridescent black coat in which white markings appear in late summer. It is about the size of a robin but makes no seasonal migration. In this fact lies Minnesota's best hope of immunity, for recent mild winters may have given the birds such false impressions of climate that the reappearance of a normal cold season might cause them to revise their colonization plans.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AN OPEN FACED LETTER TO MR. H. WOODRUFF.

Dear Harvey: It's approaching August, Harve, the time when I should dearly love to go on vacation, but I can't go, Harve, unless you will step out of the Wake of the News and come over here on the editorial page and pinch hit as a visiting conductor for A Line o' Type or Two. It's really delightful over here, Harve, you've been here before and you always get along so nicely that I do hope you want to come back. I wouldn't urge this thing, Harve, only I do want to go down and sit in the great Atlantic ocean and gaze straight ahead of me with the gladsome knowledge that the nearest land is Spain, three thousand miles away.

Think of gazing at three thousand miles of water, wet water, deep water! Three thousand miles of water and me sitting in it. I was born away out here on the Illinois prairies and I should love the prairies and wish for nothing but to wander to and fro over their great wide expanse, but between you and me, Harve, since this drouth and heat wave started my native prairies give me a distinct pain in the instep. They're dried and withered and sere and brown and the temperature goes up to one hundred and ten in the shade and as they so quaintly say down in Illinois, "They hain't no shade."

No, I yearn for water. Of course there is considerable moisture in Lake Michigan, but when I sit in Lake Michigan I can only feel that I have sixty miles of water in front of me. And this heat and this drouth is so great that sixty miles of water doesn't cheer me up a bit. Down at Nantucket I'll have three thousand miles of water in front of me. And under the circumstances I can't do with a drop less than three thousand miles of water. I want to enjoy the great deep, boundless ocean and romp with the swordfish and the bluefish and the codfish and the lobsters and the clams. Three thousand miles of water. I think of it night and day. It's got to be an obsession with me, Harve. A bathtub is just a mockery to me. Ever since I began to think that if you sit in the waves on Nantucket beach you have three thousand miles of water to look at and splash in, I sneer at the bathtub. I kicked it once or twice, but it's a very hard bathtub and it hurt my toes, so now I merely sneer at it. But I can never get over thinking about that three thousand miles of water. So, Harve, if you can see your way clear I hope you will move into the Line o' Type column on August first. And I'll do as much for you some day. Yours Most Truly, Et cet., et cet.

REMEMBRANCE.

I've bandaged my eyes with green scenes,
My torn heart with time—
Still vibrates your voice in that loved
Slow-diminishing chime.
If as a hale friend you return
Now quietly tread—
Remembrance with passionate prayers
Kneels by her dead.

LILA TERRY.

ME, MYSELF, I'm a bit soft hearted and somewhat sentimental, and when I heard of the demise of young Mr. Dillinger I felt a slight twinge of sorrow that he had been blotted out of existence so violently. But last night I left my car in a parking station for a half hour and when I came back some fiend in human form had ripped off my left parking light and would probably have stripped the car if I hadn't got back when I did. After all, Mr. Dillinger got what was coming to him. And if they had stolen my other parking light and the spare tires I would feel even more bitterly toward the late Mr. Dillinger. It all depends on where you sit.

"NEVER HAD Blue Eagle, but U. S. Takes One Away."—Headline. Which again beautifully illustrates that famous misquotation, "To him that hath shall be given and from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath not. Selah."

"CHERCHEZ LA FEMME" (find the woman)I say the French when they are in pursuit of an arch criminal. Mr. Dillinger was so busy removing money from banks that he probably neglected to study French. If he had he might have run across that adage and avoided the trap set for him by the federal agents. And while we're on the subject we might recall that one of O. Henry's most interesting stories is called "Cherches la Femme." It's a good time to read it again, or if you've never read it then you should. And if you are engaged in crime, dear friend, let the passing out of the late Mr. Dillinger be a warning to you and from now on be very wary in forming friendships with ladies. Or as my old friend, Sleepy Burke, used to say, "Cut out de skoits; dey'll roon yuh!"

WHAT'S TO DO?

In the sea are more fish
Than have ever been caught.
There are more things to buy
Than have ever been bought.
There are more words to say
Than have ever been said,
Yet none of these things
Ever bother my head.
There are more people now
Than ever before.
There are more pretty women
Than I could care for,
Yet life is no longer
Than it used to be,
So all this abundance
Can't matter to me.

PEPTIC ULCER.

THE condition known as peptic ulcer has always been with us and, in all probability, will be present in the human family for generations to come. Human beings are particularly prone to the development of ulcers in the stomach and duodenum due to a highly organized nervous system, to the stress and strain of modern life, and to numerous unhygienic tendencies such as dietary fads, rapid eating, too much food, insufficient regular exercise, habitual constipation, and the use of very hot and very cold liquids and foods. Some authorities believe that any interference with the nerve supply to the stomach predisposes to peptic ulcer. This is borne out by the rather high incidence of ulcer cases in nervous, high strung individuals.

There are many tests for the presence of peptic ulcer. A careful X-ray examination will nearly always detect an ulcer, and the progress of healing may be watched from time to time by means of this procedure. Through examination of the stomach contents the presence of blood may be ascertained. Ulcer pain is characteristic and is usually felt when the stomach is empty. Relief follows the administration of food.

Two important dangers incident to peptic ulcer must be pointed out. First, a chronic ulcer may be located in the vicinity of a blood vessel, hence, in the course of the disease, bleeding may result. Second, the ulcer, if of long standing, may actually destroy not only the mucous lining of the stomach but the stomach wall as well. This results in perforation, with an escape of the stomach contents into the abdominal cavity, causing peritonitis and endangering life.

The ulcer patient requires careful and wise professional guidance. On the other hand, his own mental attitude and his full cooperation are more than half the battle. At least 50 per cent of all peptic ulcers heal with any type of treatment or with no treatment at all. The prime requisites for the healing of peptic ulcers may be stated:

Second—Use nonirritating food at approximately two-hour intervals.

Third—Direct as much attention to the mental attitude of the patient as to the ulcer itself.

There is no one best way of treating peptic ulcer. Medical management should take precedence over surgical care, and the majority of cases will respond with complete healing. It must be said, however, that the individual with a peptic ulcer has an ulcer tendency, and the same factors that caused the original ulcer may bring on a recurrence or a new ulcer in a new location.

Most ulcer cases may be managed while the patient is carrying on his routine work. As a rule, only cases showing hemorrhage or a tendency to perforate need to be hospitalized. If the ambulatory treatment has been tried for several weeks without improvement the patient should be hospitalized in order to secure complete control over the factors of diet and rest.

Because of the tendency to chronic invalidism and the necessary prolonged convalescence peptic ulcer presents one of the most baffling conditions faced by modern medicine. We must recognize the inherent inclination of the ulcers to heal if given a fair chance. We must also remember, as Hugo Muller puts it, that "ulcers are to a large extent self-inflicted and, therefore, preventable."

CÆSAREAN OPERATIONS.

J. F. M. writes:

1. How many Cæsarean operations can a woman have, and how many have you heard of?
2. What are birthmarks?
3. Why does an eight months baby always die?
4. How many women die from childbirth each year?

REPLY:

1. I have knows of cases where three have been performed on the same woman. No doubt more are possible. The number depends largely upon the scarring of both the uterus and the abdominal wall. Scar tissue weakens any structure.
2. Birthmarks are naevi, or dilated blood vessels, that have replaced true skin.
3. An eight months baby does not always die.
4. In the United States, about 20,000.

MANY REMEDIES FAIL.

A. L. N. writes: I am troubled very badly with constipation and have tried diet, mineral oil, pills, etc., without lasting results.

2. Is there any safe and effective worm remedy I could give to my 2 year old daughter? She has pin worms.

REPLY:

1. Send 10 cents and stamped, addressed envelope for booklet on constipation.
2. Worm candy sold in drug stores is reasonably efficient.

PROPERTY INHERITANCE.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother recently died in Maryland. I am the only living blood relative; that is, there were three children, two boys and one girl. I will call them A, B, and C. Mother and father are both dead. A recently died; he was not married. B preceded him in death, leaving five children. C still survives, is married, and has one child. 1. A left a car and other small items of personal property. Do the children of deceased B come in for a share of these items? 2. Is C sole heir? 3. C went through the court in Maryland and cleared out a certificate to title on said car, which had been registered in A's name. Can the children of deceased B make trouble for her? 4. If these children are considered rightful heirs, can they be forced to help pay C's expenses going to and from Maryland to try to settle the estate? 5. If C has been named as beneficiary on an insurance policy, can the children of deceased B come in for a share of that? F. P. D.

1. Yes.
2. See 1.
3. See 1. We assume that there was no will.
4. It is not clear that such traveling was necessary, and it does not seem probable that the court would allow the expenses against the estate.
5. No. Rights to insurance depend on the wording of the policy in question.

INSURANCE LAWS.

Chicago, July 23.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Some time ago I read an article which had to do with compulsory automobile insurance and financial responsibility laws. Are these one and the same thing? If not, what is the difference, and what effect would it have on my automobile insurance? An early reply with be appreciated as I am contemplating a cross-country motor trip and do not care to take a chance on my protection.

A. V. D.

Compulsory automobile insurance is the result of a demand for legislation to protect the public against financial loss due to automobile accidents. In most accidents the individuals and families who are least able to afford the loss of a productive member of a family are the hardest hit, since very few of them find it possible to collect adequate damages. This inability of many automobile owners to pay the consequences of ownership and operation of automobiles has given rise to a demand that the state shall bring compulsion to bear on those who have not seen fit to meet their obligations voluntarily.

Although practically every state has had compulsory insurance laws proposed, so far Massachusetts is the only state which has passed a law of this nature, which provides that before an automobile owner can obtain a license he must present a certificate showing that he has provided for the payment of legal and valid personal injury claims arising out of his negligence the claimant being faultless.

The security may be either [1] An automobile liability policy with limits of $5,000/$10,000. [2] A surety bond with the same limits. [3] A cash deposit of $5,000, or acceptable securities. The law, however, does not apply to visiting nonresident motorists.

Financial responsibility law differs in that only drivers who were involved in damage to the property or personal injury to others, and all drivers who were convicted of motor violations are required to furnish evidence of financial responsibility, which is usually in the same form as required under the compulsory law. If the automobile owner is unable to furnish the proper financial responsibility he is not accorded a license and he is not permitted to operate an automobile in the state. An insurance policy written in a company licensed to do business in the state is sufficient to comply with the law.

MORTGAGE.

Cicero, Ill., July 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a first mortgage on a home. The owner has several other properties in which he has a small equity. When he defaulted in interest payments three years ago his attorney called me in and I understood I would be paid. However, when the second mortgage people threatened to foreclose the attorney advised me to take such proceedings, which I did. The property was sold at sheriff's sale ten months ago. 1. This man's attorney acted for me. The owner is still in possession and I understand has put in an application for bonds. I also understand there is a judgment against the place which is a prior lien to the second mortgage. The second mortgage holder is willing to take a loss and split with the judgment holder, and I have been called in and asked to chisel off a bit. 2. Do you think this fair? The taxes, amounting to $1,800, are unpaid. It is my understanding the second mortgage is held by a national bank, now closed. 3. Does this make any difference? It is ten months since the sheriff's sale and I believe I should get some rent or [4] this party should get out. 5. How can I find out if this case is being handled properly? 6. Can this property be bought for taxes? 7. If so, can the party wipe me out if he obtains a tax deed?

J. S.

1. We assume that you mean the second mortgage holder's attorney. Obviously this is not a satisfactory arrangement.
2. Since the second mortgage will be barred within two months, it hardly seems that any substantial figure should be paid for a release from its holder.
3. No.
4. It is not clear whom you mean by "this party."
5. We advise you to talk the facts over with an attorney who represents only your interest.
6. There will be a tax sale if the taxes are not paid.
7. No, in the sense that two years are allowed for redemption from the tax sale.

HARDY PERENNIAL.

Chicago, July 12.—While we boast with much justification of our Century of Progress in science, we are still living in the middle ages in the matter of masculine attire for summer. We can see the supreme intelligence of this world, man, suffering acutely with his collar, tie, coat, and, in some instances, even vest, while his frivolous minded mate goes supremely upon her way unfettered with much in the way of clothing.

Two reasons are usually given by perspiring men for their voluntary martyrdom, namely, possible loss of job or prestige for nonuniformity of dress, and that women would not like it, as they are especially insistent upon coated escorts. The first could be ignored if THE TRIBUNE persuades some employers to issue a notice that coats and collars and ties would not be required of their office employes in summer. If a start could be made in Chicago the idea would spread very quickly over the nation and our children would live to bless us in summer and wonder why their grandfathers were so idiotically conservative in heat waves. American employers hire men alleged to be efficiency experts, yet never, so far as I know, have the latter pointed out the great increase in production and efficiency in hot weather to be obtained at no cost to the employer by granting the use of sensible male attire to office workers, professional men, waiters, musicians, and shop employes.

The second excuse should not endure very long. American women never worry about the male reaction to their dress changes, sensible or foolish, so why should not the men follow their common sense example?

Sensible attire would consist of leaving the coat and vest at home and wearing an open neck sport or tennis shirt. Such looks much neater than the partly open shirt neck with tie-strung-loosely-around style adopted in some male circles at present.

ALEXANDER LINDSAY.

THANK YOU

Abingdon, Ill., July 21.—THE TRIBUNE is deserving of the unqualified support of every liberty-loving American for its courageous fight against the octopus which is steadily enveloping us.

To Americans whose family history is bound up with the history of the nation the ravings of THE TRIBUNE critics, which it so magnanimously publishes, brand the ravers as reapers in the present unparalleled spoils system, lacking in intelligent thought, or members of the communist organization, which is destroying our freedom and reducing us to the "planned economy" and "planned society" in which "the working class" will own no education, no cars, no homes, or even themselves.

How Americans of average intelligence who have been through the eighth grade, where the constitution is taught, can fall for the bunk put out by the administration is beyond comprehension.

CONTRAST.

Chicago, July 20.—The experience of Mrs. Binder should warn ladies so inclined not to play around with the good little boys. Sooner or later their consciences smite them and they must "tell all," usually when they are ready to quit anyway or have been found out. Confession is good for his soul, if not for the lady.

The so-called worldly, sophisticated man will stand the gaff, keep his mouth shut, and protect the one who has favored him, but the good man is willing to let the woman pay.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER.

FROM JUDGE ELLIOTT.

Chicago, July 19.—On Monday, July 16, 1934, I presided in the new Safety Traffic court in the absence of Judge Scheffler. Upon the conclusion of my call I went over my sheets and the results of the work with the representative of THE TRIBUNE, who had been in court all morning and had listened to testimony of the witnesses in each case.

On Tuesday morning THE TRIBUNE published a correct account of the activities in my courtroom on Monday, indicating, among other things, that several defendants, charged with driving while intoxicated, were discharged because of the lack of sufficient evidence. The police and the complaining witness testified that they smelled no liquor but only saw them staggering.

On Wednesday morning, in an article concerning the Safety court, reference was again made to my work on Monday, stating that I was a candidate for reelection in the fall and that the convictions had slumped during my presence there, and also restated that eight defendants were charged with drunkenness, five continuances were granted, and three were discharged, but did not again state why they were discharged, leaving the impression that the discharge was caused by my candidacy for reelection, and not because the evidence in the cases with insufficient to convict.

I feel that this reference to my candidacy for reelection carries with it the implication that the discharge of the defendants was due to my political interests.

I have been assigned for a good portion of my term to the criminal branch of the Municipal court and have endeavored throughout to decide my cases in accordance with the law and the evidence without regard to political or other influences, and I am continuing my service without permitting my candidacy in any way to interfere with my judgment.

BICYCLES.

Chicago, July 17.—Cannot something be done to keep bicycle riders off the sidewalks and on the streets, where they belong? In spite of the fact that there is a law against this, these lawbreakers continue to speed along the sidewalks, endangering pedestrians.

Friday evening, July 13, my 8 year old niece was struck by one of these public enemies as she was coming out of a gangway on Western avenue, near Winnemac avenue. The courageous, considerate rider kept on going with a "Get out of my way," after he had hit her. This child received a gash on her cheek in which several stitches had to be taken. At the hospital to which we rushed her we were told that cases similar to this one were brought in there every day.

MUFFLERS ON MOTORCYCLES.

Milwaukee, July 19.—In the July 6 issue of THE TRIBUNE you featured an editorial, "Mufflers for Motorcycles," that carried the implication that motorcycles are not regularly fitted with mufflers. No stock motorcycles are sold and delivered from any American factory without being equipped with mufflers of a highly efficient type.

It is only a few unthinking riders who detach their mufflers or fit them with cutouts. The great majority of riders take keen pride in the quiet operation of their motorcycles and do not approve of the tactics of a small minority who by their actions bring discredit to one of our finest sports.

BORAH ATTACKS MONOPOLY IN PIONEER TALK

Says It Balks Recovery of Nation.

St. Anthony, Idaho, July 24.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah today renewed his fight against what he described as "monopoly" under the NRA. He chose the Mormon Pioneer day celebration here to contrast hardy early day men with those in countries subject to dictatorship.

"If you would know the pioneer's full stature and grasp the full force of his genius, contrast him with the cowed, whipped, fear smitten, spineless, dependent creatures with whom Nazism, fascism, and communism would fill the world."

Talks of New Deal.

Turning to the question of monopoly, he said:

"When I discuss the question of monopoly, I am accused of attacking the 'New Deal' by critics who are 'unwilling or unable to meet the question presented.'

"Do these people contend that when a person attacks monopoly he attacks the New Deal? Is monopoly and the New Deal one and the same thing?"

Senator Borah asserted the "basic purpose" of the New Deal is to increase purchasing power and added:

"The effect of monopoly is to decrease, if not destroy, purchasing power among the people. The most insidious and most successful enemy of the New Deal, according to its announced purposes, is this power of vast combinations to fix prices and to take off all the gains which may come to the farmers, the producers, or the laborers.

Purchasing Power Static.

Mr. Borah declared that, "After a heroic effort of months upon the part of the government, the purchasing power of farmers and laborers has been "but little increased, if at all."

"This," he continued, "is due to the fact that monopoly is in a position to raise the prices of practically everything which the laborer must buy, and everything the farmers must buy, and everything which the general consumer must buy, and that is what is being done.

"The farmer can never win on that basis."

Recalls Mormons' Arrival.

Branding monopolies as "economic Hitlers," he asserted "there is no more reason why the American people should bow to their decrees than to the decrees of Hitler."

The celebration was on the anniversary of the arrival 87 years ago of the Mormon pioneers in the Salt Lake valley, a day observed not only in Utah but in the eastern Idaho communities, which were settled by the Mormons.

POSTPONE HEARING IN FIGHT FOR THOSE WORKING AT HOME

Attorney Julius W. Hochfelder, who represents 187,000 mothers who are barred from home work under the NRA, asked for the continuance, informing the court he had radioed President Roosevelt in an attempt to obtain an explanation of the President's executive order last May 16 which barred mothers from home work, but permitted the aged and crippled to engage in home occupations. He asked for a postponement to permit the President to reply.

The lawyer also represents Mrs. Kathryn Budd, Brooklyn mother, who was barred by Nathan Straus Jr., state chairman of the national emergency council, from making artificial flowers in her home, although the New York state industrial commission had issued her a permit to do so. Mrs. Budd plans to resume the making of the flowers in a few days, defying the NRA enforcer. A test case is expected to result.

CONGRESS DRIVE LAUNCHED HERE BY REPUBLICANS

Open Headquarters for Fall Campaign.

Republican western headquarters, from which most of the senatorial and congressional campaign will be directed, began to function yesterday at the McCormick building, 332 South Michigan avenue.

Carpenters, painters and telephone men still were banging around when Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa and Congressmen Chester C. Bolton of Ohio and some of their associates moved in, but the physically unorganized situation did not lessen the ardor of the early arrivals.

General Staf Moves In.

Among them in addition to Senator Dickinson, who is to handle the affairs of the senatorial committee here, and Representative Bolton, who is chairman of the congressional campaign committee, were Congressman Leo E. Allen of Galena, Ill., and Congressman Lloyd Thurston of Iowa, also members of the general staf.

"The last few weeks," said Senator Dickinson, "have convinced everybody that this administration is not going to check the swing to the left that has been becoming more and more pronounced and that the only way to check it is to dry up the appropriations. The only way that can be done is by changing the complexion of congress."

"Resentment in South."

He said that there are increasing reports that Democratic congressmen, even in the south, are beginning to hear of the resentment of their constituents over the pouring out of wealth at Washington.

"They are being challenged everywhere," he said. "It's the backlash of the New Deal. The people are just disgusted."

He said that in Iowa the Republicans will win five out of six congressional seats. He said the gain throughout the country would be enough to put an end to "rubber stamp legislation."

PROTEST IMPOST OF SECOND CODE ON UTILITY FIRMS

New York, July 24.—Briefs protesting against the proposed code for the duplicating and mailing industry have been filed with the National Recovery administration at Washington by the Consolidated Gas company of New York and its affiliated companies, by the Niagara Hudson Power corporation and its associated companies, and by the code committe of the electric light and power industry and the manufactured gas industry.

George B. Cortelyou, president of the Consolidated company, contends in his brief that the application of more than one code to a public utility industry would be unwaranted. As the duplicating and mailing code is now worded, it would include under its provisions as "private plant members" utilities and other businesses which, for their own consumption, carry on multigraphing, addressographing and other duplicating processes "sufficient to require the equivalent of at lease one worker's full time."

SEN. NYE'S CALL DEMAND JUNKING OF NRA AT NEXT CONGRESS MEET

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Junking of the NRA and the creation of a more acceptable recovery device will be asked at the next congress unless the Blue Eagle administration is drastically revised, Senator Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.] said today.

Senator Nye, sponsor of the Darrow inquiry into the NRA, said that the recovery administration had failed as an agency designed to promote better business. For this reason, Nye explained, he expects to seek its end when congress meets.

The life of the NRA expires next June and some action must be taken to revise or continue it.

Senator Nye said that as a substitute for the NRA he would allow industry to negotiate fair practice agreements before the federal trade commission. A new system of courts then would be created to pass upon complaints against the agreements.

MOVIES PAYING COSTS OF CODE FOR NEW DEAL

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—The motion picture code authority today submitted to NRA the schedule of contributions from members of the industry for administrative expenses.

The schedule ranges from $20,000 a year to $6 a month for members of the production and distribution branches of the industry.

Six concerns down for $20,000 a year are Warner Brothers Picture corporation, Paramount Pictures corporation, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Fox Film corporation, United Artists corporation, and RKO Pictures corporation.

The Universal Pictures corporation and Columbia Pictures corporation were listed for $15,000 annually.

Group one producers are scheduled at from $600 to $1,500 a year, with most in the lower bracket. Monogram Pictures corporation is slated for $1,500 and Majestic Pictures corporation and Mascot Pictures corporation for $900 each. The others are for $600.

Independent producers in group 2 are listed for $20 a month each, along with "miscellaneous importers, exporters, and producers."

Independent exchanges are scheduled for $6 a month, with a few exceptions, which pay $12, $18, $24, and $36.

NRA requested that all criticisms, objections, or suggestions to the proposed basis of contribution be submitted to Sol A. Rosenblatt, division administrator, before Aug. 6.

PLANT DAMAGED BY RIOTERS NOT TO BE REOPENED

Artificial Silk Firm Finds Costs Too High.

Hopewell, Va., July 24.—(AP)—The Tubise Chatillon corporation today announced it had decided to stop manufacturing artificial silk yarn at its riot-closed Hopewell plant.

The announcement was made in a communication from J. E. Bassill of New York, president, to Miss Anna Weinstock, United States labor department commissioner of conciliation.

President Bassill said the decision was made because the riot of June 29 damaged materials and equipment so badly, and because technological developments and business conditions are unfavorable to the continuance of the nitrocellulose process in the Hopewell plant.

Decides Not to Open.

"In reviewing the situation which confronts us with respect to the manufacture of nitrocellulose yarn, and taking into consideration the manner in which this plant was closed, the expense of reopening it, the time involved before a satisfactory quality production can be reached, the stock of yarn on hand, present low selling prices and the relatively high cost of production brought about largely by increased labor and raw material costs, we have reluctantly concluded that our stockholders' interests would not permit the reopening of the plant for the manufacture of yarn," the letter said.

The letter referred to the strike as a "force out" of plant employés "resulting from a raid sponsored by union sympathizers." The controversy started when the plant refused to re-employ discharged workmen, whom union representatives say were fired because of union affiliation. The plant management contended it did not know whether the men were members of the union or not.

1,850 on the Pay Roll.

When the strike occurred the plant payroll numbered approximately 1,850. Potential employment of the plant in full operation was 2,500.

Mr. Bassill said "with respect to the operation of our knitting, dyeing and finishing plant, we are prepared to give serious consideration to a resumption of activities in these departments as soon as business conditions permit." This department is said to employ about 250.

Mr. Bassill said the Tubise corporation was the third largest producer of rayon yarn in America, and that the Hopewell plant was the only one of its kind in the country. The factory was built at a cost of 5 million dollars and has been in continuous operation for thirteen years.

Mr. Bassill said the company's investigations showed a majority of the workers answering a company questionnaire did not favor the strike.

LONDON, July 24.—Solicitors acting on behalf of Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, today began suit for alleged slander against John Marchbank, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, following a speech he made recently at Newcastle. The speech referred to apparently was one delivered by Marchbank on July 15 in which he made startling allegations of Fascist activity in the trade union movement and among British armed forces.

FREE ICE FUND HAS BANNER DAY; NEED INCREASES

More Gifts Required to Check Suffering.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

As the heat wave reached a new peak yesterday readers rushed their gifts to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund to speed the delivery of ice to needy families where the lives of scores of babies are endangered. The day's receipts were $228.10, by far the largest amount received on any day this season.

Meanwhile the United Charities acted on the emergency measure made possible through the $5,000 gift to the ice fund from the Golden Gloves receipts announced on Sunday. Officials hurried the distribution of free ice tickets to hundreds more families whose ice needs were known to health and family relief agencies.

Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the charities, stated yesterday that even the Golden Gloves gift together with what the public has contributed will be insufficient to alleviate such widespread suffering. It will do a great deal of good, he declared, but every additional penny the fund can get must be collected to assure the delivery of ice the rest of the summer.

$50 by Special Messenger.

By special messenger came $50 from the Milk Foundation, Inc. A letter signed by Carl F. Deysenroth, executive secretary, praised the work of the free ice fund and expressed the foundation's eagerness "to help carry along this very worthy cause."

The other gifts arrived in rapid succession. There were gifts with messages wishing the fund luck, from several guests at Chicago's summer resort hotels. Checks came from the head of a grain company, from a dentist, from the infant son of an advertising photographer and from a hospital patient.

All applications for hearings should be addressed to Newspaper Row, A Century of Progress.

He will return to Hollywood this fall to make two more pictures for Universal.

Historical Society Obtains Additional Pieces.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE opening of the Lafayette centenary exhibition next Tuesday at the Chicago historical society will hark back to July 31, 157 years ago, when the Frenchman received his appointment as major general in the Continental army of the American revolution. This year marks the 100th anniversary of his death. The gold epaulets, delicate lithographs, letters, and slender sheathed swords will be seen in the collection.

Probably one of the most prized pieces loaned to the society for the exhibit is the "true to life" pencil sketch of the young Lafayette done by Duvivier in 1790. Narratives of the thrilling battle of Yorktown read long ago in school histories will be brought to mind at the sight of the famous old Gatinais cannon, loaned by the French government for the occasion. Swords, seven of them, with richly ornate handles, inscribed with the marquis' name and title, are also to be placed on display. On one are the words, "Vaincre ou mourir" ["To conquer or die"].

Miss These Bonney of New York, the Count de Chambrun, direct descendant of Lafayette, Judge Walter P. Gardner, president of the American Friends of Lafayette, and Stuart W. Jackson, vice president of the organization, have offered further prized pieces for the exhibition. Combined with the material already owned by the historical society, among which is the embroidered green silk dressing gown worn by Lafayette, the exhibition promises a wealth of interesting relics intimately connected with the daring Frenchman's career.

Among those serving on the honorary committee with Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes as honorary chairmen are Robert Hall McCormick, president of the Alliance Française, Dr. Robert B. Harshe of the Art institute, Charles B. Pike, Henry J. Patten, Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Edward H. Bennett, John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey.

Miss Stevenson to Be Bride Today.

Today's bride is Miss Marianne Stevenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. D. Stevenson, who will be married to Paul Budd Magnuson Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson, at a quiet ceremony at 5 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's church. The Rev. Eugene Shannon will read the service. Miss Caroline McNair will be Miss Stevenson's only attendant, while Dr. Magnuson will serve his son as best man. Oliver M. Knode Jr., and Booth Benson will usher.

The wedding and the buffet supper which will follow at the home of the bride's parents on Fullerton parkway will be very small because of Mr. Stevenson's illness, and for the same reason the bride's brother, James Stevenson Jr., will give her away. Mr. Magnuson will take his bride on a week's wedding trip, and on their return they will be at home at the Magnuson farm in Barrington. Dr. and Mrs. Magnuson are sailing for Europe on Aug. 1.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding will be the bridegroom's

Studio Seeks New Title for Dietrich Film

Believes Story Troubles Are Solved.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 24.—Paramount has had difficulty in choosing a new Marlene Dietrich vehicle wholly unchallengeable in name, theme, situation, or characterization at just this time. "Red Pawn," story of a Russian wife who commits a crime in order to be sent to Siberia, has been abandoned. So has "Lady of the Lions." Now it is the idea to combine a third story, "Lorelei," with a situation and characterization lifted out of an unnamed novel whose story rights the studio has purchased. The name of the novel is not announced because the whole story might not be found unexceptionable. The studio has completed negotiations with John dos Passos for him to come on from New York and blend David Hertz's "Lorelei" with the siren of the unnamed novel.

Herbert Mundin, the English comedian, went to Redondo Beach, ocean suburb of Los Angeles, to see a showing of the new picture, "Call It Lucky," in which he and Charlie Starrett were featured. In the lobby Mundin noticed a photo of Starrett, former Dartmouth football player, which bore Mundin's name. The comedian decided he would fume about it for effect.

Francis Perrett, at the Fox Western Avenue studio, was on the receiving end of some of the Mundin's fuming, so he sent the following telegram to Mundin: "Dear Tommy—Have just seen my name used under your photograph and have just committed suicide. Hoping you are the same.—Charles Starrett."

This brought the following retort by wire from Mundin to the bewildered Starrett: "All my fans have seen your photo used with my name and all my fans as well as myself have committed suicide.—Mundin."

Metro Goldwyn Mayer is spending $1,500,000 to turn out the Jeanette McDonald-Maurice Chevalier version of "The Merry Widow."

Ernst Lubitsch held a house warming at his new Brentwood mansion last Sunday with 140 guests and an orchestra present. But the German consul who used to attend the Hollywood Lubitsch affairs was not there. Lubitsch has offered his huge home for the wedding of Jeanette McDonald and her manager, Bob Ritchie. Whether they will accept is doubtful. A lot of people think Jeanette and Bob have been married for a couple of years, despite their pooh poohing remarks when asked.

Pat Harmon, actor much mentioned in the Dave Allen-Gloria Marsh trial in Los Angeles, doubled for Wallace Beery in a number of pictures according to a statement by one of the witnesses at the Allen trial.

Irvin Cobb says, regarding the abandonment of Mae West's movie title, "It Ain't No Sin," that he suggested the following new title and he won't charge her studio a cent for it. Cobb's new title is "Yes It Is."

Cobb was also talking about the reason that Fox didn't make faster time completing the movie in which it used Will Rogers to depict one of Cobb's story characters, Judge Priest. "It always took eight electricians to pull Tom Brown and Anita Loos [who are engaged to be married] apart from their love scenes and in this way much time was lost," Cobb said.

Anita and Tom played the young romantic lovers in "Judge Priest," which some who saw the preview describe as the best movie Will Rogers ever appeared in. If half of what the studio expects of this film comes true at the box office the governor of Kentucky will make the whole Rogers family colonels.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who, we were told, was leaving for Ireland definitly and positively last week-end for her first trip back to the old country, stayed over until today and signed for the rôle of Dora, wife of the hero in M. G. M.'s "David Copperfield." This makes the eleventh time she announced she was starting for Ireland on a definite date. Either Frank Law-

Miss Anne Jay Bryant, daughter of the John Jay Bryants of Wheaton, presents a cool and charming picture to eyes that have had enough of heat such as Chicago has had for the last few days. Miss Bryant will return to the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr in the fall, and her parents do not plan to introduce her to society for at least two more years. She is summering in Wheaton, and spends as much time as possible in the Chicago Golf club pool.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We haven't the figures, but we'll wager that if a survey were taken it would be revealed that Chicago leads the whole world in the matter of beauty shop niceties. We've heard tell of the swanky New York salons where bridge foursomes are gathered under a quartet of dryers, or where long mint juleps are served on a hot afternoon, but in this town, while we may be a bit less sophisticated, we're plenty practical. The shops here make the life of a lady in search of beauty as pleasant as possible.

For example, the beauty salon of a store provides loose, light slips—something like grandpa's nightshirts, but happily sans sleeves—to wear these hot days during the whole hot rigmarole of being trimmed, shampooed, waved, and dried. They make a heavenly difference. Until dryers, by some magic process, restore our soaked locks back to normalcy by some method other than the rush of hot air to the head, the shampoo will never be exactly a summer idyll, but the doffing of garments and sliding into a cool apron make it almost so.

If you're due for a shampoo while the temperature here is trying to put the lower regions in the air conditioned class, try one in this shop. You'll be amazingly comfortable. But if you remember your past experiences under a dryer, when you dissolved and your clothes dissolved with you, perhaps your most comforting thought will be that you're ruining some one else's clothes! Your own hang unrumpled and unmoist in an adjacent treatment room, where you don them when you're all beautified.

You'll find, too, that the only thing that tops the shampoo and wave as a booster of sagging morale on a sticky day is the same—plus your summer dress in its original state of freshness.

Looking Cool on Torrid Day Called an Art

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What is more important in this day and age than to have that fresh tubbed look about us always? It isn't the easiest thing in the world to live up to such a reputation while the thermometer hovers around 90, but with a little extra effort on our part we can keep from looking like something the cat dragged in.

What must we do to achieve that immaculate look? First, the daily bath. At least one bath a day is necessary. If circumstances permit of an extra shower during the day, or after we have finished our day's work, so much the better for us. There are those who find the warm bath preferable, even though the day is warm, as it soothes and relaxes, but the majority of us long for the moment we may hop under the shower and enjoy its soothing coolness. It's so refreshing and seems to give us the pickup we need after a full day at the office, or on our return from a shopping expedition.

Soap should be used with the shower, because the oil glands are always active, and to eliminate any possible unpleasant odor resulting from perspiration.

Bath salts, water softeners, and bath essences, of which we have so many and which have such tantalizing odors, were never in such popular demand as they are today. They make you feel refreshed, and it is this refreshing influence that is so beneficial. You'll not want the brisk rubdown now; just pat yourself dry with the towel.

Now you're ready for your favorite toilet water or eau de cologne. The alcohol in these preparations is cooling and soothing to the skin. A dusting powder completes the operation. It, too, has a cooling and soothing effect, because it hastens the evaporation of perspiration. There are dusting powders which have deodorant properties, which is an added advantage.

We may now step forth the refreshed, dainty person we'd like always to be.

Hollywood, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Cecelia Parker, blonde actress, 20 years old, who is playing Greta Garbo's film sister, went to court today to get her contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer legalized. The contract is for seven years and starts at $75 a week, and finishes at $1,000 a week, if all studio options are renewed. Miss Parker was born in Fort William, Ont.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

LITERARY note: Margaret Ayer Barnes, whose last novel was "Within This Present," has ninety pages done on a new one, to be called "Edna, His Wife."

Her sister, Mrs. Authors—Alphabetical—Indians—Names. Kellogg Fairbank — Janet Ayer Fairbank, whose latest was "The Bright Land," also has a new novel started—two new novels, in fact. At the Fairbank house over the week-end there was some discussion as to the difference in the methods employed by men and women writers. Some one commented that the wives of men writers had to devote their lives to making life smooth for the writers—keeping the house quiet and disturbances away from the room where genius is enthroned, and sending in coffee and cigarets at the right moments. And both the distinguished authoresses, who have large families and many social responsibilities, sighed deeply at this point. One saw that women writers had no such pampering and that, indeed, the difficulty was in finding time to get at the typewriter at all.

MRS. BARNES is to do some lectures next fall, and when her agent asked for the titles of her lectures, she told him she had only one, and really didn't have time to get up a second one. Her one lecture is called "An Accidental Author," she told him.

"But the club ladies like to have a choice of titles," he pointed out.

They got around it by having two titles for the one lecture. It now is called both "An Accidental Author" and "Behind the Typewriter."

ANOTHER Chicagoan hard at work on a book, the publishing of which already is contracted for, is the trilogy between two covers that Arnold Gingrich is trying to get completed before October. He has 40,000 words done—or maybe it's 60,000 . . . anyway, there'll be 100,000 when it's done. And it's got a swell title taken from a line of James Elroy Flecker, but we can't remember that either. . . . Boy, a tall, cool drink, please, and put a sign on the door, "Mind-as-Frail-as-a-Lily Department."

PROBABLY you've known it all along, but we just learned the other day that the men in one of the more prominent Smith families of the town have middle initials in alphabetical order. For instance: There is Solomon A. Smith—he's the one who is president of the Northern Trust company; Walter B.; Harold C., and Bruce D. Smith.

DISILLUSIONMENT note. "The Landing of Jean Nicolet" recently was reënacted in Green Bay, Wis., at the tercentennial celebration, and a number of local Indians were enrolled in the cast. Considerable difficulty was encountered in teaching them to paddle canoes, as most of them had never seen one.

AND while we're mentioning names, we'll open the closed door of the Funny Names department just long enough to slide in that of Colin Wood, who deals in oil, coal, and wood; and the Mr. Whynot on South Winchester avenue, listed in the telephone directory.

Buttons Make or Break New Autumn Frocks

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Buttons and neckwear will make the best of the new fall street dresses. The idea is to spend all you can for a strikingly simple one piece frock, one of those indispensable costumes that you can pull on in the morning and wear all day through with the proper accessories and maintain your amateur standing as a knowing clothes collector.

Get a dress that is just a sheath of an affair without the extras, but a dress that will stop traffic once it is on and accented with the right highlights of neckwear and buttons.

Some of the smartest models are carefully buttoned down the back in a long straight row of "flats," with the last few left unbuttoned as a bit of flippant gayety. And the whitest, most extreme of ruffled bibilke collars that top these sleek black, dark green, or brown thin woolens also button or fasten at the back neckline.

Ruffs of stiffened linen with wide flared cuffs to match are for tailored simplicity. Ruffled square sailor collars that are both deep, wide and uncompromisingly white are available in sheers or piqué and linen. Huge plastrons of silk, satin or linen are made to cover completely the chest sections, with tiny bands of matching material to accent the wrists.

But the new buttons banish all fear of having a frock that is ordinary. Huge, very flat affairs that are almost plate size come in all colors, and some, extraordinarily beautiful, in mother of pearl. These outsize buttons have very large holes so that bands of the dress material can be used to anchor them in position. Extra large sized buttons in square outlines will also decorate handsomely the back lines of silk crêpe and thin wool fall models.

The nut brown wooden shade in this size is particularly effective with fashionable greens and browns. And navy blue buttons crossed with silver in thick squares are going to lend plenty of charm to the new gentian blue shades in fall woolen costumes.

Set all you have on unusual buttons. They'll turn the fashion trick better than any other dress gadget you can buy.

Fashion photograph. . . . Colored cotton tailored house pajamas are the best buys of the season. The outfit illustrated is of pale green and white checked material, with wide buttonholes and a wide tailored belt as snappy as the checked pattern of the material. Available in a moderately priced collection in a Chicago shop.

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Bellchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child doesn't know the cause of her mother's long absence and grieves for her. Fearing for the child's health, Nanna, her nurse, wires Cecily. David, who is about to marry Audrey, is giving a dinner party for her when Cecily arrives. Nanna admits Cecily secretly. David stops in the nursery before retiring and sees Cecily sleeping beside Rose Ann. Suspecting she plans to kidnap the child, he lies in wait till morning. Then he orders her and Nanna from the house.

BLACKMAIL.

Audrey and her mother were about to sally forth when their maid-of-all-work came in to say that Mr. Davies had called and wished to see Miss Lowe—see her privately.

"What does Reggie want with you?" Mrs. Lowe demanded.

"I don't know, mother. I'd better find out." Audrey replied, nervously.

Reggie, her cousin, had not been persona grata with them since he had got himself involved as co-respondent in the Marshall divorce suit. When that happened the Lowes and the Hollisters had washed their hands of him.

He wasn't a bad looking young man, but he was a little stupid and, with all his advantages of birth and education, had never risen very high in life. He worked in a travel and theater ticket bureau and lived in a boarding house which pretentiously called itself the Grand Hotal. He was always well dressed, very polite to women, and danced with the finished grace of a gigolo.

Audrey came hurriedly into the little drawing room where Reggie had been shown, pulling on her gloves with her handbag tucked under her arm, thus giving him to understand that she had not much time to waste on him.

"Sorry," said Mr. Davies. He looked worried and the expression was unusual. Reggie took things as they came, as a rule, unless they came a little too fast for him. It had happened like that in the Marshall divorce proceedings. Afterwards he had confessed to sympathizers that he didn't know where he was and on his oath he had never so much as kissed Cecily Marshall's hand, let alone run away with her.

"I had to see you, Audrey. The fact is—well, it's dashed awkward to explain."

"Hurry up and tell me."

"You remember that man and woman—the people who kept the Rounford Arms—name of Partridge——"

"Yes, I remember them," Audrey said quickly. What on earth was coming now?

"For heaven's sake, Reggie, give her the money. We can't have a thing like this cropping up, don't you understand? David and I are to be married."

"Well, it seems they fell on hard times recently. The woman called at my place to see me last night. My word, I was annoyed! Her husband drank a great deal, she told me, and a few months ago he fell off a ladder and broke his neck. Seems there wasn't any insurance and she had to sell up the pub for whatever it would fetch. But they owed the brewers and all that——"

"She wanted money out of you?" Audrey interrupted.

"How did you guess?"

"Good heavens, I can spot a hard luck story from the opening words. How much did she ask you for?"

"Fifty quid."

"And what did you say?"

"I told her to clear out. Why should I pay that filthy liar money when she had helped to take away my good name?"

Audrey did not laugh, as perhaps Reggie had expected her to do.

"And what did Mrs. Partridge say to that?"

"She was rather ghastly and mysterious. She said if I didn't have the money myself I was to ask you for it. And if you didn't happen to have it she was going to approach David Marshall."

"Perhaps if she does go to Dave she'll own up that she lied—she and her husband—about what happened, or didn't happen, that night Cecily and I were marooned in this rotten old pub. Then his jolly little divorce would go, west, or I'm a Dutchman. I told her to go to David and be dammed to her——"

"You didn't!" cried Audrey.

"Well, I modified it a bit. I said I'd speak to you first. I'm supposed to be meeting her on the corner of Bank and Tidmouth streets at 7 tonight to give her the verdict. What do you want done about it, Audrey?"

"For heaven's sake, Reggie, pay her—give her the money! Don't you understand—David and I are to be married in about a month's time. We can't have a thing like this cropping up."

Reggie shrugged his well set shoulders.

"I haven't got the money, Audrey, and if I had, I jolly well wouldn't hand it over to that perjurer."

"It was her husband, probably, who made her swear to the lie," Audrey said hastily. "If it was a lie. Forgive me, Reggie, but circumstances were rather against you and Cecily, weren't they?"

"The circumstances were perfectly ordinary. You know very well——"

"Never mind that now. The milk's spilt. David hates Cecily and he's going to marry me. Reg, couldn't you find the money to give Mrs. Partridge? I'll pay you back."

"I can't—and I won't. That's flat. I'm very fond of you, Audrey, and anything reasonable I don't mind, but there are limits. In fact, I haven't the slightest intention of keeping that appointment with Widow Partridge. I'm not letting myself in for blackmail—no fear."

Audrey bit her lip, but there was less anxiety in her eyes now. She drew a deep breath and patted her cousin's hand.

"On the whole, I believe you're right, Reggie. What did you say—Bank and Tidmouth streets at seven? Which corner?"

"By Meredith's—the bookshop."

"Good! Let her wait—and I only hope it rains like it did last night." Audrey said with a sharp little laugh.

"That's the spirit," said Reggie. "Now I'll be off. Thought I ought to let you know otherwise I wouldn't have barged in on you like this. Tell Auntie Madge that one of these days I hope she'll relent and let me take her out to dinner."

"One of these days perhaps she will," said Audrey, giving him a kiss and a sweet smile.

"What did he want?" demanded Mrs. Lowe when the door had closed on Reggie.

"Poor Reg!" Audrey murmured pensively. "Family feeling and all that, you know. Wanted us to be friends with him again, and thought perhaps you'd let him take you out to dinner some time."

Mrs. Lowe looked incredulous, as well she might do.

"Did Reggie come around here at this hour of the morning to say things like that?"

"Indeed he did."

"He always was a silly young fool."

"Yes, mother. Come on. We can be a little late, but not too late. And remember, if old Branchard is too nasty about that £20,000, you're to climb down. I don't want to start my married life with a sordid wrangle about money."

"You leave Branchard to me," said Mrs. Lowe. "You can sit in the ante-room with David and keep him amused while we're talking business."

As they started off Audrey was reminding herself of an appointment she must keep that evening—Bank and Tidmouth streets at seven, outside Meredith's. By hook or crook she had to get that money. If the Partridge woman carried out her threat and went to David, who could foretell what the consequences might be?

Of course, it was blackmail in about the crudest possible form, but the woman must be on the border line of imbecility not to realize that if she accused any one else, she would also have to accuse herself of perjury. Yet there might be a let-off for her. She could claim, and might be successful in doing so, that she acted as she had done under pressure from her husband, who was now dead and beyond reach of the law.

Anyway, this was no moment for Audrey Lowe to take risks. After she was David's wife she would be in a strong position and could defy Mrs. Partridge.

"Dear Miss Blake: I see my girl three times a week and every time I do she wants to get home early. Then she meets other men. She always arrives home two to three hours later than when out with me.

GASOLINE ALLEY—RECONDITIONED

YOU WERE? I'VE CUT ALL THEIR HEADS OFF.
DON'T FEEL BAD, WE'LL FIX THAT!
BE SURE TO SEW THE RIGHT HEADS ON.
WHO CARES? THEY DON'T.
NOW THEY'LL GO DOWN IN HISTORY!
AN' THAT ISN'T ALL THEY'LL GO DOWN IN!

She Is Tied to Him by Fear of What He'll Tell

Advised to Leave Fiance and Take Consequences.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Ann Mary is 22. For four years has been known as J.'s fiancée. She has the ring. Also has everything necessary in her hope chest. He had $700 saved toward the new home. Then he got mixed up in some gambling racket, lost everything he had, and is now starting all over again.

"I would have given him up long ago except for something that happened between us a few years ago, in consequence of which he has me in a tough spot. During the last year he has started drinking and going to parties after he has taken me home. He is not saving a cent so we are not getting anywhere at all. What should I do?"

Give him the air, Ann Mary, would be our best maternal advice. Give it to him quickly, freely, and conclusively. You are going to get nowhere with a youth like that. No matter what he may have on you, give him the gate! You cannot go on a lifetime paying for a regretted mistake. Nor are you expected to. You cannot marry on grounds like that without condemning yourself to a lifetime of misery.

If you fear that what the young man has to tell will be told, better face the consequences right now and have it over with. But with his unreliable character, we feel his word would be doubted and your fears of exposure groundless after all. In any event, it is best to get this fear over with, so you can see your own position with greater clarity. If you never marry it would be a better life than tied to one that fear has forged you to. Besides, the world is forgiving of young mistakes and you will still have your chance at working out a happy destiny for yourself.

You're young, Ann Mary, with a long, long road ahead of you and you don't want to start out with heart-breaking handicaps. Give back the ring and let that well filled hope chest of yours be a symbol of happier days ahead for you.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., July 23.—[Special.]—The picture is "Happiness Ahead." The set is the front of the seventeenth and eighteenth stories of an office building. Perched on the window sills cleaning the windows are Dick Powell, Frank McHugh and a few extras. This eighteen story office building is only eighteen feet tall on the set.

Dick Powell, playing a window cleaner, goes through the motions of cleaning the window. He is strapped to the sides of the window by a safety belt. Earlier that day Director Leroy had a regular window cleaner on the set to give his players instructions on how to tie the belt, what hand to use to wipe the sponge over the window and how to walk from one window sill to another.

They are considering using a stand-in for Dick Powell, a chap who will walk from window sill to window sill in this eighteen feet tall set. But the stand-in has difficulty doing it. Powell does it with ease. He later tells Director Leroy and the cast that he once worked as a window cleaner. The routine is not new to him.

Whenever there is a musical flicker being made you'll find me watching it. A musical is the most interesting flicker to watch being made for something generally happens on the set, like hearing a song being sung. And if nothing occurs on the set there are always good looking gals to watch. The two musicals actually shooting this week are "Kid Millions," and "Gay Divorce."

The way the girls work in both these flickers presents a striking contrast. In one the camera practically does the dancing and in the other a chorus practically drops from exhaustion.

In "Kid Millions," Dance Director Seymour Felix is after pretty effects and is trying to sell pretty girls to the public. His steps are not intricate or tiring. Many of the girls are not good dancers, merely beauties. The girls wear long black silk stockings resembling tights, a short jacket with large wing lapels, and high hats. They hold tambourines in their hands and sway them to the tune of "Mandy."

Part of the number is being filmed. Eddie Cantor is singing the song. The girls are doing their stuff. Suddenly one top hat topples off the head of one girl. It rolls from her place on the high white stairway to the floor where Cantor is singing. The camera stops turning, the number has been ruined. The girl is frightened. She starts down the stairs to pick up her hat, knowing she has spoiled the routine. Cantor picks up the hat, hands it to her, and then walks over to whisper to Felix.

The girl is Doris Davenport. Cantor told Director Felix that he wanted to use that girl for the bit in the "Melody Shop" sequence. They were looking for a girl. Dropping the hat, ruining the number, brought her to Cantor's attention and got her a special bit in the flicker.

The girls working for Dave Gould in "Gay Divorce" work and have no chance to be graduated to bit parts. They are there to dance. They are the hardest working chorus in pictures. There are about twenty-five boys and twenty-five girls and every one of them has learned to do an adagio dance. I watched them for an hour. Ordinary chorus girls leaped through the air and threw themselves into the outstretched arms of chorus boys. The girls were lifted into the air. The girls placed their arms about the boys' necks, held on, and were whirled about. Every one of them can go out as a full fledged adagio dancer when this number is completed.

It's odd what a person can actually do when he—or she—has to. There are two Broadway chorines in this number: Cassie Hanley of the Hollywood restaurant, and Mary Daly, who is Mrs. Jack Osterman, and who was one of Florenz Ziegfeld's most beautiful show girls. Their friends in New York wouldn't believe it, but now they are adagio dancers. This is called the continental number. It is performed on the steps of a hotel. The pictorial effect is gained by black and white costumes.

This is the first musical flicker I have watched in which the dancing chorus must really dance. I wonder how t v I look on the screen? When you see it remember several girls fainted while making it and that the boys and girls needed a twelve-hour rest between calls.

Director Henry King is doing a scene for "Marie Galante." The script calls for an actor to impersonate Siegfried Rumann, the villain of the flicker. Several actors are tried out but none pleases Director King. Finally an idea.

It is decided that Siegfried Rumann will do the impersonation of Siegfried Rumann himself. Surely he can act and look as he really is. The lines, however, will be read out of the focus of the camera by Director King and dubbed in. It's just one of the numerous tricks that can be done making pictures and never detected by the audience. That's why I keep watching them make pictures for you.

grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Magnuson, and his aunt and uncle, Mrs. Harold Hanson and James Hasson of Minneapolis, his cousin, Charles A. Magnuson, who arrived last night by plane from New York; Miss Marian Shouse of Washington, D. C., who is staying with the bride's aunt, Mrs. John A. Stevenson; and Miss Virginia Eaton and her brother, Hugh, of Akron, O., friends of the bridegroom, who are staying with Mr. Knode's parents, the Oliver Morton Knodes, in Winnetka, and will be here for the rest of the week.

All of these, as well as the numerous members of the Stevenson clan in Chicago, the Robert, the Richard, and the John A. Stevensons and their families, will attend the supper.

Mrs. Horton Conrad to Have At Home.

Young Mr. Knode's sister, Mrs. Horton Conrad, has sent out cards to an at home on Sunday from 5 until 7, and most of the younger marrieds and some of the debutante crowd will fill the Conrads' house at 955 Green Bay road in Winnetka. Although the party is not being given to herald any special occasion, the former Betty Knode is celebrating her birthday on Friday. Then, too, all of her friends will have a chance to meet her younger sister, Miss Nancy Knode, who is to be one of the debutantes of the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Knode and Mrs. Oliver S. Picher of Hubbard Woods will give a party jointly to introduce their daughters, Nancy Knode and Miss Muriel Picher, and they have settled on Dec. 28 at the Blackstone hotel for the time and place of the dinner dance at which the buds will make their bows. Miss Knode attended Sarah Lawrence college last year. Miss Picher spent the winter abroad with her mother and sister, Mrs. Picher Purcell.

A young lady who may make her debut this winter, Miss Jean Dunbar of Wheaton, daughter of the David O. Dunbars, has an interesting trip before her. She left yesterday with Mrs. Alva Scott and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Scott, for Honolulu where she will be the Scotts' guest for six weeks. Mrs. Dunbar and her son, George Dunbar, who is a sophomore at Princeton university, are leaving the latter part of August to join Miss Dunbar in Honolulu, and the three of them will return in time for Miss Dunbar to enter Wellesley college.

Children's Swim at Onwentsia Today.

Onwentsia's swimming pool will be the scene of mighty splashing and thrashing this afternoon as the first swimming carnival expressly for the children gets under way at 3:30 o'clock. While their mothers stand by, some 70 youngsters will take to the water in a variety of events, covering everything from the proverbial eating crackers and whistling to pajama relays. Each of the 22 events scheduled is a novelty race of some sort, and consequently even the beloved dog paddle stroke will be called into use against the more expert crawl.

The six year olds will have a race all their own across the pool, those not yet versed in the art of swimming using rubber tubes to get them to the goal. Later there will be balloon races. The pajama relay calls for a quick transfer of these garments between the boy and girl partners before they return to the finish line.

Little Helen Niblack, the Austin Niblacks' daughter, has won a reputation of being not only a splendid swimmer but a diver also. She will be entered in the diving events along with many other aspirants to those attractive medals.

For extra entertainment after the races are over, Al Greene, young Amateur Athletic union star and winner of second place in the national diving meet held at Yale last spring, will give an exhibition. The carnival will become an annual affair, according to club officials.

Charles Schweppe on Fishing Trip.

No heat wave is bothering Charles S. Schweppe and his son, John S. Schweppe, and nephew, John S. Reed, for they left last Saturday for Canada. Mr. Schweppe and his son and nephew will spend three weeks fishing in the north woods.

Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson has postponed her departure for Murray Bay for a few weeks. Her daughter, Miss Joan Ryerson, will not be a debutante of the coming season, but will have one more year abroad before bowing to society. It is likely that she will spend the winter with a French family in Paris, although Mrs. Ryerson may change this plan.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase is expected at home Friday. She has been spending the last fortnight in the east visiting relatives.

Newtons Decorate Old Family Home.

Within a week or ten days the J. Allen Newtons expect to be established comfortably in their new home at 64 Cedar street. They are but recently returned from a holiday at Lawsonia, Green Lake, Wis., and are now busily engaged in redecorating Robert C. Newton's old home. Several of the rare old pieces of furniture are to be adroitly combined with the Newtons' more up to date furnishings, mainly because the new mistress of the household cannot bear to part with everything so long connected with her father-in-law's home. The fenced-in back yard of the house will provide an excellent—and safe—playground for the Newton's two youngsters.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Miss Janet Fairbank, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, John A. Holabird, Mrs. William Bush, Chester Cook, and Judge Michael Girten, the Austrian consul general, will be among the guests this afternoon in the Crystal house at the Fair at a party to be given for Miss Tess Slesinger and Miss Elizabeth Van Dusen, both writers.

Mrs. Harry McIntosh, Miss Edith Kohlsaat, Mrs. Benjamin M. Stout, Mrs. William C. Grunow, Mrs. Alfred Edwards, and Mrs. Robert Whitaker are members of the refreshment committee for the approaching garden exhibit in Lake Geneva. The exhibit will be held during the first week in August.

An addition to the household of Mrs. Harry Spenser-Brown is her grandson, Count Jean de Gramedo, who is arriving shortly from his home in Paris for his first visit to America. The young man, who is 16 years old, will remain here with his mother, the Countess de Gramedo, and grandmother until Sept. 1, when he and the countess will return to Paris. The countess' daughter, Mlle. Consuelo de Gramedo, who made her début here several years ago, remained at home in Paris.

Apollo Theater Will Become Movie House for First Run Films

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Apollo theater, which carries a long tradition of legitimate stage entertainment, ranging from the vaudeville of its beginnings to high grade dramas and Broadway revues, will become a motion picture house on Aug. 1 under the management of Balaban & Katz. For the last decade or more it has been operated by the firm of Shuberts, but during the last theatrical season it has been almost completely inactive. The Duncan Sisters, in their revival of "Topsy and Eva," appeared at the Apollo last Christmas time to end its history as a legitimate playhouse.

The cinema régime at the Apollo will begin with "The Man with Two Faces," which has Edward G. Robinson as star. This movie is based on "The Dark Tower," a play by George S. Kaufman and Alexander Woollcott which was staged last season in New York and London.

"Pictures of character" [first run] without auxiliary vaudeville entertainment will be the policy at the Apollo. An air cooling system has been installed.

The history of the Apollo theater runs back into Chicago's early annals. The site has been used for theatrical purposes for more than half a century. Under the name of the Olympic theater, it was one of the city's first vaudeville houses.

Benefit Party.

A garden party for the benefit of the Sarah Hackett Stevenson memorial is being held at 1:30 o'clock today at the home of the president, Miss Martha Moe, 581 Ingleside park, Evanston. Both Mrs. O. S. Bowman and Mrs. Earnest H. Christy are assisting.

White Details Vital to Chic in Paris Costumes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Whether she wears a printed frock, a dark dress, or one in soft pastel, the Parisienne tricks it out with something in white as a detail to her costume this summer. The newest and by a good mile and a half the smartest white details of the season are those that are made of linen and starched as stiff as a man's collar. These are, however, limited to street clothes and are not seen after 6 in the afternoon. From then on the white details of the costume are invariably soft and flattering.

In the center is a white piqué jabot from Worth that is much worn with dark frocks in Paris. It is starched, and those ripples you see down the sides stay as shown, quite as solidly as marble. The bow at the back of the neck is a bit less starched. The jabot buttons on at the waistline.

BY MARY MEADE.

Trotting hungrily through A Century of Progress grounds the other day, this cooking editor encountered the grandest concoction! It happened in the Hall of States, in a gay Grecian restaurant, and so perfectly palate-thumping did I find my "Soup Magerítsa," that I straightway purloined the recipe from the gracious chef for the use of adventurous Chicago cooks. It leaves a bit of guess-work in the matter of proportions, but I'll gamble on your excellence in guessing. In Greece, this soup is so beloved that it is given a place of honor at the Easter Sunday dinner, quite as much as turkey is indispensable at ours. But don't let tradition bother you. It's as good today as it will be next Easter. The recipes, as Chef Stamatopoulos explained it to me, is this:

THE SOUP MAGERITSA.
A Favorite in Athens.

Boil liver, giblets, and heart of lamb. Then grind and add chopped onions, salt, and pepper to taste. Add boiled rice and brown with butter. Stir well. Add soup stock from lamb or chicken, and boil over a slow fire. Now beat the whites of 4 eggs, add the yolks, and beat until thick and foamy. Then add the strained juice of two lemons, stirring well. Now slowly blend in the prepared soup, to prevent curdling. This soup has a yellowish tint and a pleasant lemon-egg flavor, blended with the savory richness of the meat and the pebbly texture of the rice. Serve it at once.

Or, for a dinner party, our Greek chef suggests:

STUFFED CHICKEN—
ATHENIAN STYLE.

Clean and dress a roasting chicken, rubbing it with salt and pepper. Grind the giblets of the chicken, together with lean lamb meat. Chop an onion, add butter, and brown in a frying pan. Add tomato sauce and a small amount of water, letting it simmer. Add the ground meat and chopped roasted chestnuts, pignolia nuts, currants, and raisins. Boil all this together until it becomes thick and evenly blended. Stuff the chicken with this mixture, and roast. Serve with combination salad.

And, for dessert, if you have now acquired the true Athenian spirit, you'll have another of my friend the chef's masterpieces.

Athenian Cream Pastry.

1 pound leaf
½ pound butter
1 quart milk
1 cup farina flour
¾ pound sugar
Lemon peel to taste.

Add the lemon peel, cut in strips, to the milk, and heat to boiling point. Add the sugar, then remove the peel. Add the flour slowly and continue stirring. Boil for 10 minutes. Beat the eggs and stir in slowly. Take from the burner and cool. Butter a baking pan and spread four or five sheets of buttered leaf in layers. Add the boiling mixture and spread over leaf sheets. Then spread four or five additional sheets as a crust. Place in oven for ¾ hour to bake. Spread sugar sirup icing over the top. Slice and serve.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Isn't this youthful looking dress a darling? The unusual cut of the dropped shoulder yoke that fastens with a single button provides sufficient interest for this smart little dress that is as easy as can be to fashion. Plain or printed piqué, peasant linen, plaided gingham, striped shirting cottons, tub silks, and cotton broadcloths are suggestions for it.

Sally's Guests See White Sox in Game Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Party day is here again!

I know that every one of you youngsters who found your names in last Sunday's TRIBUNE as winners of an invitation to today's party are delighted this morning!

We should have a happy time at Comiskey park this afternoon, seeing the game between the White Sox and the Washington Senators, so be on time and don't forget to bring your invitations!

Those of you who are not to be my guests this afternoon still have time to try for an invitation to the grand party Buddy Rogers has arranged for us next week. We're going to the Bal Tabarin at the Hotel Sherman, where Buddy will act as master of ceremonies, introducing all sorts of delightful entertainment, including the best performers from the Italian and Irish Villages at the Fair, and from the College inn.

All the entertainment, of course, will be arranged to appeal especially to children, including the ice cream and cake that Frank Bering, manager of the hotel, has promised.

So hurry up if you'd like to win an invitation, because you'll have to mail your letter today if it's to be on my desk by tomorrow morning, when I'll read all the letters and select 50 boys and 50 girls to be my guests at this grand party.

You must remember to include your name, address, and age. Address your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, and for goodness' sake, after doing all that, don't forget to mail it!

Remember, Too, Pranks Child Doesn't Commit

Don't Take Self-Control Too Much for Granted.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

He came, bursting with energy, in to dinner several minutes late and by dint of carefully managing his long arms and legs seated himself without any more signal mishap than causing the tall frosty glasses of iced tea to waver and tinkle perilously.

"Boy!" he said, "I almost popped old Mr. Simpson on the head with one of those little green apples."

"O," groaned his mother, "why did you throw apples at Mr. Simpson, of all people. Nobody would like being popped on the head by even a little green apple—but Mr. Simpson! Don't for goodness' sake, start anything with . . ."

"Now . . . Now . . . Mom," her big young son interrupted with a calming, judicial, lordly air, "keep your shirt on . . . excuse me, I mean don't get excited. I didn't throw any apples at him. When I said I almost popped him on the head I meant I almost threw one at him. He was standing right out on that rise of ground and I could have popped him as easy . . . boy, it was a terrible temptation."

Did you ever think that we never give the children—the mischievous ebullient ones—any credit for the things they don't do, for the temptations they do resist? The world, indoors and out, is full of opportunities for nonsense and playfulness and teasing and monkeyshines that seem intrinsically harmless to them—but which they refrain from indulging it.

They exercise real judgment and self-control many, many times that we know nothing about. Various reasons and past experiences are at the back of this restraint. They may have learned that certain nonsense causes real unpleasantness, that other tricks worry or displease their parents, and that their motives for still others are misinterpreted. And so they resist certain tempting outlets for their spirits.

We are helped to do so by understanding them. "Living with Our In-Betweens," written-in-full booklet about children from 6 to 12 will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

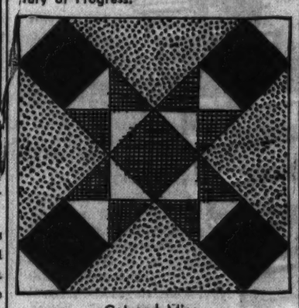
"Cat and Mice" Owes Origin to Thrifty Quilter

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.



Cat and Mice.

BY NANCY CABOT.

To a thrifty Pennsylvania Dutch woman goes the honor of creating "Cat and Mice." It was made without plan or design, merely to utilize small scraps. The result was an offering for which all quilt makers have been extremely grateful. An attractive color combination that is as unusual as it is lovely is gold, French blue, and purple on a white ground.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

THE PLAY OF YESTERDAY'S NO-TRUMP HAND.

South can fulfill the contract by making a safety play at this point. The danger will come if East gets in and leads a third heart through South's ace-ten to West's jack-nine while West still has an entry card which will enable him to cash a third heart trick. This card, if any, can only be the king of diamonds, as dummy can stop him from holding the lead in any other suit. Declarer must therefore play the ace of spades, refusing the possibility of losing no spade trick and get to work on the diamonds.

As soon as West's king is out of the way declarer can win the next heart trick with his ace and not worry about losing a spade trick. Even if West has both the other kings this play will succeed, as West cannot afford to lead hearts and will make only two heart tricks and two kings, enabling declarer to make three diamonds, three spades, two clubs, and a heart. If West's switch is to clubs at trick three, declarer must play high in dummy and go after the diamonds. Later he can take the spade finesse, after the king of diamonds has been played.

Sad to relate, of the six players who were declarers in the South position, only two stopped and thought out their play and made the hand. The other four carelessly let the spade ride and then took a ride themselves.

I have explained the importance of having the time factor on your side when you bid a no-trump, though others would mechanically bid the suit. Here are two good rules for you to observe, at least until you have had plenty of experience of these situations:

First, if each of the three other suits is not doubly stopped, do not bid the no-trump unless your suit is as good as A K Q x x or A K x x x x.

With a biddable five card suit and the other three suits doubly stopped, you have a very powerful no-trump hand and can have no reason to mention the suit; such hands are, in fact, nearly up to the two no-trump standard. If your suit is as weak as A Q x x x or K Q 10 x x, it is best to bid the suit and not the no-trump, assuming that the hand has a weak spot.

Second, even when your suit is fully strong enough to conceal and your hand justifies a no-trump bid on its protective holdings in the other suits, do not bid the no-trump without taking some thought about your probable next move.

Third, refrain from bidding a no-trump originally with 5-4-2-2 distribution.

Ask Yourself Some Questions.

What is likely to be your partner's response? Is that response likely to steer the declaration into the wrong hand? Try to make it easy for your partner to make the response you are most anxious to hear. Weigh the probability of his being able to make a one-over-one if you bid the suit. If your suit is spades it is likely that he will bid a no-trump. Is that desirable in view of your other holdings? Which of you should be declarer in view of the opening lead? Should your own hand be concealed because it will make the defense too easy if it is exposed as dummy? If these considerations conflict which should predominate?

An Investment that Cannot Lose.

These are fine points of post-graduate bidding, but you cannot lose by taking them into account. Generally you will have enough to spare if you reach game, so that the game will be made even if the bidding was not 100 per cent perfect. Nevertheless, on occasions you will apply the above ideas and thereby arrive at the only decision which will enable you to make the game. Then the thrill of a brilliant result will make up for your time and trouble invested in taking into account these fine points which to slap-dash players may seem an unnecessary, hair splitting complication.

Gas does more than heat houses, cook, heat water and furnish automatic refrigeration for the home.

It is working in factories, large and small, the country over. No heating job is too delicate and exacting for gas in industry; no heating job is too big.

Gas puts the iridium tip on your fountain pen, helps solder your jewelry or glasses, and heat-treats the tiny steel wheels in your watch. In a single industry—making automobiles—gas is used to dry varnishes, heat plating vats, cast plates for batteries, temper springs, harden bearings and piston pins, braze radiators and forge bumpers. It roasts vast quantities of coffee, bakes ice cream cones, smokes hams and bacons and toasts cereals.

Hundreds of the things you buy and use from day to day have been improved in quality or made more economical by the part gas plays in their manufacture.

up and down the Sky Ride 21 times

You do that much climbing up and down basement stairs during the heating months. Now, automatic gas heat saves you this toil.

UP and down the World's Fair Sky Ride at least 21 times! That's the penalty you pay during each heating season for an old fashioned heating system. Up and down basement stairs time and time again during the long heating months. That's the drudgery you have to face to tend furnace, to see that your house is properly heated. You don't have to stand for it. Not when gas heat is so low in cost, so practical, so efficient.

Automatic gas heat does away with furnace worries. You don't have to wield a shovel. There are no ashes to haul, no heavy work, no soot, no dust, no dirt. And your house is always at the right temperature with never a care about the furnace. All you do is set a little thermostat on the wall and heat comes up—automatically, quickly. And it's clean heat.

Gas heat assures carefree winter months

More than 20,000 families know the comforts of automatic gas heat. This winter their homes will be free of trouble, with more time spent for leisure instead of at a furnace door. And about the cost. You've probably heard that gas heat costs a trifle more. Sure it does. And so does every modern convenience so necessary to comfortable living. A vacuum cleaner costs more than a broom, a washing machine more than a washboard, an auto more than a horse. But when you take the results into consideration, the difference in cost is no factor. Gas heat offsets in good part its extra cost by saving you many dollars in cleaning and re-decorating expense.

You invest nothing to try gas heat

Get the facts on clean gas heat now. Investigate our startling offer to enable you to know the pleasures of gas heat. You invest nothing to try it. We'll install it at our expense, remove it at our expense if you don't like it.

We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month for the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for one month, two months, a year. If within the year you find you are not completely satisfied we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat—as more than 20,000 have done—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Now—before the cold weather sets in—get the facts on gas heat and the countless pleasures it will bring to your home. Call your local gas company for details.

YOU INVEST NOTHING

To Try Gas Heat

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

CUBS BEAT DODGERS, 6-3, ON GRIMM'S HOMER

CROWLEY WINS MEDAL IN PRO GOLF TOURNEY

Leads Qualifiers with 138.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Williamsville, N. Y., July 24.—Bob Crowley, ordinarily an unassuming young citizen of Dedham, Mass., got his Irish up this afternoon and won the qualifying medal in the seventeenth annual National Professional Golf tournament over the Williamsville course of the Park Country club with a 36 hole score of 138, six under par. Young Mr. Crowley, who speaks not above a whisper when spoken to, almost tiptoed up to the eighteenth green this morning with a 67, five under par, and then retired quietly to his midday victuals.

The experts about the scoreboard opined that such a card could not stand up throughout the 36 holes, and they appeared to be more than correct in the afternoon when Crowley wheeled around the ninth green in 38, two over par. Another one of those upstart front runners, one who would probably come in with a 73, enough to gain the match play bracket but certainly not sufficient to take home the Alex Smith memorial trophy which goes to the medalist every year.

Finishes with 33.

The dormant dander in Crowley then rose up and Bob scored three birdies on the last nine for a 33 and a 71 to tie the all-time tournament record of 138, set by Jimmy Hines of New York and Mortie Dutra of Detroit at Milwaukee last year.

This might have been enough for one day to prove to the spectators that the P. G. A. is not just an ordinary tournament, but one in which all manner of strange things come to pass, making it one of the bitterest competitions in sport. These men who work at play were not satisfied to break par 38 times during the 36 holes. Nor were they content to smash the course record for Williamsville thrice in one day.

Harry Cooper of Chicago had given the competitive record of 69, set here in the Buffalo open last year by Frank Commissio of Rochester, its first knockdown when he scored a 68 in the morning round. Next came Crowley with his 67. Then in the late afternoon, little Paul Runyan, the big money man of the pro's winter wheel, hauled off and floored the groggy card with a 66. This was deemed cruel enough for one day's treatment of a golf course, but the field had yet to be satisfied.

Ten Tie at Qualifying Limit.

So serious was the fight for the precious 31 places in the match play bracket, which unfolds tomorrow morning and continues through Sunday at a 36 hole pace every day, that ten in the field tied at 146, the qualifying limit, and were forced to go out into the duals to decide the last eight places. The ten included players who would make a good tournament field in themselves.

They were Denny Shute, 1933 British open champion; Walter Hagen, five times winner of the P. G. A.; Leo Diegel, twice champion; Johnny Revolta, one of those who have arrived this year; Herman Barron, the ablest Jewish pro in the game; Willie MacFarlane, once national open champion; Frank Walsh, 1932 runnerup in the P. G. A.; Fay Coleman, Frank Ball, and Orville White.

With a gallery as big as that which had pursued them all day in its wake, the ten set out, and Shute clinched a place with an eagle on the first hole. All except MacFarlane and Walsh, both of whom trapped their second shots to the second entered the match play with par fours, the two unlucky ones taking fives.

Match Play Today.

These 31 who today fought for their places will begin match play tomorrow morning, the necessary 32d, of course, being Gene Sarazen, who won his third professional title last year at Milwaukee, and was exempt from the qualifying ordeal. He arrived early from New York, and went over the front nine with a 34, two under par, just to let the rest of the boys know he was on the grounds.

Crowley, the new medalist, is not exactly a stranger to P. G. A. veterans, for he qualified for the match play both at Fresh Meadow in 1930,

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 24.—Manager Charles John Grimm, who was pretty sore at himself at the time, knocked a home run today with the score tied at 3 to 3 and two runners on base. The score of 6 to 3 set by Boss Charley's second homer in two days against the Dodgers prevailed at the end of the game.

Charley was mad at himself because he floated away on a dream cloud while on third base with none out in the second inning and was picked off to halt a promising rally. In the fourth inning Bill Lee put on his usual one-inning balloon ascension and the Brooklyns went ahead, 3 to 2, making Grimm's slumber seem most grievous. But the homer, of course, changed everything.

Cubs Keep Pace.

The victory was the Cubs' sixth straight over the Dodgers and their tenth in thirteen games between the clubs. They remained two games back of the Giants, but pulled up on the menacing St. Louis Cardinals, who had been getting too close for comfort.

Lee was a good pitcher most of the time today, except in his usual hysterical one inning, which came two innings ahead of time. In this afternoon's panic Frey and Taylor singled and scored the tying runs on Leslie's double in the fourth. The Dodgers were slowed up considerably on Leslie's poor base running and the first of Cuccinello's three successive strikeouts, but went ahead on Frederick's second homer in two days.

Away in Front.

The Cubs started with a pair of runs. Billy Herman walked and went to second on English's sacrifice. He scored when Klein's grounder jumped between Cuccinello's heels into left field. Babe Herman socked a beautiful double to left and Klein could have scored easily but for his charley horse. He elected to stop at third, however, whence he scored while Frey was throwing out Cuyler. Babe Herman died on third when Hartnett grounded out to Cucinello.

In the second inning the Cubs seemed in a fair way to make a hatful of runs, but were thrown into reverse when Grimm was a victim of one of those snooze specials. Boss Charley walked to start the inning and went to third on Hack's single to right. While Charley was standing off third wondering about how his corn is withstanding the Missouri hot spell Lopez threw the ball to Stripp and Charley was tagged. Lee then hit into a double play.

Babe Breaks Second Bat.

Babe Herman, who broke his bat doubling in the first inning, broke another bat when he led off the fourth with a single. Cuyler attempted to sacrifice and forced the Babe. Ki stole second as Hartnett fanned to become Mungo's 117 strikeout victim of the year. Grimm filed to Koenecke.

Frey opened the fourth inning with the second hit off Lee. The first was a single by Leslie with one out in the second. Frey's hit was a single to center and he stopped at second when Taylor followed with a single to right. Frey and Taylor scored on Leslie's double to left. Leslie was almost caught off second on Cuccinello's first attempt to bunt, but he didn't learn anything from the experience. When Cuccinello again failed to bunt, Sam was sunk, Hartnett to English to Hack. Cuccinello then fanned, but Frederick hit his homer to put the Brooklyns ahead, 3 to 2. Lopez fanned and was thrown out by Hartnett at first in a play that brought wild protestations from the Brooklyn group.

Grimm Busts One.

Klein opened the sixth inning with the fourth hit off Mungo, a single to right, and went to second on a wild pitch. Babe Herman walked. The bases were full with none out when Cuyler beat out a bunt. Hartnett sent a long fly to Taylor, scoring Klein

Wood Wins 2 Sets as Rain Halts Cup Play

WIMBLETON, England, July 24.—(AP)—The United States' Davis cup tennis team's fight to escape defeat by Australia was abruptly halted today because of rain when Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New York had a two-set lead over the great Jack Crawford. Wood's surprising play inspired American hopes of pulling the inter-zone series out of the fire.

Wood will resume tomorrow with a great chance to finish his conquest of Crawford, square the series at 2-all and leave the final issue to the remaining singles match between Frank Shields of New York, and Vivian McGrath, youthful Australian.

U. S. Chances Brighten.

Play will start, weather permitting, exactly where it left off late this afternoon with the score 6-3, 9-7 in sets and 15-love in the opening game of the third set in Wood's favor.

After dropping the first two singles matches on Saturday, when McGrath upset Wood and Crawford conquered Shields in straight sets, the United States was conceded only a slight chance of winning the right to challenge England for the coveted cup. But the slender, brilliant Wood put an entirely different aspect on the outcome today.

Frequent interruptions by rain and the uncertain footing, did not prevent Wood from giving an inspired exhibition against a man credited with having one of the best all-around games in the business. Wood made Crawford appear awkward with the speed and accuracy of his backhand fire and outserved Crawford throughout. It was due to no letdown on Crawford's part, however, that Wood won the first two sets.

Breaks Crawford Seven Times.

Wood broke Crawford's service seven times. Two of the breaks came on set games. The American's sharply angled returns frequently caught Crawford flat-footed.

Wood began with a service break in the very first game, and repeated in the fifth and ninth as he took the first set. Crawford twice held the lead after games went to 5-all in the brilliantly played second set. Each time Wood tied it up. Rain halted play fifteen minutes after the count reached 7-all. When they resumed Wood ran through two games with the loss of only two points, breaking Crawford's service in the sixteenth game with a spectacular array of shots.

Crawford Welcomes Break.

Crawford, naturally welcomed the postponement and a chance for rest. He had a hard doubles match yesterday. Some critics tonight doubted Wood could sustain his brilliance overnight against a refreshed Crawford, but the Americans feel confident Sidney will capitalize his big advantage.

Shields promised Wood yesterday, after Lester Stoefen and George Lott won the doubles, that he would whip McGrath if the series depended on it. It appeared tonight as though he will have to make good his promise.

COMBS' SKULL FRACTURED AS YANKEES LOSE

St. Louis, Mo., July 24.—[Special.]—Earl Combs, New York Yankee outfielder, suffering from a fractured skull and a broken collar bone and was placed on the list of critical cases at St. John's hospital.

Announcement of the extent of Combs' injuries came from Dr. Robert F. Hyland, St. Louis Browns physician, called in to attend the stricken player after he had been removed to the hospital from Sportsmen's park, following an accident there this afternoon. X-rays taken immediately after Combs was placed in the hospital revealed the fracture in the left temple bone. The collar bone break is in the left clavicle.

Through for Season.

Dr. Hyland said he did not believe Combs will play ball again this year. He added that unless a brain hemorrhage occurs Combs should respond to treatment.

Combs received the injuries when he crashed into the bleacher wall chasing a fly from the bat of Harland Clift in the seventh inning during a rally in which the Browns beat the Yankees 4 to 2.

Dr. Hyland, who made arrangements to remain overnight at the hospital, said that the developments of the next 24 or 48 hours will determine whether an operation will be necessary for the skull fracture. Dr. Hyland said Combs' condition is serious. He has barred visitors to the sick room.

Yankee Players Worry.

Combs' mates on the Yankee team were disconsolate at the condition revealed by the X-ray photographs. In the barring of visitors they saw in the condition of the player a seriousness not hitherto suspected. Many had planned to visit the hospital tonight and tomorrow.

The players tonight could think of nothing but the case of the late Ray Chapman, Cleveland player, who died in 1920 after being hit in the head by one of Carl Mays' pitches.

Yankee players criticized the lack of protection afforded outfielders in parks where playing fields are surrounded by concrete walls. They insisted that these walls should be padded, particularly in view of the lively ball which today is used, sending outfielders scurrying to the deep recesses of the field they are guarding. Several of the players agreed that either the lively ball should be abolished, or the stand fronts should be padded as a protection for the players.

Wife Is Summoned.

Clift's hit, which went for three bases, came just after Strange and Garms had walked. Burns then doubled to complete a three run inning. Lou Gehrig hit his 28th home of the year. Score:

Driscoll Picks All-Star Team with Big Line

Last Day to Vote

THE nation-wide poll to pick a team of college all-stars for the charity game with the Bears at Soldiers' field on Aug. 31 ends tonight. No lineups postmarked after midnight tonight will be counted. Newspapers cooperating with The Tribune in soliciting fans' votes will send final tabulations to this department tomorrow. The list of honored players will be published Friday. More than 125,000 have cast ballots thus far.

John L. [Paddy] Driscoll, whose career as a football player at Northwestern university, Great Lakes Naval Training station, and in the National Professional Football league, is equaled by few and surpassed by none, cast his ballot yesterday in THE TRIBUNE'S poll to select the best college players of 1933 to meet the Chicago Bears Aug. 31 at Soldiers' field. Driscoll's last game was played with the Chicago Bears and his years of pro experience lend increased importance to his team.

Paddy certainly knows the type of a college player who can make good against a professional team. He has seen college boys who were practically unknown enter the professional league and has watched them develop into stars. And again, he has played along side of national stars who were missing after one season.

Here's Paddy's Team.

ENDS—Joe Skaldany, Pittsburgh; Edgar Manske, Northwestern.

GUARDS—Aaron Rosenberg, Southern California; Francis Schammel, Iowa.

CENTER—Chuck Bernard, Michigan.

HALF BACKS—Beattie Feathers, Tennessee; Nick Lukats, Notre Dame.

FULL BACK—Mike Mikulak, Oregon.

"These fellows are heavy enough to cope with the Bears with the possible exception of Manske. However, Manske gets my vote because of his spirit and driving power. His play at end against Stanford was almost perfection.

Bears Face Trouble.

"Weight isn't sufficient, but these players can handle their weight with ease. The Bears' backs will have plenty of work if they make ground through this line with Bernard and Mikulak backing it up. I don't want to pick a winner," Paddy continued, "although I suppose I should favor the professionals, but if this college

BLAZE SWEEPS BOWIE STABLES; $25,000 DAMAGE

Baltimore, Md., July 24.—(AP)—Three stables, a two story frame house, an oil house, and a feed store of the Bowie race track were destroyed by fire late tonight. The fire was believed by firemen to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. The damage was estimated at $25,000.

No horses were quartered in the 98 stalls of the three stables at the time of the fire. Horses which were housed in other stables were not in danger and did not have to be moved.

Fourteen fire departments of communities of Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties responded to the call of help sent out by the Bowie volunteer fire company before the flames were confined to the ruins of the burned buildings.

TIETJE BAFFLES SENATORS WHILE SOX TRIUMPH, 4-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

A mere kid of 22 years, Leslie Tietje by name, revealed to the White Sox yesterday the secret of beating Washington's tattered league champions, a matter in which his mates have enjoyed only limited success this season. The young man from the corn fields of Iowa threw the ball with such amazing skill that the titleholders were restricted to six hits while losing to the eighth placers, 4 to 1. The Sox now are able to boast of whipping the capital city delegates three times in thirteen efforts.

The outstanding feature of Tietje's work was that he permitted only one Senator to explore the trail beyond second base. The gentleman enjoying this unique distinction was Johnny Gill, recently imported from the Southern association. Johnny earned the honor by slapping a homer into the right field seats in the sixth for Washington's lone run. Additional lustre for Tietje's performance was provided in the fact that in four of the nine innings nobody reached first base. Only two reached second, exclusive of the man who hit the home run.

Who's This Crowder?

To make Tietje's effort a success the Sox stepped on old man Alvin Crowder without regard for the general's reputation. They served warning on the veteran by scoring one in the first inning. Then they demoralized him with a salvo of five singles in the third for three runs. Crowder accepted this as a good excuse to get out of the sun, and thereafter the Sox were just about helpless against Alex McColl, another old man, and Tommy Thomas, their former mate, who has had that tired feeling for a number of seasons.

It should be mentioned, in justice to Mr. Al Simmons, that he finally came out of his slump. The Milwaukee duke contributed one of five singles that crowded Crowder out of the picture in the third. Simmons now can point proudly to four hits in thirty-one times at bat during the last seven games. Mr. Zeke Bonura is being troubled similarly. He has been able to get only four hits in his last twenty-nine appearances at the plate.

Conlan Starts It.

Conlan furnished the potent item which enabled the Sox to step out with a one run lead in the first inning. He doubled to right with one out. Crowder then walked Simmons and Bonura to load the bases. Appling bounced to Myer, but, with a double play in sight, the Senator second baseman bobbled momentarily and had to confine himself to throwing out Appling at first. Conlan scored on the play. Dykes filed to Gill to close the inning. Incidentally, this was the first time in 13 successive games that the Sox scored the first run.

The big goings-on in the third started with a single to right by Swanson. Conlan helped him along by bunting. Simmons emerged from his slump long enough to score Swanson with a single to right. Bonura singled to the same spot and Simmons hustled to third. Appling also singled to right, Simmons scoring. Bonura scored on

PRINCESS WINS MACKINAC RACE FOR SECOND TIME

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 24.—[Special.]—The Princess, owned by Edmond Jedzrykowski and Carl Kallgren, won first prize among boats of the racing division by completing the Chicago-Mackinac Island run of 331 miles in 64 hours, 40 minutes and 55 seconds. Leaving Chicago Saturday afternoon the Princess arrived this morning.

It is a Class F sloop, representing the Jackson Park Yacht club. This was the second triumph for the Princess in this famous annual race, which was renewed this season for the 26th time.

Elizabeth Leads Schooners.

First in the cruising division was Lynn Williams' schooner, Elizabeth, which finished less than seven minutes behind the Princess. Penjola took second place among the cruisers.

Following Princess in the racing division came William C. Eaton's West Wind. Chaperon, owned by Robert Conklin, was third; Fran Byrnes' sloop, Flight, was fourth, and Tar Baby, the Conover-Dartsleek sloop, finished fifth.

Freedom Finishes Run.

Sterling Morton's schooner, Freedom, largest yacht in the fleet, had a time of 65 hours, 11 minutes, and 15 seconds.

Bimesa, of Toledo, O., skippered by Milton Knight, was the first boat to arrive, crossing the finish line shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. All of the twenty-six boats which left Chicago are expected in by tomorrow afternoon.

After playing at Northwestern and during the war with the Great Lakes team, Driscoll practically grew up with the professional league. He played first with Hammond, Ind., and then for a number of years with the Chicago Cardinals. In 1926 Paddy was traded to the Bears and finished his playing years with that team.

Driscoll is head coach at St. Mel's High school and this summer has charge of the Lincoln Park beaches.

BARRY WOOD PICKS TEAM

Madison, Wis., July 24.—[Special.]—Were he eligible to compete there is nothing Barry Wood, famous Harvard quarter back of two years ago, would rather do than play in the game between a college all-star eleven and the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field in Chicago on Aug. 31. Wood would be a distinct advantage to the collegians, but the college lineup is limited to 1933 graduates, which eliminates the Harvard star.

It's a Tossup.

Wood is attending the University of Wisconsin summer school, where he is a research assistant in biology.

"I'd hate to try to pick the winner of that game," Wood said today. "I think it would be a tossup, with the pros having the advantage of experience. The college players will not be outweighed, and I think the matter of size will be an important factor."

Refuses to Name Team.

Wood, however, refused to name a lineup.

"I've really been out of touch with football for the last two years to the extent where I haven't the necessary knowledge of players from all sections of the country. I think the game will be a fine thing. It would certainly be great fun to play in it."

Wood competed in the Black Hawk Country club invitational tennis tournament here last week and won without losing a single set.

NEWSPAPER SAYS DRESSEN WILL MANAGE REDS

Cincinnati, O., July 24.—(AP)—A change in the playing management of the Cincinnati Reds, possibly before the Reds start their next home series with Chicago Saturday, was forecast by the Enquirer tonight.

"It is reasonably assured that Bob O'Farrell will be succeeded as manager by Charley Dressen," said the paper. Dressen, former third baseman with Cincinnati, has been manager of the Nashville club of the southern association for the last two years.

NOT TILL '35—DRESSEN.

Nashville, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Charley Dressen, manager of the Nashville Vols of the Southern association, was quoted tonight as saying he would not accept the managership of the Cincinnati Reds until next spring.

In order to avoid congestion officials in charge of the tourney have grouped the members into sections. Among those who are expected to participate are Chief Justice Philip Finnegan of the Criminal court, Judge Joseph H. McGarry, Superior Judge Grover C. Niemeyer, and Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

Plans for extensive development of the Mohawk Country club, Irving Park boulevard, ten miles west of Chicago in Bensenville, include the installation of a swimming pool, according to Thomas Louton, president of the club. Georgia Coleman, Olympic diving champion, is acting in an advisory capacity in the installation of the pool. Development plans also call for a watering system for the fairways of the 18 hole course and the women's 9 hole course. The plan was suggested by Lou Waldron, club professional.

The thirty-first annual Pater Pilus tournament will be held at Midlothian tomorrow. Play is at 36 holes, each team playing one ball.

MAREK'S FELLOW WORKERS TO SEE HIM BOX THOMAS

When Max Marek of Notre Dame fights Otis Thomas at White City Friday night he will have a rooting section made up of his fellow workers from the Ford exhibit at the World's Fair. Max has been working at the Ford exhibit to keep himself physically fit for the fall football practice. More than one hundred reservations have been made by the employes of the motor car exhibit for the fight Friday.

The fight between Marek and Thomas will be presented for the benefit of the Polish Youth Organization. Proceeds will be used to improve the P. Y. O. athletic center at 4637 South Ashland avenue.

Bill Harley to Discuss Semi-Pro Ball on W-G-N

William G. Harley, manager of the Chicago Mills semi-pro baseball team, will be the guest of Sports Announcer John Harrington on the W-G-N sports review tonight. Harley will speak on promising new players he has seen and conditions in the semi-pro ranks this season.

and at Providence in 1931. Twenty-five years old, he is the son of a greenskeeper and became a pro at 17. He was runnerup in this year's Massachusetts open, and has figured prominently in other events in that neighborhood.

The young New Englander was followed in the scoring by another youth and a veteran, neither of whom comes under the head of unknown. They were Ky Laffoon, the young Denver pro who has shown no regard whatsoever for par in the last year, and Wild William Mehlhorn, the reformed tree climber from Brooklyn. Each shot a morning 70 and an afternoon 69 for a 139, one stroke less than a trio which included Runyan, Craig Wood, the handsome New Jersey blond, and Victor Ghezzi, the tal Italian pro from Deal, N. J.

Celebron Wins 15th Victory; Stops Knauer

Billy Celebron, Rockford, Ill., welterweight, registered his fifteenth consecutive victory in the pro ranks last night when he stopped Frankie Knauer in the second round of a scheduled eight round bout at Western stadium.

Celebron, who is managed by Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, had Knauer on the canvas for a five count in the first round and three times in the second round before Referee Tom O'Neil stopped the bout. A crowd of 685 paid $581 to watch the fights:

Other results:

Art Sykes stopped Willard Fields [1].
Bob La Monte stopped Angelo Garlow [4].
Gary Baldwin and Joe Roman drew [4].
Curtis Brown knocked out Chuck Roberts [1].
Walter Mathys stopped Sammy Scoglio [3].

Les Marriner, two years ago a promising heavyweight candidate, has been signed to appear in an eight round semi-final to the ten round feature bout between Frank Sigilio and Davey Day at Mills stadium Monday. His opponent will be Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y.

Marriner has not boxed since early last year, when he whipped Babe Hunt in ten rounds at Oklahoma City, Okla., because of injured hands. In his latest fight here Les won a decision over Tony Cancela at the Stadium in December, 1932. Marriner showed impressively yesterday in a sparring drill with Bernie Bowman.

Honey Weaver, Aurora, Ill., welterweight, will oppose Jules San Drako in a five round battle on the amateur card tonight at Addison arena, Ashland avenue and Addison street. George Holden, Geneva, Ill., junior welterweight, meets George Nelson in another bout. Supporting matches include:

Al Van Der Bosch vs. Johnny Plavonich [3].
George Kontales vs. Walter Pellmer [wrestling].

Another delay yesterday in Superior court marked John Krone's case against Louis W. Mack of the Uptown Amusement corporation, alleging violation of an injunction restraining the corporation from interfering with a wrestling show last March. After Krone and several witnesses for the plaintiff testified, Judge Lindsay postponed hearing the defendant until the fall term, Sept. 27.

POTPOURRI.

WHETHER or not it improves pennant chances of the Cleveland Indians, now in the first division, announcement that Manager Walter Johnson, former speedball pitcher, will be retained as manager for 1935 will prevent the team from disintegrating if there was any danger of disintegration.

Nothing so demoralizes morale on a team in a pennant battle as undenied rumors that its pilot is due for the skids. Players naturally have not the same confidence in nor respect for a manager not in favor with the club owners. When such rumors become persistent the club either should make such announcement as Cleveland did or change managers in midseason, as the Cubs have done.

For some reason the idea gained credence that Johnson would not be back, although the team has been in third position. Cleveland stifled the rumors. That was beneficial both for Johnson and for the team. If for any reason the club or Johnson later decides that is not the best arrangement it is easy enough for him to resign.

The American association was so impressed by the major league all-star game, an idea originated by Arch Ward, that it fashioned one of its own. Under the A. A. plan the team leading the race played an aggregation of all-stars from the other clubs. The all-stars were selected by vote of the fans. The idea caught on and drew a good crowd, Minneapolis defeating the all-star opposition.

In considering performances of touring American track athletes it should be remembered that three separate American teams are on different tours. Defeat of Bonthron of Princeton by Jack Lovelock, however, was a distinct disappointment, especially after the Princeton miler had downed Glenn Cunningham in this country.

And here I sit while far away
My thoughts with dreams and fancies sway;

The birds are gay, the forest rings
With thrill of life that nature brings.

And as I drift I dream of home,
Of the poor boys who cannot roam,
And as I laugh at what they miss
The boss cries, "Boy, attend to this!"

High Falls Reservoir Is Well Stocked.

BY BOB BECKER.

With a combination of wilderness lakes offering large mouth black bass fishing, a trout stream with several species of trout, and several large reservoirs or flowages containing small mouth black bass, that territory between Mountain and Crivitz in northeastern Wisconsin is a good bet for the fisherman who wants a mixed bag.

Although a fisherman who still fishes or casts with a short rod can catch fish in this region it offers the most opportunities to the fly caster. It has excellently stocked bodies of water, and the one that yields some of the best strings of small mouth bass is the High Falls reservoir, which is well adapted for the fly fisherman.

Decides to Explore.

On our recent trip to this territory a few days ago we looked over some of the lakes that have large-mouthed bass in them. We had picked up a nice string of wall-eyes and small-mouthed bass from High Falls, so we decided to go exploring and check on several of the lakes.

The surprising thing about the lakes that we saw was the fact that they have no boats on them. All have bass in them, too. In fact, when the members of our party went swimming in one of these clear water, sandy bottomed lakes we could look down in and see large-mouthed bass swimming around. As soon as we saw these fish we rigged up a rod and started casting, meantime wading up to our middle along the shore. It was a cool way to fish.

Take an Old Car.

The second lake we visited was back in the woods and reached by a brush fringed, narrow road that is suitable only for an old car. Leonard Huigen, a resident in this region, piloted us over this winding road, which twisted and apparently back tracked on itself in order to get around a swamp. One flat bottomed boat was hidden on this lake which is fringed with lily pads and has a big weed bed in the middle.

We only had an hour to inspect this lake and get a line on the deep holes and the weed beds. It was hot and conditions were anything but suitable for surface fishing. But we rigged up the fly rod and by casting the middle weed beds picked up three large mouthed bass from this wilderness lake. We have a hunch that on a calm, warm night one could fool plenty of bass with fly rod lures cast over that middle weed bed.

No Boat on Lake.

On our way back to camp from this lake we traveled on a county highway which took us past another pretty fair bass lake. You can see it from the road. This was another lake that looked worth fishing. No boat was on it, however.

Anderson Flays Scouting Methods of Large Schools

South Bend, Ind., July 24.—[Special.]—Charging that the University of Southern California spent $10,000 a season to scout Notre Dame's football team, Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, former Notre Dame coach, now at North Carolina State college, criticized large universities for carrying scouting to an extreme in a talk here today.

Coach Anderson, speaking before the Optimist club, said: "Southern California scouted Notre Dame at least six or seven times before the teams met. Not only did they have whole batteries of scouts, but they took pictures of our every play. They knew exactly what our offense and defense were. They wanted to win. They spent $10,000 to get this advance information."

Back in South Bend for a short visit, Anderson revealed Notre Dame found the Army easier to defeat than most teams because Army players moved only on orders. "They wouldn't shift a tackle," he said, "until orders came from the bench."

REPORT YANKEES BEAT CUBS FOR SEAL OUTFIELDER

San Francisco, Cal., July 24.—(AP)—Despite official denials, rumors persisted today that the New York Yankees had beaten two other big league clubs for the services of Joe Di Maggio and now held an option on the San Francisco outfielder.

President Charles Graham of the Seals, in denying the reports said he had received a letter some time ago from Ed Barrows, business manager of the Yankees, in which the latter volunteered the information his club was "keenly interested in Di Maggio."

The Chicago Cubs and Boston Red Sox also are reported to be interested in Di Maggio, an able hitter and fielder.

Dykes' single over short and that was the finish of Crowder. McColl ended the rumpus without trouble.

Tietje was such an able workman during the first two innings that he didn't permit a runner to reach base. This was marred in the third by hits by Crowder and Myer after two were out. The next Senators to reach base were two who walked in the fifth. There was a double play in between the passes, hence no complications developed. Then, in the sixth the Senators came up with a homer into the right field seats by Gill and a single by Manush. The homer came first, so only one run resulted.

Tietje had another slight spasm in the seventh and for a few minutes his manager was suspected the heat was beginning to get the youngster. Kress singled to left with one out and Sewell walked, Whitehill was sent up to swing for McColl and Dykes did the rest. He scooped up a grounder hit by Whitehill, dashed over to touch second and threw to first in time to accomplish a double play.

Sam Jones probably will be saved for his 42d birthday tomorrow, so George Earnshaw may have to take care of the Sox pitching in the third with the Senators this afternoon. Walter Lefty Stewart is scheduled to start for the faded champions.

Alaska readers might be interested in the fact that it was 116 degrees on the field, 103 degrees in the press coop, and 120 on the sun drenched back porch of the press coop.

Manager Dykes, so it is rumored, is beginning to suspect that some of his boys are not vitally interested in their work. He is liable to read them the riot act any day now.

The only hit the Sox produced after sewing up the decision in the third was a single to center by Swanson in the sixth.

Jim Weaver to Seek Eighth Cub Victory Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 24.—Jim Weaver will go after his eighth straight Cub victory and his tenth straight major league triumph of the year in tomorrow's contest with the Dodgers. Tom Zachary, scheduled to pitch yesterday and also today, may pitch tomorrow.

Coach Johnny Corriden of the Cubs will go to Albany to join the army of major league scouts now swarming about Outfielder Fred Sington and Pants Powell. Sington, former tackle at the University of Alabama, is the minor league hitting sensation of several seasons. Like Riggs Stephenson, another great Alabama boy in his more active days, Freddy likes to hit 'em in the pinch. He has driven in 135 runs so far this year, an amazing record.

The Cubs haven't been notified, but National league headquarters in New York has revealed that the Cubs and Reds will move up next Monday's scheduled game for a Sunday double header.

Van Lingle Mungo, on whom the Dodgers quoted the Cubs a price of $200,000 and two regulars just before the deal deadline, fanned only two batters. He resumed his league leadership as a striker-out, however, after being tied yesterday by Dizzy Dean. Van now has fanned 118.

Grimm's Home Run Defeats Dodgers, 6-3

with the tying run. Grimm, no longer thinking about his Missouri corn, slammed a homer over the right field wall, scoring behind Babe Herman and Cuyler. Hack was safe on Frey's fumble and went to second on a wild pitch. Lee fanned and Bill Herman flied to Koenecke.

The seventh was a stormy inning, indeed. The Cubs, mindful that Lee generally blows up here in the instances when he survives the sixth, were a bit too tense. Frederick led off the inning with a single and Lee, apparently a bit terrified himself, walked Lopez. Boyle batted for Mungo and Lee threw three balls to him before regaining a semblance of his composure. Eventually Boyle flied to Klein. Koenecke then grounded to Billy Herman and the Cubs thought they had a double play, but Umpire Stewart thought otherwise.

English is Bounced.

Stripp grounded to Grimm who threw to English for a force out. The play was an easy out and Woody made the umpire's safe gesture as he started for the bench. Umpire Stewart promptly bounced the Cub captain out of the contest. This caused a swarm of Cubs to the center of the arena and Stewart flew into a frenzy of anger. Quiet eventually was restored and when the Chicagoans next took the field Galan was at short.

Lee had his third fit of the ague with two out in the ninth when he walked Lopez and Jordan, who batted for Clark. The game ended, however, when Koenecke bounced out to Grimm.

Clarence Phillips Makes Successful Debut.

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Clarence Phillips, rookie pitcher from Beaumont, made his debut with Detroit today and helped the Tigers defeat the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 3. Manager Cochrane sent him in during the fifth inning as the Red Sox suddenly got to Fischer for three runs. Phillips took the mound with two out and forced Reynolds to pop out. Thereafter the rookie checked the Red Sox with four scattered hits. Score:

So it is with tobaccos. One year's crop will be vastly better than the next—from the same fertile fields.

To assure smokers of a mild, fragrant cigar . . . to maintain consistent high quality—the General Cigar Company uses only the pick of American filler tobaccos in White Owls. Tobaccos especially favored by nature—Vintage tobaccos.

Our buyers go wherever the Vintage crops grow—and purchase only those tobaccos which can pass our Grade A standard. No other tobacco is ever used in White Owl fillers.

Look for the Grade A Vintage Mark

Now you can pay 5¢ for a cigar and know what you're smoking. The Grade A Vintage mark is your assurance of a mild, mellow smoke. Look for this mark when you next select a cigar.

How White Owl Smokers are Protected

THE General Cigar Company maintains a comprehensive Crop Inspection System built up over the last ten years. By this means, we learn the condition of nearly every tobacco district in Pennsylvania and Ohio—the two states which produce practically all the cigar filler tobacco grown in the United States.

So accurate is this inspection system that every vintage crop can be forecast, and our buyers are on the spot to purchase the best of it for White Owls.

But vintage tobaccos alone are not enough. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades. And only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades passes White Owl's strict requirements for its Grade A filler tobacco. No other filler tobacco is ever used in White Owls. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

At the present moment, we have sufficient Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly 1 billion White Owls—more than a two-year supply. With this tremendous reserve, we can assure every White Owl smoker of a continued supply of the mild, fragrant cigars which Vintage tobaccos yield.

TODAY IN TRIAL FOR FUTURITY AT ARLINGTON TODAY

Whitney Colt Returns to Races in Biloxi.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney will show his ace card for the Arlington Futurity in the Biloxi purse, a six furlong dash, at Arlington Park this afternoon.

Today is the colt which easterners are hailing as the new 2 year old champion and the young fellow which the Whitney forces believe will take down the major portion of the $60,000 prize Saturday.

Today will carry 109 pounds this afternoon and will be ridden by Jocky Sonny Workman. He will be opposed by six other Futurity eligibles, including Max Hirsch's Dignitary, a rival from the east, and three western stars, Top Dog, owned by Elmer Dale Shaffer, Fort Springs from the Hal Price Headley stable, and Calumet farm's Nellie Flag.

Only Two Starts.

Today, a son of Whichone-Afternoon, has started only twice. He was fourth in the Juvenile stakes at Belmont Park, then became the talk of New York when he won an overnight affair by dashing five furlongs in 59 seconds. In a drill a few days later, he bucked his shins and today's race will mark his return to competition.

There were a number of important trials for the Futurity yesterday. Prince Splendor, owned by T. C. Worden of Chicago, went five furlongs in a minute flat, while Toro Nancy, owned by Norman W. Church of Los Angeles, and second to Motto in the Lassie stakes, ran five furlongs in :58 2-5. Toro Nancy rounded out six furlongs in 1:12.

Purse May Reach $60,000.

There is already $47,820 in the Futurity pot. There is a starting fee of $1,000 for each horse that goes to the post. A starting field of 22 appeared possible yesterday, so the gross value of the purse probably will run above $60,000.

The prospective starting field follows:

Horse.	Weight.	Owner.
Special Agent	117	Brookemeade stable
Nellie Flag	114	Calumet Farm
Skip It	117	Calumet Farm
Toro Nancy	112	Norman W. Church
Blue Beard	117	W. R. Coe

Debs Delight	117	Dixiana
Preeminent	117	Hal Price Headley
Fort Springs	117	Hal Price Headley
Conte	115	Mrs. John Hertz
Dignitary	115	Max Hirsch
Bubbling Mate	117	J. and H. Scheitler
Gallaclay	117	Milky Way farm
Blue Armor	115	Milky Way farm
Albuquerque	117	Rookwood Farm St.
Top Dog	117	Elmer Dale Shaffer
St. Bernard	117	Elmer Dale Shaffer
Bye-Lo	114	Mrs. Roy Carruthers
Race Craft	117	Mrs. Roy Carruthers
Mid Victorian	114	Warm Stable
Today	117	C. V. Whitney
Prince Splendor	117	T. C. Worden

Last night John Hertz, chairman of the Arlington Jocky club executive committee, announced both the Lassie stakes and Futurity will be renewed again next season. There will be $20,000 in added money to the Futurity prize and $10,000 for the Lassie. Nominations will close on Wednesday, Sept. 5.

Open to Geldings.

Conditions of the Futurity call for a first subscription of $10, second payment of $35 due Jan. 15, and third payment of $50 due May 15. The starting fee will be $1,000. The Lassie first payment will be $10, the second $20 and third $50, with starting fee $1,000.

The Futurity, which has been the second richest juvenile race in the country for two years, again will be open to geldings. The Lassie is now the richest filly contest offered in America.

Legal Betting Doubles Gate on N.Y. Tracks

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Attendance has nearly doubled, gate receipts have increased more than 100 per cent, and the state has profited so far to the extent of $129,629.50 in revenue since betting was legalized at the New York race tracks.

This was the evidence contained today in the state racing commission's report covering the first sixty-four days of the season, and including the meetings at Belmont Park, Aqueduct, and Jamaica.

State's Profit Large.

On this basis the state figures to collect close to $300,000 for the entire 1934 season, comprising 163 days of sport. Last year and during the twenty-six year period when open wagering was illegal, the state received no income from horse racing.

The commission's report shows 413,962 fans paid $1,292,327.68 as compared with totals of 212,065 and $503,174.36 for the corresponding period last year. The horsemen also profited, as the three associations boosted the total amount paid out in purses from $413,850 to $550,280.

Belmont Park Leads.

Belmont Park, largest of the three tracks, had the greatest attendance and receipts. A total of 184,414 attended, but only 156,608 were cash customers. The state received $52,256.71 from the receipts of $532,068.28. Last year the stockholders stood a loss of more than $50,000 in purse money alone when the course attracted only 83,343, who paid in $190,537.46.

Jamaica and Aqueduct fared about equal. The former, opening the season in April, attracted on attendance of 120,102 and had receipts of $379,532 as compared to 109,446 and $380,709.60 for Aqueduct. The state received $37,890.18 from Jamaica and $39,482.70 from Aqueduct.

JAY VEE caused a jam at the first turn; much the best, disposed of PRINCE DOO with ease, set the pace under stout restraint, then drew out readily when urged and could have won by a greater margin. BERT JOHN, given a sterling ride, encountered slight interference at the first turn, was allowed to remain out of contention for half a mile, then saved ground while gaining, was lucky to get through a narrow opening at the stretch head, and outgamed GRAMARYE in the drive. Latter, prominent throughout, held on with good courage under punishment.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Depositors Get Less, Reports Show.

A falling off in productivity of remaining assets in the 146 closed banks in Cook county is reflected in figures released yesterday by the state auditor's office for the quarter ended June 30.

Receipts for the period were $2,114,535 to bring the liquidation total to $87,639,841. Depositors and secured creditors, however, shared less than one-fourth of the quarterly yield. Prior to March 31 they had received three-fourths of all money realized through the receiverships. Payments to depositors in the 146 banks during the last three months amounted to $435,707, while preferred and secured claimants received $94,721.

Expenditures Are Heavy.

The largest item of expenditure in the last quarter was $846,678 to protect assets through tax payments and maintenance of property. This also includes attorney's fees and incidental court costs and represents a shade under 37 per cent of the total disbursements for the quarter.

Clerk hire and miscellaneous expenses totaled $575,927, or one-fourth of all disbursements.

Attorneys took 13 per cent of the payments since April 1. Fees for services before Jan. 1, 1933, were $39,481, while $262,031 was paid for work since that date for a total of $301,510.

The consolidation of receiverships under William L. O'Connell is reflected in market savings to depositors. The $42,995 paid out in receivers' fees represents less than 2 per cent of the quarter's expenditures.

Immediate future liquidation in a number of cases depends on the success or failure of pending applications for loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Fifty-eight such applications are before the RFC now.

No Payments Made.

None of the 20 banks on which reports were issued yesterday has paid a dividend in the last three months, and little or no progress has been made toward one except by negotiations with the RFC. Six have paid nothing to depositors since they closed. The best record is held by the Belmont-Sheffield Trust and Savings bank and the Central Oak Park State bank, each of which has returned 40 per cent.

The Central Manufacturing bank, which has declared no dividends and owes creditors $2,841,136, showed most activitiy. Its $46,500 receipts was the largest of this group of institutions. It also paid more to attorneys than others—a total of $51,992.50 to the firm of Litsinger, Healy, Reid, and Bye. This was the first time fees have been allowed since the bank closed June 24, 1932. It advanced $15,000 to protect assets, bring this item to $385,541. No cash is available for dividends, though $239,603 is held for other purposes.

Builders-Merchants Report.

Quarterly receipts of $40,000 were reported by the Builders and Merchants Bank and Trust company. Paid out was $5,000 in preferred claims, $6,600 in attorney's fees, $5,800 for clerk hire, and $15,400 to protect assets. On hand is $50,000 for dividends—less than 2 per cent. Twenty-five per cent has been paid.

The Calumet City State bank report shows that creditors have received only $38,532.60 out of receipts of $102,613.66. This includes a 10 per cent dividend of $31,634.51. The remainder, except for $5,854 in cash for other than dividends, has gone to pay various costs.

Cash on hand for all 146 banks in liquidation had shrunk from $6,392,378 on March 31 to $6,206,737 on June 30. The latter includes $1,864,306 applicable to future dividends and $4,342,431 in trust for other purposes, such as payment of secured claims and loans.

A recapitulation of liquidation to June 30, 1934:

For the second quarter of this year net income was $11,925,444, or 96 cents a share on the du Pont stock, against $8,974,743, or 68 cents a share, in the corresponding period of last year.

Current assets as of June 30 were $133,501,413, and current liabilities were $15,988,901. The current assets included $24,887,487 in cash and $50,666,318 in securities, of which $35,220,000 was represented by marketable securities. The company's investment in 10,000,000 shares of General Motors stock was carried at $157,000,000, or $15.70 a share, which closely corresponded to the net asset value shown by the balance sheet of the General Motors corporation at Dec. 31, 1933.

DOLLAR STEADY AGAINST POUND, FRANC; MARK OFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—Foreign exchanges held steady here today, with the exception of German marks, which sagged 12 points to 38.80.

The pound sterling remained at $5.04¼ and French francs also were unchanged at 6.59⅛ cents.

The franc went through an early period of weakness which opened the door again for gold shipments of moderate size from Paris to New York. The low rate during the session was 6.58⅞ cents, at which figure banks were accumulating francs for use in the purchase of gold from the Bank of France. However, gold from Paris on the current movement has not yet begun to arrive.

The New York Federal Reserve bank recorded the receipt of $1,110,200 gold from England today and an additional receipt of $36,200 from India for Monday. There were no exports and no net changes in gold held under earmark for foreign account. The price of gold in London advanced a half penny to 137 shillings 11 pence a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.77], and an amount valued at about $2,239,337 changed hands.

DRAINAGE BOND HOLDERS ASSAIL RFC VALUATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—A movement to bring together into a single protective organization the widely scattered holders of drainage and levee district bonds, totaling hundreds of millions of dollars, is being sponsored by the National Association of Investors in Drainage and Levee District Securities, Inc.

This organization has voiced a complaint against the appraisals being made by agents of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, claiming that they are in most instances so low as to be confiscatory. The RFC appraisals are being made in connection with applications by districts in all parts of the country for federal loans as a means of making settlements with bondholders.

The association is informed that applications now pending with the RFC total $280,000,000, and in most instances the funds are to be used to make a compromise with security holders. Appraisals in many instances are being made so low that bondholders can expect settlements as low as 25 cents on the dollar.

Rail Officials Strike Snag in RateBoostPlan

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Sharp differences of opinion are reported to have arisen among railroad trafic executives who have been trying at closed sessions in the Drake hotel to discover a way for raising $360,000,000 of additional revenues without driving business to their competitors.

The roads are being forced to find the extra $360,000,000 to meet increased operating costs resulting from wage boosts, a pension increase and higher priced supplies, including coal, oil, etc., due to the operation of NRA codes.

It is said the lines do not propose to put in effect a blanket increase in freight rates, seeking instead to secure additional revenues through raising rates on such trafic as will not be driven into the hands of truck and waterway competitors. Also they do not want to boost rates on commodities where such increases would stop the demand for the commodities.

Parley Drawn Out.

As a result the conferences are developing into long drawn out affairs, with close study made of each commodity suggested as being a possibility for a rate increase.

An example of what the group is up against is cited in the case of coal. An executive of one eastern line has pointed out that the imposition of 10 to 12½ per cent increases on coal, with no exemption on short haul trafic, will mean the virtual destruction of his road's short haul coal business. He pointed out that almost 30 per cent of the proposed increased revenues from the country are expected to be obtained from increases in rates on eastern district and Pocahontas region mine products.

This coal is now mainly marketed along the Atlantic coast where oil and hydro-electric competition are most pronounced. If rates here are increased, the executive intimated, there may be expected further sharp decreases in the demand for this coal, with consequent loss of revenue to his road.

Base Rates Complicate Plan.

Another example cited was lumber shipment from the northwest and California. Northwest shippers pay a considerably lower rate than do the California shippers on lumber sent to Chicago. If a uniform rate of increase is applied to shipments from both sections of the country the California group would suffer most because with a higher present base rate any increase would bear most heavily on its products. The California interests fear that any substantial increase in the freight rate on their lumber would drive the business to competitors. The same situation applies to other commodities up for consideration, it was stated.

BRITISH INCOME TAX COLLECTION ABOVE LAST YEAR

LONDON, July 24.—The government's income tax receipts are substantially ahead of last year's, according to the weekly revenue returns issued tonight. The last week's yield of £2,849,000 was larger than the corresponding week a year ago and the total now stands at £26,687,000, or £1,591,000 in excess of 1933.

Receipts from customs estate duties are also higher and the total ordinary revenue at £15,226,723 represents a gain of almost £2,000,000 compared with a year ago. Total ordinary expenditure was £11,387,398, about £2,200,000 higher than a year ago.

Mercantile Exchange Plans to Close Early for Field Day

Trading in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange will be closed at 11 a. m. tomorrow because of the annual field day of the exchange at Itasca Country club.

FEDERAL COMMISSION, STOCK MARKET HEADS CONFER ON NEW LAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Preliminary discussions involving the administration of the securities and exchange law were held today by New York Stock exchange officials and the securities and exchange commission.

The conference lasted more than five hours, during which the law's provisions governing the registration of exchanges, listing of securities, and the marginal provisions were informally discussed. It was the first of many conferences which the commission will hold with members of the principal exchanges of the country, bankers and others familiar with the conditions which the new law seeks to correct.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the commission, said after the conference: "It was just an informal talk, during which the members of the commission and the representatives of the New York Stock exchange discussed some of the more important matters facing the commission. There will be further conferences of the same kind in the near future."

The commission is still occupying temporary quarters in the federal trade commission and may not move for four or five weeks into its new quarters in the old Interstate Commerce Commission building. It had expected to move this week.

BOARD OF TRADE EXPELS FISHER, ELECTS OTHERS

F. E. Fisher was expelled as a member of the Chicago Board of Trade and two applicants were elected to membership at a meeting yesterday of the exchange's directors. Fisher and his firm, F. E. Fisher & Co. of Knoxville, Tenn., had previously been suspended for insolvency.

The applicants elected to membership are Michael J. Meehan, New York broker, and Clarence K. Reynolds, partner of Granberry & Co. Meehan, formerly a member of the board, is partner of the brokerage firm bearing his name and was one of the better known operators in the stock market during the boom era. The directors also approved John C. Lyons & Co. for membership in the exchange clearing house.

A seat on the exchange sold yesterday for $7,400, $100 less than the previous sale price.

HUDSON MOTOR QUARTER PROFIT BEST SINCE 1931

Hudson Motor Car company reported yesterday that net earnings for the quarter ended June 30 amounted to $184,685 after all charges. This was the largest profit for any period since the second quarter of 1931, and compares with net profit of $164,540 for the June quarter last year.

Profit was equal to 12 cents a share on 1,596,660 no par shares outstanding against 10 cents a share in the second quarter of 1933. Roy D. Chapin, president, stated there has been a satisfactory increase in working capital since Jan. 1, and that cash in banks June 30 exceeded accounts payable, none of which were yet due.

STOCKS ERASE EARLY RALLY; DROP SHARPLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—After staging an afternoon rally of moderate proportions, stocks ran into a new selling wave today and earlier small gains were converted into recessions ranging from fractions to nearly 5 points. The rise and subsequent sell-off was accompanied by active trading which resulted in a turnover of around a million and three-quarter shares.

The selling tide, which reached its high mark in the final fifteen minutes of trading, converged at first on U. S. Steel and rapidly spread to other popular leaders in the list. In the course of the reversal Steel was pushed down to a new low for the year. Trading was most heavy on the downside and was sufficiently fast to put the high speed ticker more than two minutes behind the market.

Early Rally Feeble.

Weakness of the early recovery was demonstrated by the ease with which the reversal was accomplished, which in turn indicated the nervousness of traders over the general business outlook and their eagerness for profits, however small they may be. Selling of Steel and other pivotal stocks was a reflection of a quick turnabout for profits in the face of the market's long struggle for a sustained rise.

Margin selling from distressed accounts was reported as the decline gained headway.

Chief among the bearish factors overhanging the market is the damage caused by the drouth. The dearth of rain is not only nation-wide, but Europe is also suffering from the same whim of nature.

See Industrial Lag.

Traders are beginning to reason that the west is not going to be a good buyer for the next several months, regardless of how much federal money is poured into the breach. It is the consequent belief among speculators that all industries are due to feel the repercussion.

Concern over the financial plight of the nation's railroads is another underlying reason for the market's feebleness. Persistent selling of carrier common stocks the last few weeks is blamed for maintaining lower prices throughout the list. Although the roads have shown recovery over last year, there are many which are still failing to meet fixed charges.

The sharpest decline of the day was recorded by Case Threshing, which finished off 4⅞ points. Harvester dipped more than 1, and Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck were weak to a similar extent. These shares were disposed of in accord with weakness in grains and further news of drouth aggravation.

Steel Resists Selling.

While U. S. Steel was the butt of the late selling, it stood up well and finished with only a fractional recession. The same was true of most other industrial leaders like American Can, du Pont, and General Electric. Chrysler, General Motors and other motor shares enjoyed early buying but later dipped fractionally.

Allied Chemical stood out on the downside most of the day and closed more than 2 points off. Socony-Vacuum was under pressure and set a poor example for a sluggish oil division.

New York Central was conspicuous for a small net advance. Other carriers softened in unison, with Southern Railway closing down more than a point. Utilities indicated a soldout condition, as they refused to give much ground.

ROAD ENDS DEATH BENEFITS; FEARS PENSION COSTS

Topeka, Kas., July 24.—(AP)—Employés of the Santa Fe railroad were notified today that effective July 26, the railroad would abolish its death benefit plan for employés, in force since 1916.

Notices over the signature of S. T. Bledsoe, president of the road, said elimination of the death benefits was made necessary in view of the "large payments which these companies [the Santa Fe and its subsidiaries] may be compelled to make under the railroad retirement act."

Most Margin Calls in Year Sent Out as Stocks Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—The largest number of margin calls in a year have been sent by stock exchange firms to their customers in the last two days, a survey of representative firms showed today. However, the amount of money asked to strengthen weakened accounts has not been large, brokers reported. Small speculators have been hit most heavily in the decline, the survey brought out.

One firm reported that of its 6,000 margin customers 1,100 received calls on Monday night, while another heavy demand was sent out last evening. The customer's response to the request for additional money or collateral has been in most cases in the form of an order to sell part or all of his holdings. One broker described the responses as "poor."

Average Call Is $500.

The average margin call of one firm was for a little more than $500 from several hundred customers. The number of margin calls this week had not been exceeded since July, 1933, when the average of fifty stocks dropped from 93.95 to 76.53 in three days, brokers asserted.

Weakness in the low priced stocks in which small traders have been concentrating their operations has been the chief cause of the requests to protect holdings, brokers said. Several stocks selling below $15 a share have been halved in value in the last week, although the average of fifty stocks has declined only from 84.52 to 79.52 since the beginning of the month.

Margin Rules Changed.

In the last year many stock exchange firms have been carrying on margin stocks selling below $5 a share when they were acceptable to banks as call loans. When the stock exchange for the first time formulated margin requirements for member firms last August it barred the carrying on margin of stocks selling at less than $5 a share.

Two months later, however, on Oct. 3, it announced that the practical working out of the requirements had "militated against stocks selling below $5 a share," and the exchange therefore withdrew its objection.

HOLC to Pay Only 2¾ Pct. on New Bonds

Further reduction in the interest rate on Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds was revealed last night in an announcement from Washington that a new issue of 2¾ per cent bonds will replace the 3 per cent issue now being exchanged for mortgages on distressed small homes.

Originally the bonds bore an interest rate of 4 per cent, but following guarantee of principal, as well as interest, by the federal government, the rate was scaled to 3 per cent and holders given six months in which to exchange their bonds for the new issue. The offer expires Dec. 1.

New Bonds After Aug. 1.

No loan authorizations will be made by the HOLC between July 27 and Aug. 1, the board's announcement said. After the latter date only the new 2¾s will be paid out on loans.

This will include cases in which the mortgage holder has already given consent to the exchange. Such mortgages will be given the option of declining acceptance of the lower interest bonds or of consenting to the exchange under the altered conditions.

Mature in Five Years.

The new issue matures Aug. 1, 1939, while maturity of the 3 per cent liens is ten years later—1949.

Under the home loan act two billion dollars of home loan bonds, fully guaranteed by the government, may be issued to relieve hard pressed home owners. It also provides for rehabilitation, enlargement, repairs, and maintenance of structures.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—A continued gain in chain stores' sales in June in the New York federal reserve district was reported today by the New York federal reserve bank.

June sales of the reporting chain store systems were approximately 9½ per cent higher than a year ago, a somewhat smaller increase than occurred in the previous month. Sales of the candy chains again showed a substantial gain over a year ago, which, after making allowance for one more Saturday this year than last, was about the same as last month's increase.

Ten cent and variety chain store sales also continued well above a year ago, but in each case the percentage increase was not quite as large as in May. Sales of chain drug stores were only one per cent higher than a year ago, the least favorable comparison in four months. Sales of grocery and shoe chains were smaller than a year ago following increases in May.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—With the more restrictive provisions of the securities and exchange act not fully operative until Oct. 1, some Wall street operators are busy establishing avenues for their evasion.

Manipulators of the market are especially concerned with means of evading regulations against pools and in their search for loopholes they are reported to be looking toward foreign cities. In fact, it was rumored today, one large pool is being organized for operation from London next September, one month ahead of imposition of the securities and exchange commission's rulings.

With the removal of traders from the New York field of operations to the financial centers of foreign countries, members of the exchange here also are preparing for business originating in London, Paris, and Canada. Already ten additional firms have opened foreign branches, bringing the total to fifty-nine.

From informed sources it was learned that the plan is for all pools, wash sales, and other manipulative trading prohibited by the new law to be handled from these foreign centers. Orders will be placed either by agents of the operators abroad or by "round trip" cables.

While these developments are not unknown to the securities and exchange commission, it is recognized that foreign operators will be outside the jurisdiction of the commission. This would make it difficult for the commission to check the growth of foreign pools and other illegal transactions on the American exchanges.

REPORT BANKERS CONFER ON PLAN FOR STUDEBAKER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—Tentative plans for reorganizing the Studebaker corporation under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy laws were being informally discussed here today by a banking group including Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Lehman Brothers, and an unnamed middle western concern, it was reported today.

Creditor representatives gave tentative approval to details of the plan last week when presented with a preliminary outline, it was said, although partners in the local houses mentioned in today's conference withheld comment on any feature of the deal. The proposal is said to provide for obtaining new capital and segregating affairs of the White Motor company, which is 95 per cent controled by Studebaker.

It is reported former Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, who heads a noteholders' committee, is active in the negotiations.

MEAGER RELIEF HOPES DEPRESS GRAIN PRICES

Reaction Technical; Wheat Off 1¼ to 2¼c.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Only a meager promise of relief for crops suffering from the long siege of dry, hot weather sent the grain market into another sharp decline yesterday, with prices of all grains tumbling. The recession in wheat extended to 2¼ cents a bushel and corn futures lost as much as 1⅝ cents.

Coming as it did without any material change in fundamental conditions the slump in values emphasizes the condition which the market is now in as a result of the big advance which began July 10, the day the government reported on crop conditions. This rise continued almost without interruption until the close of last week. The big increase in the open interest in both corn and wheat laid the foundation for the current decline, which in market parlance is known as a "technical reaction."

Fundamentals Unchanged.

The market declined on the possibility of a change in weather conditions rather than any actual change, although private reports from northern Nebraska and the Dakotas said rains were received. The weather forecast gave promise of cooler weather in the northwest with the probability of showers developing. Excessive temperatures were reported over wide areas of the grain belt.

It is estimated by one grain firm that around 40,000,000 bushels of wheat have been hedged in the futures market since the beginning of the harvest in early June, and the opinion is expressed that these hedges have not been fully digested. Thus the current weakness in prices is regarded as a "technical" market development rather than a material change in the outlook for crops.

Country Selling Lessens.

Purchases of cash grains in the country slowed up yesterday, and the bookings of grain for shipment to Chicago were materially under the previous day's figures. Some outside markets were reported to be bidding better prices for cash corn than were Chicago dealers.

What bearish feeling was engendered by the weather forecast was abetted by weakness in cotton and security markets. While the action of stocks or other commodities may not be a sound basis for judging the trend of the grain market, it does have an influence when traders are watching for straws indicating the direction of the wind.

The final quotation on September wheat was 96⅞ cents a bushel, or 1¼ cents below the Monday price. It was in the December contract that the 2¼ cent decline took place, carrying the price down to 99⅜, the first time in several days that this delivery has closed below the dollar mark.

Corn Closes at 64¾ Cents.

Losses in corn ranged from 1⅞ to 1⅝ cents a bushel with the September delivery finishing at 64¾. Oats lost around 1 cent a bushel and rye was down 1⅜ to 1⅝. December barley fell back more than 2 cents a bushel.

Confirming evidence that the spring wheat crop in the three big producing provinces in Canada has undergone heavy deterioration was contained in the report yesterday of the Searle Grain company of Winnipeg. The firm reported the weighted average condition of the crop in the prairies at 62 per cent of normal against 77 per cent two weeks ago and 55 per cent at this time last year.

There has been no improvement in the corn outlook in the southwest. Reports continue in a uniformly pessimistic yein. Prospects in Illinois are contingent on whether additional moisture is received soon. The crop is now in the middle of its crucial period.

PERSONAL LOAN LEASES CHICAGO TRUST QUARTERS

BY A.L. CHASE.

The Personal Loan and Savings bank, formerly known as the Morris Plan bank, now at 105 West Madison street, yesterday signed a ten year lease for the former banking quarters of the Chicago Trust company at 81 West Monroe street. This building, at the southeast corner of Clark and Monroe streets, was the birthplace of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, in November, 1914. It was once the Rector building.

In addition to occupying the entire second floor the Personal Loan and Savings bank will have a large security vault in the basement, reached by a private automatic elevator for transporting coin and securities.

Will Move Aug. 25.

According to Varty & Co., manager of the building, which negotiated the lease, the lessees will move into their new quarters Aug. 25. A few alterations are to be made prior to that date.

Need for more space and a desire to be nearer the center of the financial district were given by Willoughby G. Walling, president of the bank, as reasons for the contemplated change.

"The move means no deviation from the bank's present policies, but merely marks an onward step," he said. "Seventeen years of successful operation have proven the soundness of the principle on which the Personal Loan and Savings bank was founded.

Established in 1917.

"We're confident that the opportunity to continue making small loans under banking standards will be even greater in the future than in the past. To meet these needs the bank should be located nearer the heart of the financial district and should have more room for expansion."

Mr. Walling stated the Personal Loan and Savings bank, with invested capital of $3,300,000, is the fifth largest bank organized under the state banking laws. It was established in 1917 at 21 North La Salle street as an outgrowth of the First State Industrial Wage Loan society. In 1929 it moved to its present location at Clark and Madison.

Since it was organized the bank has made 456,200 loans for $111,400,000. According to Mr. Walling, it now has 25,000 active accounts.

FUGARD NAMED CONSULTANT ON PWA HOUSING

John Reed Fugard, former president of the Illinois Society of Architects and chairman of the Metropolitan Housing council of Chicago, yesterday received notice from Washington that he had been appointed a consultant of the housing division of the Public Works administration by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

He will be on the staff of Col. Horatio B. Hackett, head of the housing division, but will remain in Chicago.

Representatives of the Metropolitan Housing council and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission met yesterday at the Congress hotel and discussed plans for providing living quarters for families who have been forced to move out of demolished buildings. No definite plans were decided upon.

New York, July 24.—The listed bond market moved lower again today. Domestic corporation bonds bore the brunt of the selling with industrial bonds especially weak. Foreign loans showed minor irregularities, while United States government issues were generally easier, closing off 8-32ds to up 2-32ds point. The only gainers in the government group were obligations of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Volume Slightly Higher.

Total transactions on the stock exchange today reached $11,740,000 compared with $11,399,000 on the previous day. The turnover in the government issues was less than $2,000,000.

Losses in the domestic corporation list ranged from small fractions to 8 points, although most of the issues which were active held declines or more than a point or two.

Next to the industrials, the rails came in for active selling. The weaker rail issues included liens of the Alleghany corporation, Ann Arbor, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake corporation, Chicago and Northwestern, Great Northern, Illinois Central, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, and the Southern Pacific.

German Loans Irregular.

In the foreign group, German loans were irregularly lower although prices generally fluctuated within very narrow limits. The government 7s recovered ⅝ of a point while the 5½s held unchanged in quiet dealings. French government, United Kingdom, and Australian government loans pointed higher. Latin American issues were dull, with the Argentine government loans losing further ground.

Two North Side Buildings File Reorganization Pleas

Reorganization of two apartment properties at Howard street and Bosworth avenue was sought in federal court yesterday under the amended bankruptcy law. The Broadmoor Building corporation, operator of an apartment hotel at 1532-44 Howard street and 7600-12 Bosworth avenue, listed liabilities of $515,000. The building is the principal asset. The Maeburn Building corporation lists property at 1514-26 Howard street and 7601-11 Bosworth avenue. Liabilities are placed at $230,000. Both petitions were voluntary.

American Machine and Foundry.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate information regarding American Machine and Foundry. I am contemplating purchasing this security.—G. H. A.

Answer: Control of important cigar and cigaret making machinery patents gives this company a virtual monopoly in its field. Its research department has been active. In 1933 the company introduced a machine capable of turning out 1,800 cigarets a minute, triple the previous maximum capacity. A machine capable of turning out 2,200 cigarets a minute is now available for distribution.

Some diversification has been achieved by manufacture of machines for printing, paper, and bread baking industries, but this is still relatively unimportant.

Rapid growth of cigaret smoking during the last ten years is the major factor in the company's earnings record. Another of great importance is the drop in cigar prices, which forced many cigar producers to turn to machine production.

1933	$22,432,000	$ 717,000	$0.72
1932	14,708,000	1,116,000	1.12
1931	4,916,000	1,716,000	1.72
1930	6,881,000	2,931,000	2.83

Earnings in the previous six years varied from a high of $2,561,000 to a low of $113,000.

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong, with current assets more than ten times current liabilities. Funded debt totals $729,000. There are outstanding 1,000,000 shares of no par stock, which pay 20 cents per share a quarter. The stock is medium grade.

State and 11th Street Building.

Investors' Guide: All bonds on the State and 11th Street building, Chicago, are turned in except the $1,000 bond held by me. I am advised that the bond can be sold for 50 per cent of the face value. Will you please give me some information on it so I can decide?—K. H. E.

Answer: We find that a foreclosure sale of the property was held about a month ago. Nondepositors' share of the proceeds is 55 cents on the dollar. There will be an additional payment of the pro rata share of the income from the building during the period of redemption, which expires in August or September, 1935.

We suggest you send your bond to the Chicago Title and Trust company, requesting your pro rata share of the proceeds of the sale. They will then stamp your bond and return it to you with a check. When the period of redemption expires send your bond through again for payment of the additional proceeds.

FARMERS TAKING CORN-HOG PLAN AWAIT PAYMENT

Contracts Approved in Half of Illinois Counties.

Urbana, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—More than half of Illinois' 102 counties now have their AAA corn-hog contract totals approved by the state board of review and are on the final stretch toward the $35,000,000 in benefit payments to be received by farmers in this state cooperating in the government's adjustment program. However, no payments have been received yet.

The allotment committees in fifty-three counties have adjusted the contracts of their farmers to meet the corn and hog production quotas set by the state board of review and are now typing the contracts in the final form to be sent to Washington, it was announced today by the extension service of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, which has supervised the educational and organization phases of the AAA campaign in this state.

Contracts Are Completed.

A few of the counties have completed the typing of some of their contracts, have had the agreements signed the second time by the producers, and have started a number of bundles of contracts on the way to the secretary of agriculture. In these early counties the first benefit payment checks may be expected within the next few days, it is believed.

A dozen other counties may complete their adjustments and have their allotments approved this week, it is said.

Wisconsin Gets Payment.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Corn-hog payments are beginning to trickle into Wisconsin and farm administration officials predicted a flood of dollars would be pouring into the farmers' pockets in a short time. The state's quota of benefit payments under the production control program is $7,937,800, to be paid in three instalments. The first instalment totals $3,360,400.

Latest compilations showed today only $224,000 of the state's share had actually been paid, but officials pointed to activity among Wisconsin county corn-hog associations as evidence contracts would be speedily signed.

Approximately $1,650,000 in corn-hog payments have gone into the pockets of Minnesota farmers in recent weeks and another $5,000,000 will be along soon. The farm administration has fixed the state's ultimate quota at $14,875,680, to be paid in three instalments, the first of which will total $6,498,800.

HEAT AND DROUTH ADD TO CANADIAN GRAIN DAMAGE

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24.—(AP)—Another week of extremely high temperatures and limited rainfall caused further damage to the prairie grain crops, a bulletin of the dominion bureau of statistics reported today. The drouth became more severe in areas previously affected and even extended into districts where crops were good.

The grain has now reached an advanced stage when heavy rains are required rather than light showers such as have been falling, the report continues. Most of the wheat is in head, some is filling, and the earliest fields are already turning color.

Grasshoppers are migrating in large numbers but are not causing any great or widespread damage. The northern or park lands of all three west prairie provinces have promising crops of wheat, coarse grains and hay, and the recent warm weather has been of more benefit than harm to them. Most of the wheat areas of Manitoba are suffering from drouth.

The grain crops of southern central Saskatchewan have deteriorated rapidly under high temperatures and limited rainfall.

JONES-LAUGHLIN PROFIT IS FIRST SINCE EARLY 1931

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 24.—(AP)—The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation today showed a profit for the three months of operation ending June 30, the first quarterly profit since early in 1931.

Net income after deducting taxes, depreciation, depletion, and interest, was $856,253. This compares with net losses of $1,924,524 in the first quarter of this year and of $1,682,801 in the second quarter of 1933.
